Diary of Co-Pilot Reveals Epic Story of Rickenbacker

TRIBUNE GETS FIRST FULL ACCOUNT OF SEA HEROISM

How 8 Men Fought the Elements—and 7 Won.

(The Tribune this morning begins publication of an epic of men against the sea unparalleled in modern times. It is the day by day account of the three weeks spent in tiny rubber life rafts by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and seven companions in the shark ridden equatorial Pacific. It is told here by Lt. James C. Whittaker of the army transport command, co-pilot of the Flying Fortress which went down in the Pacific out of fuel and set the party adrift. From Oct. 21 to mid-November, Lt. Whittaker entered in his diary the daily prayers and Scripture readings of eight men who had found God in adversity and who depended upon Him to lead them out.)

This is the story of eight men against the trackless Pacific; of seven who came back and one who did not. It is the story of 21 days in which we drifted 500 miles along the equator in day time heat that scalded and night time cold that numbed.

Thirst, hunger, sharks, and the ever present shadow of death were our constant companions on an empty ocean that stretched away beneath an empty sky as far as the eye could see.

This is the first complete account of what we endured, felt, and thought from last Oct. 21, when our B-17 Flying Fortress went into the sea somewhere southwest of Hawaii, until Nov. 14, when I was rescued on my 41st birthday. The events that follow are told in the sequence I set them down in my diary, whose pages were spray soaked each night and dried out in the blazing sunlight each day. Salt still encrusts its pages.

Cheers and Cusses Men.

Those were three weeks in which the nation mourned as dead its great war ace of 1917-'18—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker. During those three weeks he was winning a battle of leadership that saved more than one of his companions from self-destruction.

He was a leader who never doubted. He cheered them and he cussed them. He gave them confidence they would be saved. There were times when they vowed to live if only to spite Eddie Rickenbacker.

For me, those blazing days represent the greatest adventure a man can have—the one in which he finds his God. We met as strangers in the watery wastes along the equator. We might have remained strangers.

Events Change His Life.

I was an agnostic; an atheist, if you will. But from my companions I learned to pray. I saw prayer answered. There are no atheists in the foxholes of Guadalcanal and there can be no atheists in rubber rafts amid whitecaps and sharks. My entire life has been changed by the events that began Oct. 20, 1942. It is a day I'll never forget.

The big Flying Fortress bomber stood on the line at Hickam field, Honolulu, its four motors warmed up for the dash to the mainland. We were a happy gang

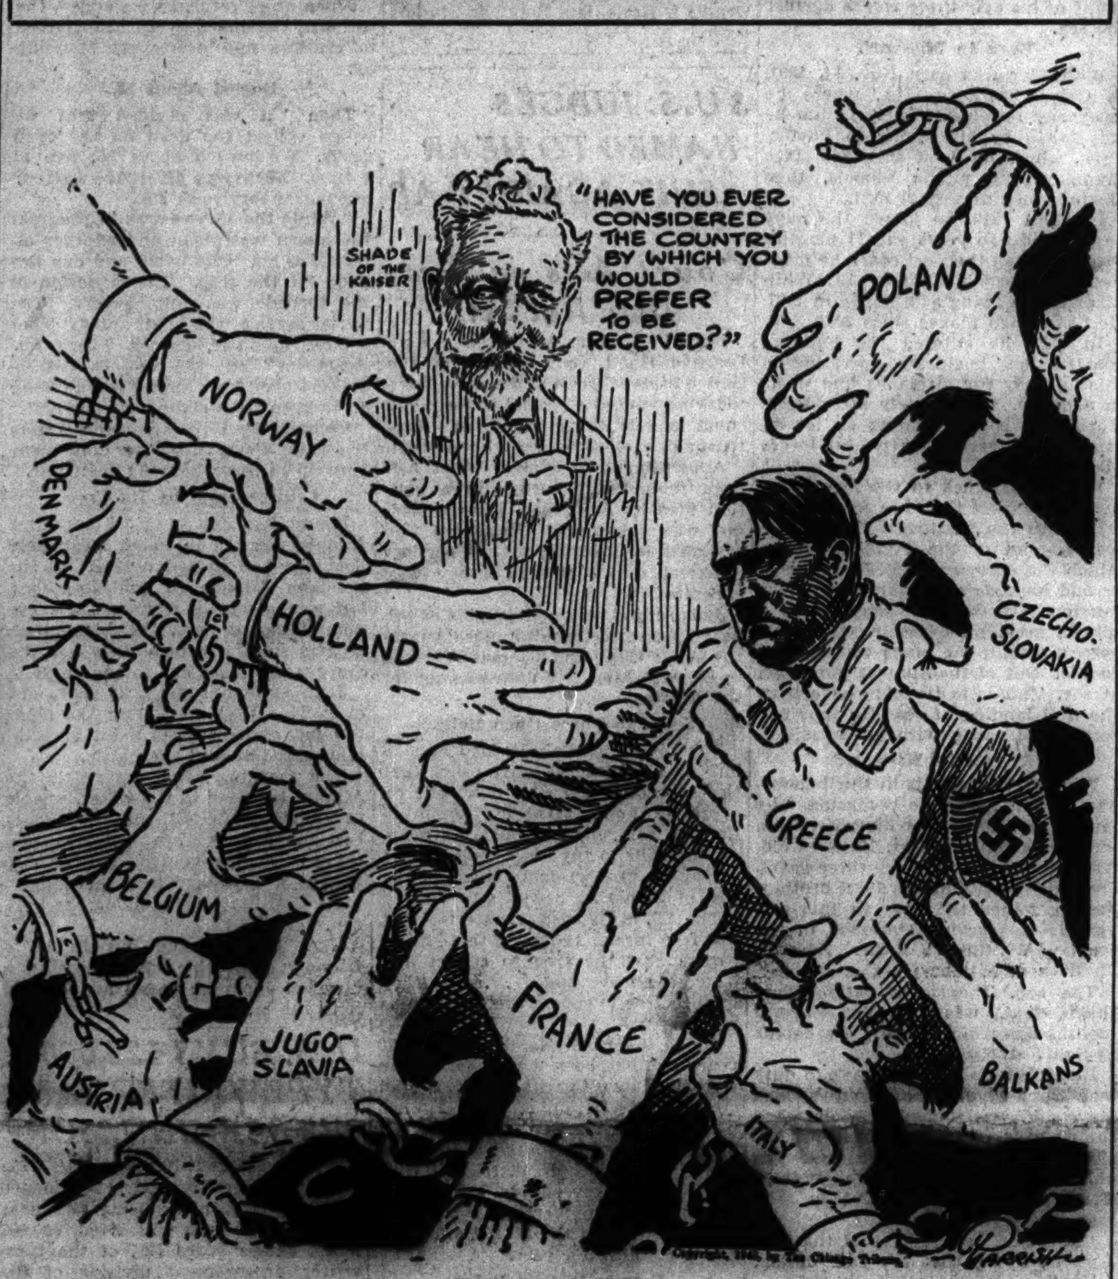
UNHAPPIEST THOUGHT OF ALL



Trial of Flynn on Charges of 2 Girls Opens

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 11 (AP).—Errol Flynn, 33 year old film actor, went on trial today on charges of committing statutory rape upon two teen age girls. The courtroom was so small most of the spectators, many of them fashionably dressed women, were turned away.

When the trial was recessed at the close of the first day's session, the defense had questioned 12 veniremen—five men and seven women, all of them married but one—and the prosecution had examined five. Before questioning began a defense motion for a continuance to hunt for two witnesses was denied.

Flynn Careful Listener.

Thruout their questioning Flynn sat with his attorneys, Jerry Giesler and Robert E. Ford, listening intently.

His accusers, Peggy La Rue Satterlee, 16, Hollywood night club entertainer, and Betty Hansen, 17 year old former Lincoln, Neb., schoolgirl, who came to the film capital seeking movie rôles, also paid close attention.

Miss Satterlee charges that Flynn, recently divorced husband of Actress Lili Damita and father of a year old child, raped her twice aboard his yacht Sirocco while on a week-end cruise in August, 1941.

Miss Hansen alleges that the actor raped her in September, 1942, during a party at the home of Fred McEvoy, British sportsman.

Witness Off to War.

Selection of a jury got under way immediately after Judge Leslie E. Still overruled the motion for a continuance. The witnesses sought by the defense are Hayward Kingsley and Pio Espirito, former captain and cook, respectively, on the Sirocco. Both now are in military service.

Ford told the court that if Kingsley were here he would testify that Flynn was at the yacht's wheel most of the trip and that from his own stateroom he would have been able to hear any cry or struggle aboard.

Women Passengers Afraid, Girl Bus Driver Loses Job

HULL PROTESTS NAZIS' REMOVAL OF AMERICAN CIVILIANS TO GERMANY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—The state department announced tonight that the Nazis were preparing to transfer to Germany the Americans held at Lourdes, France, and that it was protesting "this autocratic action." The department issued the following statement:

"The department of state has been advised by its legation at Berne that the German government has thrown a detachment of SS troops [Elite guards] around the American group at Lourdes, France. The group includes diplomatic and consular officers, press correspondents, Red Cross representatives and relief workers. The German government proposes to transfer the American group from French soil to a site in Germany.

"The German action was taken while the United States government was negotiating thru the Swiss government for the exchange of its personnel. It is reported that the German government thus intends to take upon itself for its own purposes the exchange negotiations. This autocratic action by the German government has been protested tonight by the department of state."

WOMEN CAN KEEP SECRET! 1,000 GUARD THIS ONE

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP).—Who said women can't keep a secret? More than 1,000 of them kept quiet for years about one of Britain's most vital secrets—radio location.

Robert Watson-Watt, inventor, disclosed today there were three stenographers on his staff 10 years ago when he started his experiments and gradually he let more and more in on the work until, shortly before the war, more than 1,000 knew the details.

"I have never known one of them to reveal the secret," he said, "or even to give the slighest indication there is a secret to reveal."

Toe on Trigger All Day; Tires of Suicide Idea

Hillsdale, Ill., Jan. 11 [Special].—A farmer who had held his big toe on the trigger of a shotgun all day, threatening to end his life, finally laid aside the weapon late today, succumbing to weariness and the pleadings of sheriff's deputies whom he held at bay thruout the day.

He had stood on one foot from the time the officers reached his home at 9 a. m. until he gave up about 4 p. m. Altho there was no heat in the house, he was clothed only in a shirt and a pair of overalls, both his feet being bare. He had been without food or water thruout that time.

The would-be suicide, Arthur Ferkel, 48 years old, a well-to-do farmer, began his endurance test about 1 a. m. last night in his home four miles northwest of here. Sheriff Joe Schneider said that the farmer, a teetotaler, had drunk a quart and a half of whisky and then drove his wife and nine children from the house.

Shot Once and Missed.

Some time during the night he sat in a chair and pushed the trigger of his 16 gauge gun with his toe, but all except a few pellets missed his head.

The sheriff, a long time friend of Ferkel, said that when he and a deputy arrived at the scene the farmer threatened to kill them and kept them out of the house for two hours with a barricade of furniture against the doors. When they finally got in, by easing themselves thru the door while talking placatingly, the farmer took up a position in the corner of the living room.

Standing on one bare foot, he put the toe of his other foot on the trigger of his gun and held the muzzle under his chin. For about seven hours he stood this way in the cold house.

Unmoved by Ruses.

The sheriff tried a number of ruses to try to get the farmer to drop the gun a moment so the deputies could seize him.

"We preached the gospel, farming, taxes, his family and everything we could think of," related the sheriff, who also was exhausted. "He finally gave in when we stressed the disgrace his suicide would be to his children. He had been despondent over the death of his 12 year old daughter last March. When I left the house tonight the family was back and he was crying and wondering why he did it."

CARRIER HORNET SUNK IN BATTLE OF SANTA CRUZ

3 Cruisers and 7 Destroyers Listed.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—The navy announced tonight that the 20,000 ton Hornet was the American aircraft carrier sunk in the battle of the Santa Cruz Islands last Oct. 26, and identified at the same time three cruisers and seven destroyers which had heretofore been reported sunk but not identified.

Rear Adm. C. P. Mason.

The other vessels named as lost, all in battles in the Solomon Islands area of the South Pacific, and their commanders are:

The Northampton, heavy cruiser, Capt. Willard A. Kitts III., of Oswego, N. Y. He is safe.

The Juneau, 6,000-ton light cruiser, Capt. Lyman Knute Swenson, Provo, Utah. He is missing.

The Atlanta, 6,000 ton sister ship of the Juneau, Capt. Samuel Power Jenkins, San Diego, Cal. He is safe.

The Monssen, 1,630 ton destroyer, Lt. Comm. Charles Edward McCombs, Martins Ferry, O. He is safe.

Michigan Commander Missing.

The Preston, 1,480 ton destroyer, Comm. Max C. Stormes, San Diego, Cal. He is missing.

The Walke, 1,750 ton destroyer, Comm. Thomas Edward Fraser, Philadelphia, Pa. He is missing.

The Barton, 1,700 ton destroyer, Lt. Comm. Douglas Harold Fox, Dowagiac, Mich. He is missing.

The Laffey, 1,700 ton destroyer, Lt. Comm. William Edwin Hank, Norfolk, Va. He is missing.

The navy announcement of the loss of the Hornet was made in a communique which said that the names of the carrier and the other ships had been withheld "for reasons of military security and to avoid causing needless anxiety on the part of relatives and friends of the personnel who survived these actions."

Relatives Already Notified.

"Reports of casualties have since been received, and the next of kin of all personnel killed, wounded, or missing in these actions have now been notified."

The navy gave no estimates of personnel losses on the Hornet in its communique tonight but in its communique on Oct. 31, which merely reported the sinking of an unidentified carrier, it was said that casualties were light. The navy said tonight that Rear Admiral Charles P. Mason of Pensacola, Fla., commander of the Hornet, was safe.

The battle in which the Hornet was lost was a costly one for the Japanese. The only other American ship lost in the action was the destroyer Porter. The Japanese, on the other hand, suffered two aircraft carriers heavily damaged, a battleship damaged, and damage also to five cruisers.

The cruisers Juneau and Atlanta, which were almost new ships, having been commissioned in 1942 and 1941, respectively, were lost during the great mid-November battle of Guadalcanal.

Seven Destroyers Sunk.

The seven destroyers also were lost in that furious night engagement.

The Northampton was sunk by enemy action north of Guadalcanal on the night of Nov. 30-Dec. 1.

The Hornet did not go down immediately altho attacked twice by enemy bombers and torpedo planes, the Oct. 31 communique said. The first attack occurred during the morning and caused heavy damage. The vessel was taken in tow by another ship in an effort to salvage her but in the afternoon she was attacked a second time and began to list.

SUICIDE PLANE AND TORPEDOES HIT US—SAILOR

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 11 (AP).—Suicidal slashing by Japanese dive bombers and torpedo planes sent the aircraft carrier Hornet to ruin off the Solomons last Oct. 26.

James C. Sandridge.

"But we're 'way ahead of the . . . down there," says James C. Sandridge, ship fitter, first class, who has been home on a furlough.

He tells this story of the Hornet's death:

It was in the forenoon and the Hornet's air fleet had just taken off to attack the Japanese fleet many miles distant.

Thirty-eight enemy dive bombers came in over the horizon headed straight for the Hornet, which was in the midst of a protective covey of destroyers and cruisers.

"Guns started firing in the heaviest shooting you could imagine," said Sandridge.

20 More Enemy Planes Attack.

"Our gunners were really throwing that lead straight and fast. Fifteen minutes later and 20 torpedo planes came in to join the dive bombers.

"It was hell, if you ever saw it. No one got jittery. All hands were cool and doing their job. Those gunners were throwing everything but the anchors at 'em.

"The Japs were falling out of the skies like flies. We got all but six of 'em."

Shrapnel was flying everywhere, he said, and casualties mounted on the Hornet.

"Finally one big, armor piercing, delayed action bomb got us. I was on the third deck forward. Suddenly we saw a Jap bomber coming in on the portside. The gunners threw the lead at it—hit it—but it kept on coming.

"They had been hit by anti-aircraft, and it was a suicidal dive they made."

Hit by Two Torpedoes.

Directly after the big bomb that buried in the Hornet came two ripping torpedo hits, disabling the water system.

"Officers and men started forming lines and we pulled water over the side in buckets to fight fires," said Sandridge.

Three hours slid by and no more attacks. The Hornet had hitched on to a cruiser under the direction of Comm. Soucek, executive officer, and was being towed at a snail's pace.

"But they came at us again just before dusk with 20 horizontal bombers from 18,000 feet," Sandridge continued. "Our gunners were still knocking 'em down. We had to cut loose from the cruiser and the bad degree of list finally forced us to abandon ship."

The navy communique said the Hornet was sunk by United States ships after having been damaged beyond salvage.

Picked Up by Destroyer.

"I was in the water 55 minutes," said Sandridge. "Our destroyers couldn't pick us up because the Japs were still around. Finally, just before dark, we went up the side of a destroyer. Not a man was lost in the water."

During all the battle the Hornet's airplanes had been out doing a neat job, said Sandridge. He said the score that day was 9 to 2 in favor of the Americans—and the Japs lost the use of a couple of cruisers from Hornet plane hits.

Ship fitter Sandridge has respect for every man on the Hornet.

"Heroes? Acts of bravery? They all looked good to me. No heroes—just a bunch of men doing their jobs," he said.

PRESIDENT ASKS 16 BILLION MORE OF TAXPAYERS

Puts Next Budget at $109,000,000,000.

Text of the President's budget message will be found on page 16.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—President Roosevelt today asked congress for 109 billion dollars and urged imposition of staggering new taxes for the fiscal year 1944.

The budget for the year beginning July 1 next is the biggest of all time. It calls for war spending exceeding that of all other belligerents combined, both allies and the axis, according to official estimates.

The spending proposed for one year almost equals federal expenditures from George Washington thru the administration of Herbert Hoover. The 30 Presidents preceding Mr. Roosevelt spent a total of 117 billions in 143 years.

Asks 16 Billions Taxes.

The President called on congress to provide 16 billion dollars in new taxes or compulsory savings during the 1944 year. This would mean a doubling of the record new taxes including the Victory tax voted by congress last fall.

In his message Mr. Roosevelt did not specify the type of new taxes or forced savings he preferred but at a press conference Saturday he opposed a federal sale tax for which there is considerable sentiment in congress. He suggested a doubling of the Victory tax and said the treasury was working on a spending tax.

Wants $25,000 Income Limit.

New taxes should apply to corporations as well as individuals, the President said in his message, and he reiterated his recent request for a $25,000 limitation on income from investments as well as on salaries. He again urged future taxation of state and municipal obligations.

Altho the public debt will reach an estimated 35 billion dollars by June 30 of this year, and will mount to the colossal sum of 210 billion dollars by June 30, 1944, representing accumulating deficits which current revenues fail to meet, the President insisted "the nation is soundly solvent."

The aim now is, he said, to pay for 50 per cent of the war costs, as we go along, by raising taxes again. Under present legislation about 34 per cent of expenditures during 1944 could be met thru current receipts, he added. The collection of 16 additional billions will raise this to 50 per cent, he asserted.

Taxes will never revert to their pre-war level, he warned, because of the national debt.

The 109 billion dollar budget is apportioned as follows: war activities, 100 billions; interest on the public debt, 3 billions; nonwar expenditures by government departments and agencies, 4 billions, and nonwar spending by government corporations, 2 billions.

Called Maximum Program.

Altho the war costs furnish the bulk of the budget only meager information was provided in the message and the detailed budget itself in order not to reveal information to the enemy, the President said. The 100 billion dollars for war purposes represents the maximum that can be spent in one year on war production, the President said.

"This budget presents the maximum program for waging war," he said.

There are no details provided on the war expenditures of the war and navy departments, except this general breakdown furnished by the President for the war spending outlined for the 1944 fiscal year: Munitions, 66 billions; military and civilian pay, subsistence, and travel, 21 billions; industrial construction, 2 billions; other construction, 5 billions; other, including agricultural lend-lease, 6 billions, making a grand total of 100 billions. In the 1943 fiscal year ending next June 30 war spending will total 77 billions, the President estimated.

RICKENBACKER EPIC: CO-PILOT'S DIARY TELLS IT!

Tribune Gets First Full Story of Sea Ordeal.

as we carried out gear toward it. This meant a trip home after long weeks on ferry command assignments in the south Pacific.

There were five of us. Capt. William T. Cherry Jr., 27 years old, a sturdy, drawling Texan, was our pilot and commander. I was co-pilot and second in command, and Lt. John J. De Angelis, 24 and from Pennsylvania, was our navigator. Staff Sergt. James W. Reynolds, a smiling young Californian, was our radio operator, and Pvt. John Bartek, a quiet kid from New Jersey, was engineer.

Crew Gets Assignment.

But we never got aboard the Fortress. At 5:30 p. m. we were told we were assigned to carry Capt. Rickenbacker and a military aide, Col. Hans Adamson, on a war department mission to the southwest. This was a disappointment, but it was a thrill, too, because we knew that when Rickenbacker wanted to see something he usually got close enough to look at it, and that we would see some new territory also.

A second Fortress was rolled out and its four motors set to warming up. At 10:20 p. m. we all were in our places. I was beside Bill Cherry in the cockpit, De Angelis was in the nose compartment plotting his course, Reynolds was in the radio compartment forward of the bomb bay, and Bartek was near by.

We had picked up a passenger, Sergt. Alex Kaczmarzyk, 19, just out after 45 days in the hospital with yellow jaundice. He was going to rejoin his unit out there somewhere. He was to ride inside the bomb bay.

Meets Capt. Rickenbacker.

At 10:28 I felt a hand on my shoulder and a voice said: "My name is Rickenbacker." It was the first time I had ever met him. He introduced Col. Adamson to Cherry and me. Our passengers took seats behind us and strapped themselves in. I fired up the four motors and two minutes later we were at the runway. I ran up all four engines, released the brakes, and we were on the way to the first of the baffling series of mishaps that dogged us for more than three weeks.

Half way thru the takeoff and rolling at about 60 miles an hour a brake expander tube let go, partially locking one wheel. We left the runway and hurtled toward the hangars. To miss them and keep from running off the airport, Bill Cherry ground looped her at 50 miles an hour. [This spins the plane in tight circles until momentum is lost.]

It was a terrific strain on the tires, but they held. We stopped rolling, back on the runway. Just before the ground loop Rickenbacker half rose in his seat, appeared about to speak, then sat down without saying anything. A truck towed us to the hangars and when we got out he remarked to Cherry, "Good job, but I thought for a while those tires weren't going to hold."

Roll Out Another Fortress.

It was obvious that repairs that night were out of the question, so another Fortress of a later type was rolled out and started warming up. We transferred our gear and equipment over and I saw De Angelis looking at his octant. He said that during the ground loop it had shot across the table and banged against the side of the plane, but that it appeared to be all right.

[The octant is an optical instrument similar to a sextant, but provided with a graduated arc of 45 degrees. Like the sextant, it is employed, usually in navigation in the air or at sea, to measure angles and angular distances and to observe altitudes for the purpose of ascertaining latitude and longitude.]

Johnny had held on for all that's good. I wouldn't have wanted his seat there in the nose. If a wheel had caved he would have been on the ground, the plane on top of him. At 1:30 a. m. Oct. 21 we started our takeoff run. I adjusted the D. F. [direction finding] set to the Honolulu tower's frequency for takeoff instructions, then we were in the air.

We climbed straight away from the field thru a haze and cloud ceiling into clear air. Johnny came up and gave us navigation instructions. Bill Cherry swung us on to our course. Rickenbacker and Adamson sat for a while, then went back to cots prepared for them in the bomb bay. Alex Kaczmarzyk helped make them comfortable, then came forward to the radio compartment.

Plane "Dead on Course."

We droned along high over the cloud bank until 5 a. m. when Cherry said he guessed he'd try for a little sleep, and I took over. De Angelis came up from the nose window to say he had gotten some exceptional position shots just at half dawn while the stars still were out. They showed us dead on our course. He had found no variation in drift as he had plotted it, he said.

In an hour or so Cherry was back, saying it was too cold to sleep. We were up 10,000 feet and at that height it makes little difference whether you are over the equator or over Chicago in January. I flew until 9 a. m. over a solid overcast. Then Rickenbacker came up.

"How are things going?" he asked. We told him just fine. He asked if we had spotted anything since daylight and I told him no; nothing but overcast.

"Would you like to fly her a little, captain?" I asked. He has a colonel's commission but I had heard he prefers to be called captain because he won that rank as a combat pilot and America's No. 1 ace in World War I. Rickenbacker grinned.

Rickenbacker Pilots Plane.

"I've probably forgotten how to fly by instruments," he said.

But he took the controls and held us right on course. I went back and brought up some coffee from a thermos jug and some ground ham sandwiches. Rick—as I came to call him—and Cherry were trying to compare merits of World War I. bombers and the Flying Fortresses. But there wasn't much common ground. Anyway, Cherry hadn't been there.

Cherry laughed and turned on the radio to pick up the radio compass. [A recognized station is tuned in and the compass needle indicates the direction the station lies from the plane.] Bill found, however, that the crank that turned the directional loop up outside the fuselage would move only an inch.

This was insufficient to line it up with any station then on the air. We were mystified. I had worked the loop during the takeoff at Hickam and it had functioned okay. We worked on the thing more than an hour, but it wouldn't budge more than an inch.

Flyers Miss Island.

This quickly became a minor matter, however, when De Angelis came up with a worried look. We had overrun our ETA [estimated time of arrival] by more than 30 minutes. It didn't take long to establish that we had missed the island entirely. De Angelis swore we had been on our course every inch of the way from Hickam field.

This could mean only one thing. The octant had been thrown out of adjustment when it smashed against the side of the plane during the ground loop. There was nothing to do but face it. "We're lost," said Cherry—just like that. With Rickenbacker standing by, Bill communicated with the island of our destination and tried to set up "lost plane" procedure.

This works as follows: The ground station takes two bearings, 15 minutes apart, on the plane's sending. This gives the ground station a cross-bearing on the plane's position and is known technically as a "fix." Lines are drawn on the map from the two bearing points to the station, where they intersect and are projected beyond, enabling the station to plot the plane's true position and give it a new course.

This didn't happen in our case, however. Because it lacked the equipment the station at our destination announced it could not coöperate.

Undiscouraged, Cherry kept trying. Finally his face lighted. He said it looked like we were set. He had a station on another island and it was prepared to work out a course for us.

Everybody felt better. In the days that followed I looked back many times upon the carefree few minutes that followed. They were the last carefree minutes I had for many a weary day.

Not that anything went wrong with our arrangements. The station was prepared and probably did set up a course for us. Probably a very fine course, too.

The only thing was that the island was 1,000 miles away and we had less than four hours' fuel in our tanks. And no other station would answer.

A scene sketched by Tribune Staff Artist Gary Sheahan, from today's portion of Lt. Whittaker's story, which he describes as follows: "To miss the hangars and keep from running off the airport, Bill Cherry ground looped the plane at 50 miles an hour."

LT. J. C. WHITTAKER IS KNOWN AS U. S. ARMY'S IRON MAN

Spurned Bed After His Rescue with Rick.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 11. — Lt. James C. Whittaker, who with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and six others was adrift three weeks in the equatorial Pacific, has become known as the "Iron Man of the Army" since his rescue.

Lt. Whittaker was the only survivor who was not bedfast for many days after being picked up. When the party was landed at Samoa, he walked two blocks to the hospital, then protested against getting into bed. Elsewhere in this morning's TRIBUNE he begins the first full account of his epic three weeks against the sea.

Born in Missouri.

Whittaker was born Nov. 14, 1901, in Cape Girardeau, Mo., where he has many relatives. Early in life he was taken by his family to Pueblo, Colo., where he went thru the sixth grade in the public schools, then started work in a steel mill.

In June, 1919, he joined the navy and served two years and 11 months. Discharged on the west coast, he made San Francisco his home. Lt. Whittaker began flying as a hobby in 1927. He has owned planes since 1930.

In 1935 he entered the building construction business, operating a sales agency for airplanes and parts in addition. Immediately after Pearl Harbor he began winding up his affairs and entered the army air forces March 1, 1942.

He was assigned to the ferry command and since then has made many trips into the southwest Pacific. He was co-pilot of the Flying Fortress which was carrying Capt. Rickenbacker and his aide on a war department mission last Oct. 21. Because of a takeoff accident, damaging the navigator's octant, the plane went off its course. Out of fuel, it was put down at sea. This is believed to have been the first landing at sea of a four motored land plane without casualties.

Son in Navy.

Whittaker's home is in Burlingame, on the San Francisco peninsula. His family, in addition to his wife, Ann, includes a son, Thomas, 19 years old, who has been in the navy three years, and a daughter, Shirley, 16. A brother, Joseph, joined the navy in 1914 and again is in service, stationed in the Pacific. Whittaker's father, Edward, 81, lives at Pittsburgh, Cal.

The son, Thomas, a petty officer third class, was wounded several months ago while fighting a saboteur in San Francisco.

Lieut. Whittaker went back to duty last Sunday after a month's sick leave and was immediately detached for 60 days to speak in war production plants of the Pacific area. His chief concern just now is to get in 12 flying hours before Feb. 1 to safeguard his flying pay.

"It seems," he said, "that the time I spent flying that life raft doesn't count."

ZIFF PREDICTS STILL GREATER PLANES FOR U. S.

The next phase of the war will be intense bombing of German and Japanese industrial centers and military supply lines by larger American bombing planes than any now in operation, William B Ziff, magazine publisher and writer on aviation topics, predicted yesterday at a luncheon of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion in the Hotel Sherman.

Neither the army nor navy, Ziff said, any longer denies the primary importance of air power, but instead both are engaged in a "struggle for priority—as to what service this formidable air armada is to be affiliated w.h."

Proof of the intention to expand the air forces greatly and to use air power as a weapon functioning independently of ground troops, Ziff said, is afforded by the program to reduce production of tanks, guns, and other ground weapons so facilities will be freed for larger output of four engine bombers.

STEAL $600 DENTAL GOLD.

Dr. Charles W. Crowe, a dentist, reported to Evanston police yesterday that burglars entered his office at 708 Church street, Evanston, and stole $600 worth of dental gold and two finished bridges.

3 U. S. JUDGES NAMED TO HEAR SUIT AGAINST AP

Court Acts on Plea; Date Not Set.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Judge Learned Hand, senior judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, today appointed a special three judge court to hear the government's anti-trust suit against the Associated Press.

Appointment of such a court had been requested Saturday in a petition filed by Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, who asked that the action "be assigned for hearing at the earliest practical date and in every way expedited."

Judge Hand, who will preside at the hearing, named Circuit Judges Augustus Noble Hand and Thomas W. Swan to sit with him. No date was set for the hearing.

Seeks to Force Open Rolls.

The government's suit, filed Aug. 28 in New York federal court, asked that the Associated Press, a nonprofit coöperative news gathering organization, be compelled to open its membership rolls to any newspaper willing to pay its proportionate share of the cost of gathering news.

The AP, in its answer, asserted that "a free press requires that newspapers shall be free to collect and distribute news and . . . that they shall be free to choose their associates in so doing."

Judge Learned Hand, who is 70 years old, has been a member of the United States Circuit court, second circuit, since December, 1924. He has been on the bench since 1909, when he was appointed United States District judge, southern district of New York. He received his law degree from Harvard university in 1896 and was admitted to the New York state bar the following year.

Former District Judge.

Judge Augustus Noble Hand, 73, has been a Circuit court judge since 1927, when he was appointed by President Calvin Coolidge. From 1914 to 1927 he was a judge of the United States District court, southern district of New York, appointed by President Woodrow Wilson. Like Judge Learned Hand, he received his law degree from Harvard university.

Judge Swan, 66, a member of the United States Circuit court, second circuit, since 1927, is a former dean of the Yale school of law.

HORNET BURIAL SERVICE HALTED BY JAP ATTACK

Crippled Cruiser Atlanta Sunk by Own Crew.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 11 (AP).—Burial services for crew members of the aircraft carrier Hornet killed when the vessel was attacked by waves of Japanese airplanes were interrupted by another aerial assault that further crippled the already badly damaged craft, her chaplain related here today.

Telling of the vicious attacks in which scores of dive bombers and torpedo planes and high level bombers participated, Lt. Comm. Edward B. Harp Jr., of Hagerstown, Md., said the first encounter—in the battle of the Santa Cruz Islands last Oct. 26—lasted less than an hour.

When quiet returned, he added, the seriously wounded were transferred to cruisers and destroyers standing by.

Buried About 35.

Then "it was decided that we would collect the dead on the open decks. We buried about 35, five at a time. Each was given the customary burial service at sea.

"While the service was in progress the alarm was given and another attack was on. One bomb and one torpedo hit the ship. The explosion of the torpedo was quite severe. The burial service was interrupted." That attack, however, caused "very few casualties," but the vessel's list increased until "we almost had to hang on to keep from sliding overboard."

Commander Harp was rescued from the water along with other crew members by an accompanying destroyer.

Cruiser Sunk by Its Crew.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)—The cruiser Atlanta proudly outlasted a Japanese fleet she had helped destroy off the Solomon Islands in mid-November, but was so badly damaged, a crewman disclosed here, that demolition experts from her own crew set the charges that sent her to the grave.

John Dean Ferguson, 24 years old, electrician first class, told the story tonight, and disclosed a bit of braverey that followed the battle.

The morning after the battle the Atlanta lay dead in the water, unable to maneuver and without power. Only two gun turrets were operating, and those by manual control. Yet the ship flashed a challenge to a large fighting vessel that moved along the horizon.

That craft turned out to be a friendly ship which later located a disabled Japanese vessel and blasted it to the bottom.

U. S. BUYS 125,000 TYPEWRITERS AND IS SEEKING MORE

The government has purchased 125,000 typewriters formerly used in private industry, and during the next year and a half will need 600,000 more, James Ward Sr., of the typewriter procurement division of the war production board, last night told a regional meeting of the National Typewriter Dealers association in the Morrison hotel. Robert C. Goldblatt, president of the Chicago Typewriter Dealers association, reviewed the newest typewriter rationing regulation, issued Dec. 22.

FOUND DEAD IN AUTO.

Aurel Hanima, 69 years old, of 3848 North Damen avenue, a furniture repair man, was found dead in his automobile in the garage at his shop at 4010 North Leavitt street yesterday. Police said a hose was connected from the exhaust thru the door of the car.

CHIEF OF LEXINGTON SAYS PLANES STIFLE BATTLESHIP POWER

Rear Adm. Frederick C. Sherman, commander of the lost aircraft carrier Lexington, is the author of an article appearing in the February issue of the magazine, Flying, which states that because of carrier based aircraft "the uses of the battleship today are circumscribed."

The battleship, Adm. Sherman asserts, can function safely in the face of enemy air opposition only when given air protection, either from shore bases or carriers. In the latter case, he points out, "the carrier aircraft might be better employed offensively against the enemy than defensively protecting the battleship.

"If absolute control of the air is assured," the article continues, "the battleship may find occasion to venture out as part of a heavy bombardment raiding force; otherwise she will have to remain in port."

Flying is published in Chicago and the special February issue is devoted to United States naval aviation at war.

TRIBUNE'S FIGHT ON NRA LED TO ROOSEVELT IRE

Battle for Freedom of Press Recalled.

(This is the second in a series of articles telling of the attitude toward and treatment of the press of the nation by the New Deal. Subsequent articles will tell of the New Deal's attitude toward The Chicago Tribune and other newspapers.)

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

The Roosevelt administration's bitter animosity toward THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which is now highlighted by an attack on the Associated Press thru an anti-trust suit, goes back to the day when American newspaper publishers fought to preserve freedom of the press.

They fought to safeguard this constitutional right in the NRA code governing the newspaper industry.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, led that fight, from which the nation's newspapers emerged victorious and the people retained their traditional right to a press free from political control. THE TRIBUNE'S publisher was chairman of the freedom of the press committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, a post he held long before Roosevelt entered the White House.

Publishers Keep Birthright.

When President Roosevelt finally signed his name to the newspaper code he did so with scalding and scornful language. The publishers had asked that it be made plain that altho the President had the power to change the code, he could not alter it in such a manner as to abridge the freedom of the press. Mr. Roosevelt insisted such a guarantee was needless and useless.

However, future litigation in the courts showed the wisdom of the publishers. For, in contradiction to what Mr. Roosevelt had said, the government, shortly after the adoption of the code, took the position that acceptance of codes by other industries—without guarantees of their rights—constituted a waiver of all objections on constitutional grounds. In other words, they had signed away their birthrights.

The right of the people to freedom of speech, of which an untrammeled press is but one aspect, is an ever continuing struggle. At present the attack is directed at the Associated Press, taking the form of an anti-trust suit aimed at virtual dissolution of that great newsgathering organization as it stands today.

Paper Weathers Attacks.

Involving THE TRIBUNE—for the suit is designed to force the AP to take in as a member a new administration mouthpiece newspaper in Chicago—the action must be viewed against a background of the many reprisals visited upon this paper for its forthright demands for an all-out war program and an end to Washington bungling.

THE TRIBUNE has weathered a series of attacks instigated by Washington officialdom and other conspirators against it. These episodes of harassment and political persecution all stemmed from the old NRA days when President Roosevelt revealed his real feelings about newspapers in general and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in particular.

It was in February, 1934, when the President finally signed the newspaper code, with the freedom of the press safeguard included. In a letter to the late Gen. Hugh Johnson, then national recovery administrator, Roosevelt ridiculed the clause on freedom of the press as "pure surplusage." He also indulged in some intimations that newspapers exploited child labor and were published in firetraps.

Denies Codes Waived Rights.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that nobody assenting to a code waived any constitutional rights and added that "the recitation of the freedom of the press clause in the code has no more place than would the recitation of the whole constitution or the Ten Commandments." The provision read:

"Those submitting this code recognize that pursuant to section 10 [B] of the act the President may, from time to time, cancel or modify any order approving this code, but in submitting or subscribing to this code the publishers do not thereby consent to any modification thereof, except as each may thereto subsequently agree, nor do they thereby waive any constitutional rights, or consent to the imposition of any requirements that might restrict or interfere with the constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press."

Steel Company Feels Pinch.

The situation the publishers feared might arise in their own industry appeared later in the case of the United States against the Weirton Steel company. The brief for the United States contained a paragraph [7 Fed. Sup. 255, 10 Fed. Sup. 55, Circuit Court of Appeals, at page 78] reading as follows:

"The defendant, having applied for approval under the recovery act of a code of fair competition . . . and having obtained the benefits accruing to it under the act by reason of such approval, cannot now attack the constitutionality of the provisions of that code. It is a well settled rule in the federal courts that one who has himself voluntarily invoked a statute or who has received the benefits flowing from a statute is estopped to assert its unconstitutionality."

In other words, the United States did contend that the acceptance of the code constituted a waiver of all constitutional objections to the code. Thus, the government took the very position which the President said was absurd and which he bitterly resented.

Later on several district attorneys argued that the signing of the NRA codes and operation under them prevented industries from bringing up the question of constitutionality, altho the NRA codes were not voluntarily executed.

Courts Refuse to Follow.

The courts almost uniformly refused to follow this contention. Indignation grew so strong that the President was compelled to issue an executive order on Jan. 22, 1935, amending all codes to insert a provision quite similar to that which he had objected to in the case of the newspaper code. The order read:

"It is understood that neither the government [n]or any member of industry waives, or can properly insist that the other has waived, any constitutional right pertaining to the government or to any individual by approving, assenting to, or coöperating under a code of fair competition.

"The approval orders of all such codes heretofore approved are hereby modified to the extent necessary to make this order a condition thereof, and this order shall operate as a condition of the approval of any such code hereafter approved."

Two intimate White House incidents back in those days when the controversy over the NRA newspaper code was at white heat, hinted at the shape of things to come. They illustrate how the President focussed his resentment on Col. McCormick, the person most responsible for protecting the rights of the press as guaranteed in the constitution.

F. D. R. Threatens Tribune.

The first occurred at a scrambled eggs supper in the White House on Sunday night, Nov. 12, 1933. On this occasion the President made certain threats against THE TRIBUNE and also the New York Herald Tribune. The latter newspaper, which has social connections with the British aristocracy, recently toned down its criticism of Roosevelt and embraced his foreign policy.

Among the guests who attended the scrambled eggs affair were: Arthur Sears Henning, chief of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Washington bureau, and Mrs. Henning; John Boettiger, at that time second in command of THE TRIBUNE'S bureau and now publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer; Ted Wallin, head of the Herald Tribune bureau, and other correspondents and wives.

Anna Roosevelt Dall, the President's daughter who has since become Mrs. Boettiger, helped Mrs. Roosevelt prepare the eggs. The President sat at one end of the table, with Boettiger at one side. Henning was down about the middle, he recalls. The supper was held in a small family dining room of the White House.

Date Fixed in Henning's Mind.

The date of the affair is fixed in Henning's mind because he had to postpone his broadcast that night. The broadcast for Nov. 12, 1933, began:

"Good evening, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"Perhaps I owe a word of explanation of the postponement of the hour of this broadcast from 9 o'clock to 10:30 o'clock Washington time.

"Mrs. Henning and I had accepted an invitation to supper at the White House and W-G-N kindly consented to a change in the hour for my talk to accommodate me.

"I have just come from the White House with lively memories of a delicious supper [the next is penciled in], the first course of which is always scrambled eggs prepared by Mrs. Roosevelt; of much merry repartee and high disputation on every subject under the sun, including affairs of state, such as invariably distinguish these small informal gatherings of friends that the President and Mrs. Roosevelt are accustomed to assemble on Sunday night."

Henning, altho he was halfway down the table, overheard snatches of "high disputation" at the head which interested him mightily. The President was saying something about what he was going to do to newspapers which were opposing him.

Planned Chastisement on Air.

Afterward Boettiger told Henning exactly what the President had said. The President had said he was going to go on the air and get after these newspapers which were against him. He singled out THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York Herald-Tribune. The President added he was not going to tell the people to cancel their subscriptions, but would warn them to read these papers with the consciousness that they were opposing him for partisan purposes only.

Roosevelt disclosed also that he was having his secretary keep a scrapbook of everything the two papers were printing about the administration and in due time he was going on the air.

A few days later Boettiger strolled into the office of Steve Early, the President's secretary. He noticed a stack of CHICAGO TRIBUNES on the desk.

"Well, I see you are quite a reader of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE," remarked Boettiger.

"Yes, here's a scrapbook I'm keeping on your paper," replied Early.

Expresses Animus Again.

Only a few weeks elapsed before another episode occurred which illustrated the President's animus toward THE TRIBUNE. This incident is not included in the President's published press conferences. One account of it may be found in the May, 1940, Fortune magazine, page 101.

"On a December afternoon last year President Roosevelt was engaged in his conference with the press," said Fortune. "It was at the time when Col. McCormick of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was conducting a vigorous offensive against the proposed NRA newspaper code.

"John Boettiger of THE TRIBUNE'S Washington bureau brought the subject up, as he had done on previous occasions. The President grinned. He remembered, perhaps, that an excessively tall youth named Robert Rutherford McCormick had been a form ahead of him at Groton in the nineties.

Capt. Patterson Feels Spite.

"'Tell Bertie McCormick,' he said, 'that he's seeing things under the bed.'"

Of recent date the President's animus has branched out to a cousin of Col. McCormick, Capt. Joseph Patterson, publisher of the New York Daily News. Capt. Patterson was an ardent supporter of Roosevelt up to and including the 1940 Presidential election campaign.

Afterward, the New York publisher disagreed with the President's foreign policy and attacked it editorially as one designed to lead an unwilling nation into war.

The cavalier treatment Capt. Patterson received at the White House was disclosed in a recent Reader's Digest magazine article by Robert Moses, New York park commissioner, under the title of "Ability, Not Politics, Will Win the War!" He did not mention Capt. Patterson by name, but the identification was unmistakable.

"Personal vindictiveness is a weakness of the administration," declared Moses. "Immediately after the declaration of war, an important newspaper publisher, who had been a bitter isolationist, offered his services in any capacity to the army. He had been an artillery captain in the last war, admitted he was too old for fighting, but wanted to join up anywhere, lock, stock, and barrel.

Lectures Him on Family.

"He was a considerable personage, and the war department arranged for him to see the President—who was an old acquaintance. The President kept this man standing for half an hour with his hat in his hand, and delivered a scolding about the attitude of the publisher and his family."

Moses said he sometimes disagreed with the publisher's editorials, but went on to say that the publisher "had a right to say his say about our entry into the war in a country boasting a free press and in what was at least technically a time of peace."

Moses wondered whether President Lincoln would have treated a former opponent this way or "would he have overlooked stale controversies in order to achieve unity in a tremendous crisis?"

DISCLOSES BRITAIN'S NAVY IS LARGER NOW THAN BEFORE WAR

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The British navy is stronger than ever, Francis McMurtrie, editor of Jane's Fighting Ships and naval correspondent of the Sunday Express, said today.

"Losses in practically every category of fighting ship are heavy, tho they have been replaced or exceeded by the vast number of new vessels which have passed into service," he asserted.
and battle cruiser strength at the beginning of the war was 15, the designs of all of which except two, the Nelson and Rodney, dated from the McMurtrie said Britain's battleship last war or even earlier.

There have been five losses in these categories, but replacements comprise five new ships of the King George V. type, and thus of 15 capital ships only 8 are of obsolete design and therefore there is an improvement over the prewar position. McMurtrie reported similar findings with respect to aircraft carriers, cruisers, and other classes of war vessels.

Of 25 cruisers sunk from an initial total of 64, at least six were near the scrap pile anyway and against these losses there have been completed "at least eight and possibly four more of the 8,000 ton Mauritius class and nine of the highly successful Dido type," McMurtrie said.

Submarine losses totaled 44, but against this more than 50 new ones have been put in service.

UPPER CLASSES SABOTAGE F.D.R.'S PLANS: BROWDER

War Program Not Carried Out, He Charges.

New York, Jan. 11 [Special].—Expressing sharp criticism of congress and "the upper classes," whom he charged with sabotaging President Roosevelt's seven point anti-inflation program, Earl Browder, national secretary of the Communist party, hailed "our commander in chief" for his uncompromising war against Adolf Hitler.

Browder spoke at a rally in Madison Square Garden, to commemorate the 19th anniversary of the death of Nikolai Lenin, one of the founders of the Communist party.

Browder described as "a dangerous vice" of many persons the tendency merely to approve the President's policies and then leave him to fight his battles against the reactionaries without the support of the people.

"Too often these policies are being defeated and destroyed in the course of their application, to the great damage of the war effort," he said.

Tells How Program Fails.

Browder, who was pardoned by President Roosevelt after serving only part of a four year sentence for passport fraud, held that only one of the points outlined by the President in April had been fully carried out, the one calling for the purchase of war bonds. Fixed ceilings on prices and rents have broken down and stabilization of farm prices has been completely distorted, he charged. He also criticized the "hesitant" policy on rationing all essential commodities.

Browder asserted that on the production front "the blockade of unsettled grievances of labor is undermining the whole production program at its base," and called for complete unity between the AFL and the CIO. He said a good word for the consolidation of the different phases of the man power program, but warned that it would remain inextricably tangled until we break down all discrimination against our Negro citizens.

Reds Aiding Production.

Browder charged that those who spread anti-Communist propaganda were "blinded by ancient prejudices" and declared that today it is the Communists themselves "who have been most zealously and effectively furthering the production program" and are the ones aiding to hold down strikes.

The Garden was filled to capacity. Admissions ranging from 40 cents to $1.65 were charged, and in addition a collection was taken up in the audience, producing $2,000. Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, vice president of the state Communist party, presided.

RUSSIANS TO GET SUPPLY PRIORITY, ICKES DISCLOSES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes told a Russian relief luncheon today that he had received a communication from President Roosevelt directing that Russia henceforth be given preference in shipments of war materials to the fronts.

Asked afterward to amplify his statement, Ickes told newsmen the White House doubtless would be saying more on this subject soon.

There was no immediate comment available at the White House.

While Ickes did not amplify his remarks, some of his listeners expressed the opinion he was talking about lend-lease shipments to allied nations.

JAP WARSHIP HIT BY AIR TORPEDO; BELIEVED SUNK

MacArthur's Flyers Score Off New Britain.

ALLIED HDQS. IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 12 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Australian airmen scored their first aerial torpedo hit in the southwest Pacific area last Saturday and apparently blasted another Japanese warship—a light cruiser or a large destroyer—from the ocean.

The attack, reported today in the allied communique, took place off Gasmata, New Britain. The Australians saw one of their missiles hit and explode directly amidship on the Japanese ship. Smoke had enveloped the vessel when the bombers left the scene.

The next morning reconnaissance planes returned to the area, but close search failed to disclose any trace of enemy warships.

New Jap Base Bombed.

While a lull in the aerial warfare prevailed over New Guinea Monday, the communique reported, Australians flying Hudson bombers pounded the jetty at Dobo in the Aru Islands. Before the war, Dobo was the base for a Japanese pearling fleet operating northwest of Australia.

Allied ground forces closed in further on Japanese enveloped in the Sanananda corridor, which extends about a mile and a half inland from the Papuan coast.

Flanking Japanese positions on the west, strong allied patrols captured a quantity of rifles, grenades, and machine guns. On the east flank allied artillery and machine gun fire reduced a Japanese bunker which was under construction, killing a number of the enemy.

MacArthur Answers Curtin.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur today replied to the message Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia sent congratulating commanders of all ranks on the success of the Papuan campaign.

"All ranks of all services in this area thank you for your noble and inspiring message," Gen. MacArthur said. "We appreciate very deeply your personal commendation and that of the Australian people and government and take this opportunity to reaffirm our complete determination to fulfil the obligations of our duty."

Curtin's Message.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 11 (AP).—Prime Minister John Curtin sent a congratulatory message to Gen. Douglas MacArthur today on the success of the campaign in the Papuan area of New Guinea, which he said had been carried out under the most trying conditions.

The campaign, which saved the allied base at Port Moresby from a Japanese thrust and resulted in the virtual annihilation of the Jap forces in the Buna-Gona area, demonstrated the "comradeship in arms and cooperation between the forces of Australia and the United States," Curtin's message said.

CHICAGO PRIVATE IS DECORATED FOR RABAUL HEROISM

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 11 (AP).—Thirteen war heroes from six midwestern states are wearing decorations awarded them by Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of allied air forces in the southwest Pacific area. Second Lt. Harold E. Snider of Robinson, Ill., and Staff Sergt. Everett F. Perkins, Wadsworth, O., received oak leaf clusters. Sergt. Perkins, wounded in action over Rabaul, also received the Purple Heart, as did Pvt. Leroy J. Turnes, 2040 Irving Park road, Chicago.

Silver stars were awarded to Maj. Alexander G. Evanoff, Keystone, Ia.; Capt. Donald A. Simpson, Carrollton, Ill.; First Lieutenants Kermit E. Meyers, New Bremen, O.; Roderick M. Stewart Jr., 221 North Madison, Hinsdale, Ill.; Charles E. Rogers, Villa Grove, Ill., and Charles P. Sullivan, Roanoke, Ill.; Corp. George R. Zenz, Green Bay, Wis., and Pvt. Otto Russell, West Frankfort, Ill.

Sergt. Perkins was wounded when a cannon shell started a fire in the cabin of his plane. Despite his injury he extinguished the flames and resumed his place in the top turret, clearing the guns which had jammed and firing steadily at the enemy. He damaged at least two Zeros.

CHINESE PLANES BOMB AIRDROME, KILL MANY JAPS

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 12 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Chinese planes attacked a Japanese airdrome west of the Hsiang river in Hupeh province Sunday, the Chinese Central News reported today, killed many of the enemy, and left fires. Returning home the Chinese flyers strafed a Japanese truck column. One of the Chinese planes was lost, the news agency said.

The Chinese high command announced the recapture of Shangcheng, a strategic center in southeastern Honan province, after a battle in which 600 Japanese were killed or wounded Saturday. The communique admitted Japanese forces had occupied Loshan, 55 miles northwestward, above Hankow.

Chinese troops were declared to have inflicted more than 200 casualties on the invaders last Thursday northwest of Sinyang, a Japanese base 30 miles west of Loshan, and thrown back Japanese attacks north of Sinyang.

Strikes in War Production Denounced by Legion Chief

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 [Special]. A demand for increased civilian hour production by labor on the home front and for less interference with the army's plan for fighting the war as determined by the military experts was made here tonight by Roane Waring, national commander, of the American Legion.

Sharply critical of "some of the proposed changes in our war policy," Waring addressed members of the senate and house military and naval affairs committees the house World war veterans' committee and Legionnaires here for annual committee meetings.

Stands on Army's Judgment.

"It is the army's responsibility to give orders as to where to fight, when to fight and how to fight," said Waring. "With this responsibility it must also control the number and composition of troops. No manpower commission and no civilian committee or group can wisely determine such a question. The American Legion stands on the army's judgment.

"Before we change the army's plans for fighting this war, let us on the home front put our own houses in order. Let us effectively organize and augment existing man-hour pools by checking on the work slackers and bringing them into the field of war production.

Harass and Delay Industry.

"When slow downs, work stoppages, and strikes cease, when we discard the ridiculous theory of limiting hours of work in wartime, when women are given a greater part in production, and when thousands of government employés and buro attaches, who only serve the purpose of harassing, delaying, and impeding American industry by unnecessary questionnaires and investigations, are released for labor and shown their places on the production line, then our man power problem will be solved, and there will be no necessity to hamper the army."

Waring concluded with an appeal to win the war before talking of peace aims.

"This war must be won with bullets, with guns, with tanks, and planes, and ships," he said. "It cannot be won with hybrid corn and social reforms. Let's plan the future for Timbuctoo and Patagonia after we have destroyed the military might of the Germans and the Japs."

PILOTS TELL HOW U.S. SHIPS RAINED SHOTS ON MUNDA

Accurate Fire Wrecks Jap Air Field.

GUADALCANAL, Jan. 5 [Delayed] (AP).—Three navy pilots who flew over Munda on New Georgia Island during the United States fleet's shelling of Japanese positions there early this morning said it was "the most accurate big gun firing we ever have seen or hope to see."

[A navy communique Jan. 6 reported a successful bombardment by surface vessels the previous day of the recently established enemy airfield at Munda, 150 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, but gave no details.]

The flyers said they believed not a single anti-aircraft battery protecting Munda was left untouched. They reported terrific damage to the airfield, its planes and dispersal areas.

Lt. Comm. Dennis Crowley of Roanoke, Va., Lt. George C. Duncan of Tacoma, Wash., and Lt. Marvin Barnett, Tampa, Fla., were the pilots. During the shelling they spotted targets for the warships.

Shell Length of Runway.

"The ships didn't need much help," Crowley said. "The first shell struck directly on the runway a third of the way from the west end. Following shells worked toward the western end, then switched back and in neat succession ran the length of the runway down to the east end just like a plane taking off. That done, the firing next fell in a pattern on both sides, covering a large area around the field.

"Opening the attack, we dropped bombs at 12:50 a. m., and were answered with heavy anti-aircraft fire. On the dot of 1 a. m., the first United States ship fired a salvo.

"We saw the tremendous and brilliant flash of an exposion on the runway. The ackack stopped dead and never resumed. The Japs were surprised completely. Many must have been killed, while others headed for dugouts. I don't think any of them tried to take their planes off. The field was much too damaged.

Big Fire Started.

"The firing continued for 50 minutes, the ships taking turns until at the last the smaller vessels had moved close inshore to let go their salvos. The warships looked afire as they poured out their shells hot and heavy. It was almost as light as day in the space between the fleet and the beach.

"I saw at least four big fires which might have been burning planes or stores of gasoline. One still was burning when we left. There were many explosions, probably from hits on gun positions and ammunition."

ON THE ROAD TO MANDALAY U.S. DESTROYS BRIDGE

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 11 (AP).—Bombers of the 10th United States air force effectively cut Japanese communications between northern and southern Burma yesterday by knocking down the central span of the Myitnge bridge near Mandalay, an American communique announced today.

"Direct hits were scored with large caliber bombs and observers reported that the central span was resting on the Irrawaddy river bottom when the planes departed," the communique said.

"This bridge, carrying all vehicular as well as rail traffic across the Irrawaddy, was vital to enemy movements in central Burma," the bulletin stated.

American figthers, doubling as light bombers, attacked Japanese supply depots in northeastern Burma with explosives and machine guns. The communique did not identify specific points attacked.

ARGENTINA REQUESTS RECALL OF NAZI NAVAL AIDE ACCUSED AS SPY

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Argentine government announced tonight that it had asked Germany to recall Capt. Dietrich Niebuhr, naval attaché, accused of espionage after an investigation based on information supplied by the United States.

Action declaring Niebuhr unwelcome in Argentina followed the German government's refusal to surrender him to the jurisdiction of the supreme court for trial—a necessary step because of diplomatic immunities enjoyed by axis personnel here.

Opponents of President Ramon Castillo's Conservative government were given new ammunition by this development in their attempt to get Castillo to break off diplomatic relations with the axis. While Argentine-German relations were strained by the spy investigation, there was no indication that Castillo intended to use the issue for any such step.

AUTHORIZE NEW NAVY AIR FIELD ON 1,100 ACRES

The navy department yesterday authorized construction of a complete auxiliary landing field on a 1,100 acre tract of land south of Arlington Heights to be used in conjunction with the Glenview naval air station. Perliminary work on the field has been started.

The Arlington Heights field, formerly one of several outlying fields used in the Glenview primary training program, will be designed to provide all needs of one of the station's training squadrons. New facilities, for housing and feeding the field's personnel, and shops will be built for servicing and checking planes.

Maj. George F. Malcolm, marine corps reserve, has been assigned to build the new field with its hangar, barracks, and mess hall. Maj. Malcolm also had an important part in the devolpment and expansion of the Glenview station. He recently has been commanding officer of the cadet regiment, a post which has been assigned to Lt. Luther B. De Forest of Northfield, former instructor at the University of Chicago.

WORLD FREEDOM OF AIR LANES AND FIELDS IS URGED

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Future world peace cannot be preserved unless the allied nations agree on international control of airports developed in the global war, Croil Hunter, St. Paul, president and general manager of Northwest Airlines said here today.

Hunter, speaking before the annual convention of the National Association of Retail Secretaries, advocated immediate adoption of a principle of freedom of the air along the lines of freedom of the seas as guaranteed by the Atlantic charter, and asserted such a step "would be a boon to the war and peace to follow."

Aviation Committee Urged.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—A move in congress to safeguard this nation's supremacy in the sky after the war as insurance against military or economic attack was disclosed today in a plan to create a standing or house committee on aviation. Legislation for a standing committee already has been introduced.

CHILD BURNED BY CEREAL.

Arthur Andrews, 17 months old, 7464 North Damen avenue, was taken to Children's Memorial hospital yesterday suffering from burns on his face and arm received after he overturned a pot of hot cereal in his home.

YANKS MAKE GAIN IN LAND ATTACK ON GUADALCANAL

Follow Up Artillery and Air Barrage.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—In a land attack coördinated with artillery and aerial bombardment, American forces on Guadalcanal scored four "small advances" into Japanese territory Sunday, the navy announced today.

Naval spokesmen said they had no information that a general offensive was under way, and added that the operation appeared to be of a minor nature.

[Other dispatches said a fleet of United States transports, protected by warships and aircraft, landed reënforcements on Guadalcanal in a two day operation on Jan. 4 and 5. Following the naval bombardment of the Jap air field at Munda on Jan. 4 to keep the enemy planes on the ground, the Japs attacked the American fleet with 10 dive bombers and an escort of Zero fighters while it was withdrawing 60 miles southwest of Cape Hunter, on the south shore of the island on Jan. 5.]

Barrage by Artillery.

The navy communique did not say in what sector of the Guadalcanal front the new advances were made. The main Japanese forces, however, have been concentrated in the northwestern hump of the island, on the American west flank, and authorities assumed the advances were in that direction.

The first stage of the action was an artillery barrage laid down on Japanese positions and this was immediately followed up by Douglas Dauntless dive bombers and the army's airacobra fighters which bombed and strafed the Japs. United States ground forces then went into action.

"Enemy resistance to the advances was weak," the communique said.

First Coördinated Attack.

Altho such coördinated attacks may have been made before, this was the first time a navy communique had described an action in terms of sucsive artillery, aerial and ground assault leading to an advance.

Operations of an offensive nature have been in progress on Guadalcanal for several weeks but have been carried out mostly by small patrols.

One of the immediate objectives presumably has been to place the vital American air field on the island in a perfectly defended position. To accomplish this it has been necessary to expand American held territory to such an extent that the Japs could not get with easy artillery range of base installations.

Murder Charged in Fatal Shooting of War Bride

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 11 (AP).—Corp. William W. Phillips of Garrison, Ky., stationed here with the air force, was placed at the disposition of the Nicaraguan government today, charged with shooting to death his wife, Alma bel Castillo, whom he married about six months ago.

U.S. AND BRITAIN GIVE UP SPECIAL RIGHTS IN CHINA

Treaties Signed; Don't Affect Hongkong.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—The United States and Great Britain in identical treaties signed today in Washington and Chungking, formally relinquished their extraterritorial rights and privileges in China, which have been exercised for 100 years.

Dispatches from London said the Sino-British treaty does not apply to leased territories, such as Kowloon and Hongkong. Britain has not given up her claims to sovereignty over Hongkong, also conquered by the Japanese.

In effect, the Anglo-American move applies to China what Secretary of State Hull has called, "the principle of equality of treatment among nations."

From the Chinese point of view, its constitutes formal assurance that the post-war sovereignty of China will be free of the fetters of a system which enabled foreign powers to do in China what they could not do normally within the borders of a sovereign foreign nation.

Nationals Treated Alike.

The United States, in the treaty signed here by Secretary of State Hull and Chinese Ambassador Wei Tao-ming, relinquishes its right to maintain troops in China or ships of war in Chinese waters, or courts of justice in China. It acknowledges the principle that Chinese nationals in the United States and American nationals in China should be on the same footing.

The treaty, still to be ratified by the senate, will have little practical effect until after the war, inasmuch as Japan now controls much of the areas in which extraterritorial rights existed. Its moral significance, however, is that it recognizes China as an equal among the nations.

In telegrams to President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said the treaties were a "signal proof of solidarity among the united nations not only for the purpose of war but also for winning the peace."

Uses Paint Brush to Sign.

The intention of Britain and the United States to end the system of extraterritorial rights by treaty was announced last October, and some weeks later draft treaties were submitted to the Chinese government.

At that time Ambassador Wei hailed the move as beginning a "new era in China's relations with the western powers."

Ambassador Wei used paint brush and ink box for his Chinese signature, then penned his name in English script.

Secretary Hull said:

"All of us have looked forward to this day and it is specially gratifying to me personally that it falls to my lot to sign this significant treaty on behalf of the American government."

In Chungking Horace Seymour, British ambassador to China, and H. E. Richardson of the Indian agency initialed the treaty in behalf of Britain and India, respectively. T. V. Soong, Chinese foreign minister, represented China.

CANADIAN PRESS RIDICULES IDEA OF JOINING U. S.

Objects to Suggestion for Annexation.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 11 (AP).—The suggestion by Albert Bushnell Hart, Harvard university professor emeritus, that the United States should annex Canada after the war is not regarded by most Canadian newspapers as an indication of general feeling in the republic to the south.

Albert B. Hart.

Hart said recently that "Russia's ability to stick it out against the Germans will be one of the keys to eventual victory, but the United States should annex Canada in the peace settlement lest the Russians, in a post-war expansion of Siberia, should have designs on an independent or British dominated Canada."

While there was no official government reaction to his views, many Canadian newspapers objected to the suggestion, while others said it was not worthy of serious consideration.

Annexation Unnecessary.

The Winnipeg [Man.] Tribune said that it is not necessary to annex neighboring countries for hemisphere defense. "The joint American-Canadian defense commission has the question of continental defense in hand. There is not the slightest need of annexation."

The Windsor [Ont.] Star said:

"Prof. Hart can have his little joke and get a kick out of suggesting that territorial aggrandizement is all right for the United States, but all wrong for any other country. Just don't take the old boy too seriously."

Le Devoir of Montreal, a French language newspaper, said: "French-Canadians have always rejected any proposal of possible annexation by the United States. Their ideal is to live in a free country on a friendly basis with Great Britain and France, closely coöperating with the United States in the defense of North America."

Not Abreast of History.

The Montreal Herald said that Prof. Hart's views show "that he has not kept abreast of history, and particularly that he has no conception of Canada's position in the modern world, or its actual relations with the United States.

"It almost looks as if he thinks Britain might be induced or forced to use Canada as a bargaining factor in peace developments, as if Canada were still a British 'possession.'"

The Toronto [Ont.] Globe and Mail said: "As an historian, Prof. Hart can not be questioned, but here he has stepped into the realm of politics and also of reality and what he says in this connection will not be taken more seriously than similar proposals from politicians who are not historians or realists."

HIDE VITAL FACTS FROM CONGRESS, EX-ENVOY SAYS

Grant Also Condemns Pearl Harbor Course.

Hugh G. Grant of Birmingham, Ala., former American minister to Albania and Thailand, asserted last night that political information transmitted to the state department by American diplomatic representatives abroad is in large part pigeonholed and kept from congress and the public.

He attributed this policy to a set of professional career officers "who somehow are not under the control of Secretary of State Cordell Hull."

"We have a very defective and antiquated foreign service system in that vital information pouring into the state department from ambassadors and ministers is read by career officers sitting at desks," said Grant in his room in the Bismarck hotel. "The messages are initialed and pigeonholed into oblivion.

Information Kept from Congress.

"None of it is ever seen by congressional leaders. Members of the senate foreign relations committee and the house foreign affairs committee do not have access to this information. The state department is a secret organization. There is no dissemination to the American public of first hand political information that the state department receives from its ministers."

Grant said that "unfortunately Secretary Hull does not control the state department organization administering foreign service." That organization, he asserted, "is controled by a small, powerful group of professional career officers who occupy high positions in the state department and who often give more attention to their own careers and promotions than to American interests abroad."

Assails Pearl Harbor Secrecy.

The former American minister also assailed the government's handling of news releases on Pearl Harbor. "Withholding full news of Pearl Harbor one year was an insult to the American intelligence," said Grant, "but Washington is doing many stupid things in regard to its dealings with the public on war." He predicted a long fight with the Japanese.

Grant, a former secretary to Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black, served as minister to Albania from 1935 to 1940, when Italy invaded that country, and went to Thailand soon afterward. In October, 1941, his "resignation" was announced in Washington without his advance knowledge. Grant is in Chicago on a lecture tour and will speak at a Kiwanis club luncheon today.

Allies Must Feed Europe at War's End, Says League

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Two hundred millions persons in occupied countries will have to be fed and nursed back to health as soon as the war ends, according to a league of nations estimate. A league official in London said today that the food situation will have to be met during the first weeks following cessation of hostilities by supplying thousands of cases of concentrated foods from Britain, altho she is largely dependent upon the United States for her own supplies.

RUSSIANS TAKE 6 TOWNS ALONG ROAD TO ROSTOV

Form Important Triangle in North Caucasus.

MOSCOW, Jan. 12 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Six Caucasian cities along the road to Rostov, including Georgievsk, Mineralnye Vody, and Pyatigorsk have fallen to the Russians in their biggest bag of the winter offensive, the soviets announced last night in a special communique.

The other important centers captured were Kislovodsk, Zheleznovodsk, and Buddenovsk, a railway city. Three lesser points also were captured. Meanwhile, the siege of Stalingrad today went into the 141st day.

The Red army took the cities on or near the Rostov-Baku railway by swift encircling maneuvers which forced the Germans to retreat hastily to the northwest thru Armavir toward Rostov. The north Caucasus offensive is only 18 days old but since the Russians checked the Germans at the suburbs of Ordzonikidze, the Reds have advanced 112 miles.

Armavir Now Menaced.

Armavir, 170 miles southeast of Rostov, now is menaced by this Russian offensive and by the sweep across the bleak Kalmuck steppes. Mineralnye Vody is 255 airline miles southeast of Rostov; Georgievsk is 20 miles farther. Pyatigorsk is 28 miles southwest of Georgievsk. Another column is within 55 miles of Salsk.

Georgievsk, Mineralnye Vody, and Pyatigorsk form an important triangle in the center of the north Caucasus. Buddenovsk is on the Kuma river 60 miles northeast of Georgievsk.

Pyatigorsk is a popular resort and several of the recaptured towns are well known spas.

Lt. Gen. Maslennikov emerged as the new Russian hero leading the currently most successful Russian offensive. Just a year ago, he recaptured Kalinin in one of the major battles that saved Moscow.

Abreast with the Caucasus gains, the Russian army on the lower Don river stood within 60 miles of Rostov, the fall of which would trap all Nazi troops in the south.

[The regular soviet midnight communique, as heard in London by the soviet monitor, gave the following additional details of other fighting.]

Recapture Don Town.

Along the lower Don river, where another soviet spearhead is thrusting toward Rostov, the regular midnight communique said the offensive continued and claimed capture of Potelnikov, two other populated places, and a railway station.

Six streets were cleared in fighting in the factory area of Stalingrad, with about 400 Germans killed.

The cleanup of Germans in a pocket to the west continued. To the northwest the Russians pushing down on the 22 trapped axis divisions were reported to have captured considerable material.

On the central [Moscow] front a German attack northwest of Veliki Luki "succeeded in pressing back somewhat our units." Another Nazi attack in a neighboring sector was reported beaten back with three infantry companies annihilated.

Say Reds "Numerically Superior."

BERLIN, Jan. 11 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Attacks by "numerically superior infantry and tank forces" of the Red army were repelled in three southern sectors [Caucasus, Don, and Stalingrad] in bloody fighting and German shock troops destroyed a large number of Russian strong points on the central front, the high command said today.

[The German foreign office commentary Dienst aus Deutschland said yesterday that "the most rigid reserve must be maintained regarding the fighting in Russia, as the Russians are displaying their greatest strength now," according to a Rome radio broadcast heard in London last night.]

"The army and air force between them destroyed 136 enemy armored vehicles, 60 of them in the Stalingrad area alone," the high command said.

Without detail, it said there was continued fighting around Veliki Luki [claimed by the Russians on New Year's day], and in the area southeast of Lake Ilmen [south of Leningrad].

32 CASES OF LIQUOR STOLEN.

Thirty-two cases of liquor valued at $962 were stolen from a truck belonging to the P. A. Johnson company, teaming contractors at 452 North Jefferson street, it was reported to police yesterday.

MARETH BARRIER LOOMS LARGE IN ALLIED STRATEGY

Two Ways for Rommel Use of Tunisian Line.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

WITH COL. RAFF'S TASK FORCE IN TUNISIA, Jan. 10 [Delayed]—[Censored].—The Mareth ["Little Maginot"] line, originally built by the French for defense against the Italians in Tripolitania [western Libya], is looming largest in the over-all strategical picture as the time nears for a showdown with the axis forces in Tunisia.

The line extends from Mareth near the sea below Gabes, southward into the mountains. The line offers two possibilities.

German Marshal Erwin Rommel may use the line as a last line of resistance against the British 8th army advancing from Libya and the French column from Lake Chad, or may reverse the line, using it as a defense for Tripolitania against the allied threat from the northwest.

French officers assert the line cannot be reversed. Americans aware of German ingenuity are not so certain.

Forts Once Dismantled.

If Rommel planned to use the line against the British 8th army, his task of rehabilitation of the defenses actually was made more difficult by his own people. After the armistice in 1940 the German-Italian armistice commission compelled the French to dismantle the major part of the fortifications. Now the Germans and Italians probably are reinstalling the same fortifications.

The Mareth line, according to men who have visited it, consists of three separate defensive positions. The southernmost is a line of small blockhouses extending from Ben Gardan to the southwest edge of the mountains south of Foum Tatahouine. The second line runs from the coast near Rass el Djerf off Jerba Island southwest thru Medenine. It is anchored in the mountains at Foum Tatahouine. The third and strongest line runs from the coast thru Sarat [or Zarat] and Mareth southwest into the mountains at about Toujane.

A third possible use of the line exists. In American and British hands it could be used as a defensive line for an attack on the axis in Tripolitania.

Headquarters in His Hat.

Visitors to this task force, whether three star generals, colonels, second lieutenants or Stars and Stripes reporters, continually are astonished at the informality and lack of staff at Col. E. D. Raff's headquarters.

In the first days of the task force, when at one time Raff and 40 paratroopers were the entire force at Gafsa, Tunisia, Raff carried the headquarters in his hat. All he needed was a pocketful of minimum rations, a table, chair, telephone, and a floor and blanket for sleeping.

Now, when the force's strength is much greater, headquarters is much the same. Two bare rooms, some maps, two telephones, two tables, three rickety chairs and two cots.

In tactics and strategy Raff is aggressive but never foolhardy.

Raff frankly admits his own shortcomings as commander of the hodgepodge task force of many different arms while his training has been air borne.

"I am a paratrooper only," Raff told his officers. "I'm not a tanker or a tank destroyer man. I know you'd all rather be with your own units and your own commanders. You should be and you will be soon. Just bear with me a little longer and help me run this strange task force, and remember I'm trying to do a completely unfamiliar job."

BIG FRENCH WARSHIP AT DAKAR READY TO FIGHT IN 'FEW MONTHS'

ALLIED HDG., North Africa, Jan. 11 (AP).—Vice Adm. William Glassford Jr., head of a United States mission to Dakar, said today the 35,000 ton French battleship Richelieu at Dakar would be refitted and within a few months will be a top notch ship fighting with the allied navies. The Richelieu was damaged earlier in the war by the British attack on Dakar.

Under allied plans, Glassford said, Dakar comes under territory administered by the British admiral of the South Atlantic and "the French admiral in charge now is working with the British and greater coöperation can be expected."

American divers and technical experts have arrived at Dakar to supervise the rehabilitation of the Richelieu and other warships at the West African port. This work, Glassford said, is paving the way for "establishment of allied naval operations at Dakar." The other French warships, including three 6 inch gun cruisers, were suffering from lack of upkeep. Glassford said the French had divided up their merchant fleet at Dakar, part for their own needs and part into an allied pool.

MECARTNEY CITES HOOVER TO BACK SEDITION DENIAL

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, has been subpenaed to appear as a defense witness for Attorney Newell Mecartney, one of three men on trial for sedition before a jury in Federal Judge William H. Holly's court. It was announced yesterday that Hoover would testify tomorrow.

Mecartney took the stand during the day and denied that he had any part in the preparation or distribution of seditious pamphlets. He asserted that a speech he made before We the Mothers Mobilize, Inc., had first been submitted to Hoover. The government prosecutors, William J. Connor and John J. Kelly Jr., contend the talk was seditious.

The two on trial with Mecartney are Elmer Hartzel, 51, of 21 West 110th street and Elmer W. Soller, 39, of 4223 North Moody avenue. Mecartney also denied a statement made by Soller on the witness stand earlier that the latter had submitted the pamphlets in question to the attorney before they were returned to Hartzel for distribution. Soller, who had offices with Mecartney, mimeographed the pamphlets for Hartzel.

Serb Sappers Wreck Nazi Troop Train; 100 Killed

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 11.—It was semi-officially announced in Rome this evening that last Saturday a German troop train on the Zagreb-Karlovac line jumped the rails and fell into a ravine following sabotage by Gen. Draja Mihailovitch's "sappers." At least 100 German soldiers were killed and 400 injured. A number of hostages have been arrested.

RIFLE CLEANER WOUNDED.

Matt Radosevich, 29 years old, 2947 East 97th street, a laborer, was shot in the chest and seriously wounded yesterday when a .22 caliber rifle discharged accidentally as he was cleaning it in his home.

U. S. AND BRITISH FLYERS RIP AXIS BASES IN AFRICA

Bomb Rommel in Libya; Ports in Tunisia.

ALLIED HDQ., North Africa, Jan. 11 (AP).—American and British air men operating in perfect synchronization are beating at the axis from Tripoli to Tunisia, striking at Marshal Erwin Rommel's lines in his westward retreat from Libya and keeping under running attack the bases where he might seek juncture with the axis Tunisian army.

In the latest of these assaults in Tunisia, an American air force spokesman reported today that American bombers had assaulted Gabes, southern Tunisia, now a main supply base for Rommel's forces; Kairouan, the axis traffic junction in central Tunisia, and the German military camp of Kebili, 65 miles to the west of Gabes.

Martin Marauder [B-26] bombers hit the railroad yards and oil tanks at Gabes while Bostons pounded Kebili and Mitchell bombers attacked the railroad junction just north of the port of Hammamet, 40 miles to the southeast of Tunis.

Smashes Nazi Headquarters.

One of the most spectacular air actions reported during the day was a one man assault by Maj. Phillip Cochran of Erie, Pa., who leads a Warhawk [P-40] fighting group. Flying alone low over Kairouan he dropped a big bomb, the only one he carried, squarely in the middle of the German military headquarters, smashing it.

On returning from the target he was attacked by a Focke-Wulf 190. Altho his plane was shot up, he held off the German fighter and returned safely to his base.

[The Morocco radio broadcast a French communique saying a German attack southwest of Foundouk in central Tunisia (south of Kairouan) was repulsed. Patrol activity was reported southwest of Pont du Fahs (south of Tunis).]

Bomb Harbor of Tunis.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 11 (AP).—Liberator heavy bombers of the 9th United States air force smashed at La Goulette, the outer section of the port of Tunis, in a daylight raid yesterday.

Allied fighter-bombers swept over Sicily and Lampedusa Island, between Malta and the Tunisian coast, to strike axis air fields.

Allied planes continued to hold a protective cover over the British 8th army which is again pursuing Rommel's African corps, shooting down one German dive bomber.

Two fighter-bomber sweeps were loosed against enemy motor transport columns at Wadi Rami, south of Misurata, which stands at the northern western tip of the Gulf of Sirte.

350 Miles From Tripoli.

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Jacques Leclerc, leader of the Fighting French force which has been moving northward from the Lake Chad region of southern Libya and was last reported at Brach, 350 miles south of Tripoli, said today that "operations are proceeding satisfactorily" in the northern fezzan [desert]. "We are going ahead rapidly with the military and administrative organization of the territory occupied by the Fighting French forces," his communique said.

"We are going ahead rapidly with the military and administrative organization of the territory occupied by the Fighting French forces," his communique said.

Claim Attacks Repulsed.

ROME, Jan. 11 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—Allied attacks were repulsed by axis forces in Tunisia and some prisoners and weapons were captured, while axis aircraft raided advanced lines, the Italian high command said today. Scouting activity was reported on the Libyan front.

R. A. F. Bombers Strike Again at Nazi Targets

LONDON, Jan. 12 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Royal air force bombers, after attacking the German Ruhr five times last week, were over Germany again last night, it was stated authoritatively today. Saturday night the big bombers unloaded their bombs, including two ton "blockbusters," on the great industrial center of Essen.

GEN. EISENHOWER CONGRATULATES JUGO-SLAV CHIEF

Recalls Recognition of Darlan.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's telegram of congratulations to Gen. Draja Mahailovitch, leader of the Jugo-Slavian people's army of liberation, throws light on the underground forces which have attempted to undermine Eisenhower's recognition of the late Adm. Jean Darlan as the principal French authority in North Africa.

Eisenhower's message was as follows:

"American forces in Europe and the United States congratulate their comrades in arms, the immortal and courageous Jugo-Slav units under your brilliant command.

"Your immortal warriors, united on their mother soil and determined to drive out the invader with a noble spirit of sacrifice, serve the common cause of the united nations. May the new year bring them every success."

It is no secret that one reason for France's fall was that to a large part of the population, the prospects of victory over Germany were nearly as terrifying as defeat.

Foresaw Reds' Spread.

They foresaw the spread of communism if Germany were defeated, and those fears explain the determination of both the Daladier and Reynaud governments to wipe out communism in France. Daladier even went so far as to say during the Russo-Finnish war that Stalin constituted just as great a danger as Hitler.

Even defeat by Germany was insufficient to convert these powerful elements in France to the adoption of a more favorable attitude toward communism. It can be presumed therefore that the only French leader competent to deliver France into active collaboration with the allies was unwilling to prepare the ground for a Red revolution.

Mihailovitch, as well as Darlan, opposed communism. The Jugo-Slavian state had never recognized the soviet government until Hitler arranged a pact between Belgrade and Moscow. Under czarist Russia the Serbs, as well as the other Slav populations of Europe, were the particular concern of that country. Indeed, it was because of the Austro-Hungarian attack on Serbia following the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand that Europe plunged into the last war.

Darlan Hated by Reds.

The soviet government now has taken steps to keep itself informed both from Washington and London of all political arrangements Eisenhower is making in North Africa.

Darlan was hated by the Communists primarily because he was bitterly anti-Communist, but he was hated by the De Gaullists on the ground that he collaborated with the Germans and refused to collaborate with Gen. Charles de Gaulle. He was hated by the British because of his long record of anti-British sentiments, and also because they believe he played ball with Germany until the United States got into the war and then—collaborated with the allies because of a conviction that they would win the war.

Therefore, the rumpus over Darlan's recognition by Eisenhower and the cheers here for his death are not entirely applicable in the picture of resentment against Mihailovitch.

IT'S PIPE TO WORK YOUR WAY THRU COLLEGE—IN WAR

Demands for Students Exceed Supply.

BY MARTHA MURPHY.

Baby minding and subscription selling jobs now are as passé with college students as the coonskin coat and the rolled stocking. Directors of the placement bureaus of several large schools in this area said yesterday that employers' demands for boys and girls working their way thru college exceed the supply.

"Board and room jobs once were seventh heaven to our working students," said Robert C. Woellner, director of the board of vocational guidance and placement at the University of Chicago. "Now they're hardly acceptable."

Ask for 40 at a Time.

Frank S. Endicott, director of the placement bureau of Northwestern university, cited cases where employers ask for 40 or 50 workers at a time instead of only one or two, as they did several years ago. A north side radio manufacturer has asked for as many workers as the bureau can send. A two month compilation by the bureau showed 1,900 available positions with only 1,200 students to fill them.

Miss Dorothy Dockstader, director of the placement bureau of De Paul university, estimated that demands for student workers are four times as numerous now as they were several years ago. Officials of other schools placed the increase at 200 or 300 per cent.

Pay has risen along with the demands. Where once a student was paid 35 cents an hour, today he makes an average of 50 cents an hour. Rates vary with the skill and time involved.

Woman Cost Accountants.

There are almost overwhelming demands for secretarial help, law clerks, department store sales personnel and stock clerks, chemists, and accountants. Mundelein college reported placing the first woman cost accountant ever hired by a large utilities company. De Paul had a request for a part time newspaper man while Northwestern has placed several men in photographers' studios.

Placement directors and vocational guidance advisers are reveling in the employment boom. "At last we can help the student find a position which will dovetail with his training," Endicott, the Northwestern director, said. "Such experience not only offers him immediate financial benefit but will set him ahead when he is graduated. More than one student has reported that he is learning a great deal from his job which he couldn't learn in a craft shop or from a textbook. One of the most important things the student workers are learning is to organize their time."

Employers Learn, Too.

And while the students learn to budget their time, the employers necessarily are learning to reallocate theirs. Few students have schedules with full free afternoons because both their courses and the school year have been accelerated. An employer who requests a full time worker often modifies his demand to a part time employé.

One who asks for half time may have to be satisfied with a few hours. Some are hiring two or three students to replace one regular worker. More and more women are being hired.

In the spring, placement bureaus expect the customary deluge of demands for window washers, gardeners, and house cleaners. A few hope to place students who have odd hours in such jobs. Others will listen to the requests, laugh softly, and hang up.

N.Y. OIL SUPPLY SITUATION IS NOT CRITICAL: DEWEY

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 11 [Special].—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today announced that the state-wide survey he ordered on the shortage of heating oil revealed that the situation was not critical, but that several sections in Westchester and Long Island were hard hit, as were several large buildings in New York City.

Meantime it was understood that the oil supply problem might be considerably relieved with the arrival of a large shipment of heating oil. If this alleviates the situation it is believed, Gov. Dewey will not take any official action.

One of the main problems is the difficulty confronting small distributors. In past years, these distributors either brought in their own oil or shopped around among larger distributors for it.

When rationing went into effect, however, these small distributors were unable to get oil in by themselves or buy it from the larger distributors.

ADMITS SHOOTING HIS WAY OUT AT ROBBERY SCENE

Parolee Is Identified as Holdup Slayer.

Police yesterday captured Leo Zajac, 39 years old, twice paroled convict, and announced that he had confessed the holdup slaying of James Masopust, 56, an elevator operator, killed during the $840 robbery of the United Parcel service, 2301 Federal street, Saturday night.

A squad of detectives under Sergt. Robert Ryan seized Zajac in his room at the Lane hotel, 878 North Clark street, after they had received a telephone tip that a man whose clothes were bloodstained had been seen there. Zajac's right hand was cut and bandaged and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan said Zajac admitted it was injured when he smashed a glass panel in a door of the Federal street building to escape. Masapust, who had seen the robbery in progress, locked the door and armed only witn a hammer, waylaid the bandit in a corridor outside the parcel service office.

Spent Money on 'Spree.'

Zajac does not know that the man he shot is dead, Sullivan said. The short, bald headed, 200 pound bandit said he had been "on a spree" since the shooting and had not read any newspapers, the chief reported. He said that he had lost all the loot from the holdup in a tavern.

"I shot the man [Masopust] because he was in my way and I wanted to get out," Sullivan quoted Zajac as saying.

Sullivan said Zajac told how he had been "tipped off" that there was money at the parcel service office and had visited the place the day before to reconnoiter. He also called to make sure that a driver who had been described to him as "tough" was out of the office.

Identified as Bandit.

After the robbery he took a taxi to Oak and Clark streets, where he washed and dressed his injured hand, the chief said. Then he threw into the river the money baks he had taken in the holdup and "started on a spree," Sullivan asserted.

Zajac was identified by Mrs. Catherine Ryan, 35, of 4123 Washington boulevard, and Daniel Conant, 16942 Jodave avenue, Hazelcrest, who were in the parcel service office. A company driver with whom Mrs. Ryan was talking on the telephone when the bandit entered, called police. They arrived only a few minutes after the robbery to find Masopust fatally wounded, with the hammer he had used as a weapon lying near his body. The bandit had gone out the shattered front door, leaving a .32 caliber pistol on the snow outside.

Zajac's police record shows that he was fined $25 and costs on an assault charge, reduced from attempted robbery, on Feb. 14, 1933. On June 14, 1934, he was sentenced to one year to life in Joliet penitentiary for armed robbery. He was paroled May 19, 1939, to a Pulaski, Wis., man and was supposed to work there as a printer.

Lived in Sister's Home.

Later he moved to Chicago where his parole sponsor was changed. He was assigned to live at the home of a sister here. He was reprimanded for misconduct on four occasions and was accused of drinking and failing to return to his sister's home.

On May 26, 1941, he was charged with stealing $18 from the baby bank of his sister's children and re-committed to the penitentiary as a parole violator. He remained in the penitentiary until last Oct. 7 when he was granted another parole, this time to Eugene S. Zemans of the Central Howard association, 608 South Dearborn street, described by police as a welfare agency.

Sullivan declared that Zajac's case is "another proof that the parole system in Illinois is abominable."

FBI CAPTURES 5 GERMAN ALIENS, RIFLE, AND RADIO

Five more German aliens—three men and two women—were seized in Chicago during the week-end by federal bureau of investigation agents, Spencer J. Drayton, agent in charge of the FBI here, disclosed yesterday. Since the attack on Pearl Harbor, 219 aliens have been taken into custody. Of the total, 205 are German, 8 are Japanese, and 6 are Italians.

Names of the new prisoners were withheld, but Drayton said one was a former German infantryman, another had served with the Nazi merchant marine, and a third had a quantity of German real estate marks.

Agents confiscated a short wave radio, a rifle, and two cameras owned by one of the women.

AERIAL SEARCH MADE FOR PILOT, MISSING PLANE

Chicago Flyer Last Seen Sunday Afternoon.

Six civilian pilots, members of the Illinois Aeronautics commission, began a search yesterday of northern Illinois for Ted Rapala, 26 years old, an amateur flyer, who failed to return after taking off from American airport Sunday afternoon for a final flight prior to his induction into the army today.

Searching pilots late yesterday afternoon observed a T-shape object on the Westward Ho golf course at Wolf road and North avenue which they believed may have been the missing plane. Deputy sheriffs were sent to investigate, but had found nothing by midnight.

Illinois state police radioed to Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin, a description of the bright yellow Piper Cub trainer Rapala was flying.

Fuel for Hour of Flying.

The young flyer, a defense plant machinist, who had logged more than 50 hours, appeared at the airport, Devon avenue and Higgins road, Park Ridge, and took off in the plane, which had sufficient fuel to remain aloft an hour.

Rapala expressed a desire to make a final flight before entering the army and received clearance papers for 45 minutes of flying. When he failed to return, Maynard Dowell, manager of the airport, notified Morton Grove county highway police.

A short while later a Willow Springs squad reported they had seen a dismantled plane being hauled south on La Grange road. Police established later that this plane belonged to Gerard Cole, 1220 Spruce street, Winnetka.

Saw Plane Stunting.

E. A. Gibbs of 1031 Washington street, Park Ridge, reported that a yellow plane had been stunting dangerously over his house at about 3:15 p. m. Sunday. Mark W. Pickell, 176 West Adams street, said he observed a similar plane flying in an easterly direction near Naperville about 4 p. m.

Rapala lived with his mother at 3116 Avondale avenue. He had been a regular flyer at the airport, according to the manager, and had not been asked to place a deposit on the training plane, which is valued at $1,500.

F. X. BUSHMAN'S LETTER TO JUDGE HELD CONTEMPT

Ex-Film Star Assailed Mayer 'Blacklist'

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 11 [Special].—Francis X. Bushman, matinée idol of the silent screen two decades ago, was back in the limelight today.

Francis X. Bushman.

Federal Judge Leon Yankwich termed him un-American and in contempt of court and asserted he would turn over to the United States attorney, for whatever action is deemed advisable, a letter Bushman wrote to him concerning a case on trial. The former film star charged blacklisting in the movie industry and declared he had been prevented from working in major studios since 1925.

The trial was that of Channing Drexel Lipton, 25 years old, a song writer, and Meyer Philip Grace, 39, former welterweight boxer, in connection with alleged attempts to extort $250,000 from Louis B. Mayer, film executive.

Lipton Acquitted.

Lipton was acquitted by a jury last night of an attempt to extort, but the jury disagreed on a second count of threatening Mayer with bodily harm. Grace was acquitted of two counts of being an accessory after the fact.

Lipton testified during the trial that he sent Mayer a letter to cause him "grief and anguish" and demanded $250,000 because, he said, Mayer had caused his father, Lew Lipton, a screen writer, to be blacklisted by the studios. He said the ban followed a disagreement with Mayer.

After the verdict had been returned Judge Yankwich announced from the bench that he had received a letter from Bushman. The former star had asked that the letter be kept secret.

Bushman wrote that his intention was to be helpful, that he did not condone the crime involved in the case, but believed "a certain condition exists in the moving picture studios that should be known and blamed."

"It is known as a BLACKLIST," Bushman wrote. "This young man's dad was denied work at the studios, so I read several days ago. This is the most deadly weapon wielded by the studio executives, and the most feared by the acting profession.

Deserved "Scare."

"Several former stars, contemporaries of mine, committed suicide because of this cruel practice. There is no recourse. It is deadly and it is final. You are damned without a hearing.

"It is about time some of Louis B. Mayer's chickens came home to roost. He deserved this scare. Perhaps it may have some salutary effect. While I know in my heart he has kept me from the major studios since 1925, I have no proof—there were no witnesses to our conversation.

"In my case it was an imaginary slight given by a new valet. He was an educated mulatto who know nobody in pictures; had been here but 24 hours. Before a very large gathering of picture people he told Mayer I was busy and had no time to see him. Mrs. M. and the daughters were along, so it looked like a planned public snub. It blasted my name and fame. He refused to listen to any explanation."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

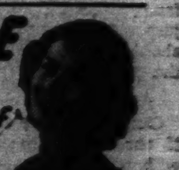
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.



SKIN CARE that brings the SMILE of RELIEF

COUNTY ORDERED TO ABOLISH 215 FEE OFFICE JOBS

Prospects of Balancing Budget Are Gloomy.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Judges of the Circuit court, in an order issued yesterday, abolished 215 jobs from the pay rolls of 13 county fee offices and put squarely upon the county board the responsibility for making a substantial cut of all-over appropriations in the county's 1943 budget.

Under a constitutional provision the court fixes the number of fee office employés, who numbered 2,275 in 1942, but the board fixes the pay of these employés and has full control over numbers and pay of the other 60 per cent of the county workers.

Ask Decrease in Personnel.

The court's committee on employés, composed of Judges Julius H. Miner, John Prystalski, and Denis Normoyle, told of requests for large cuts, even up to 20 per cent in personnel, that officials of the board had asked the court to make.

They quoted a letter written by Clayton F. Smith, board president, which suggested there be a uniform reduction of 10 per cent in all office employés and a 5 per cent slash in the cost of charitable institutions and welfare work.

The judges, who approved the committee report, called attention to the archaic provision that makes the judiciary responsible for the number of employés, and suggested that steps be taken to amend the state constitution to relieve them of their unwelcome task.

They also said the county furnishes jurors to the Municipal court and that the court keeps the fees it receives from litigants for the work of the jurors, and suggested the collection of about $35,000 a year be turned back to the county.

Cut in Pay Roll Necessary.

Cuts in the pay roll are necessary if the county is to balance income with outgo. Last year the appropriations exceeded income by 2½ millions and the county has piled up bills of 5 millions. Even if the judges' advice is followed, it is doubtful if the balance can be attained.

Maurice F. Kavanagh, the county board's finance chairman, explained some of the budget making difficulties.

"It is not clear whether the men to be laid off are high priced or low priced help," he said. "My guess is that they are not the highest paid—they seldom are.

"The offices under the county board are going to make an honest effort to economize and get along as well as they can. I doubt if our cuts as a whole will be anything near 10 per cent—6½ per cent would be a better guess.

Expects Some Pay Raises.

"Men will not work for extremely low wages. We have guards at the county jail getting $139 a month and it's hard to get them at that figure. Nurses and orderlies at the hospital are asking more than their present wages and we may have to raise some of them. Certainly we will have to meet union scale increases."

Kavanagh said the board would do all possible to cut down and that he expected to be working on the budget by Thursday.

The judges made the following changes in the number of fee office workers:

Office.	Number in 1942.	Number in 1943.
Circuit court clerk	92	83
Superior court clerk	77	69
County court clerk	32	28
Probate court clerk	63	57
Criminal court clerk	51	46
County treasurer	411	377
Treasurer [extra help]	161	142
Sheriff	844	762
Coroner	46	42
Recorder	289	260
Juvenile court, probation	156	145
Juvenile ct., adult probation	35	32
Jury commissioners	12	11
Public defender	6	6
Totals	2,275	2,060

Most of the reduction in the sheriff's office was represented by a cut of 51 in the number of county highway deputies. This force was increased by 100 men last year and is still 50 per cent larger than it was in 1941.

At a hearing on the city's board of education budget, which stands tentatively at about 203 million dollars, a delegation of teachers expressed the hope that they could have pay raises larger than a proposed 5½ per cent. Newton C. Farr, president of the Civic federation, asked for a reduction of the school tax rate from an estimated $3.57 to $3.29.

11 Stands Set Up

Dropping dimes sounded a tinkling obbligato at the official dedication yesterday of the Mile o' Dimes booth at State and Randolph streets, one of 11 stands in Chicago, Evanston, and Oak Park to raise funds for the fight against infantile paralysis.

Mayor Kelly, who presided at the dedicating ceremonies at the State and Randolph street booth, predicted that Chicagoans will respond generously to the appeal for funds. The booths are sponsored by the Cook county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which hopes to raise $250,000 in Chicago and suburbs.

REP. DEWEY MAY BE FIFTH G.O.P. MAYORAL ENTRY

Denies Knowledge of Election Petitions.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Possibility of still another candidate entering the already four cornered race for the Republican nomination for mayor developed yesterday with a revelation that nominating petitions were being printed in the name of Congressman Charles S. Dewey of the 9th district.

The congressman was having a busy day in Washington, where he was slated by the Republicans for membership on the important ways and means committee, but he stopped long enough to deny knowledge of the mayoralty boom for him without frowning on it too severely.

"I have my work to do here, especially since I was chosen today for the ways and means committee," he said.

"As a regular Republican, I am naturally a good soldier and I will do whatever is best for the party."

Thursday the Deadline.

Then he denied that he had authorized circulation of the petition on his behalf. Since Thursday is the last day for the filing of nomination papers, gathering of the 3,009 signatures required would have to be started either today or tomorrow. Therefore it was suggested that Dewey enthusiasts may merely have been engaging in a bit of preparedness for a possible consent from Dewey.

This theory was supported by a definite report that one of the north side committeemen recently urged Dewey to become a mayoral candidate and received a conditional consent—with the condition of a sort that it seemed impossible to meet. Dewey was said to have agreed to run if he could be shown proof of support from 20 of the 50 ward committeemen.

Since the committeemen recently indorsed Roger Faherty unanimously in a caucus which was considered binding, it was thought doubtful that 20 of them would sign in favor of another candidate.

Conferences in Springfield.

Another theory advanced last night was that important conferences being held in Springfield might have something to do with Dewey. This was authoritatively denied later, but Springfield observers concluded that all was not well with the Faherty campaign and that still another candidate might be put into the field. In this connection the name of George B. McKibbin, Gov. Green's director of finance, was mentioned.

That something big was under discussion in the executive mansion was the opinion of Springfield veterans when Gov. Green, National Committeeman Werner W. Schroeder, Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, Ferre C. Watkins, who had been mentioned as a possible choice as Faherty's manager, and Faherty himself emerged after more than an hour's talk with an obviously agreed announcement that there was "no news."

If the discussion had been merely the selection of Watkins as campaign manager, it was thought, a 15 minute talk would have disposed of the matter. But when it became known that the conferees would meet again last evening, it was felt no conclusion was possible except that questions of first importance were being discussed.

When the second conference dissolved after midnight all the participants continued their "no news" chorus; but it was noted that some of them, who earlier had planned to return to Chicago on night trains, remained in Springfield as if to await developments today.

CHARGES MAYOR DELAYS TRANSIT SYSTEM MERGER

Spokesman for Security Owners Cites Block.

Blame for Chicago's present "archaic" transportation system was laid at the door of Mayor Kelly and the city council by Frank J. Durham, president of the Citizens Transportation association, in a statement yesterday before the Illinois commerce commission hearing into Chicago's traction unification plan.

Frank J. Durham.

The association is a group of individuals owning securities of the Chicago Surface Lines. Mr. Durham appeared in opposition to the proposed unification plan, which was approved by the voters last summer. Durham termed the plan "unworkable, unfair, and not possible to finance."

Criticized for Delays.

"There has been some criticism of our association," said Mr. Durham, reading from a statement over the vigorous objections of James Danaher, assistant corporation counsel. "The association has been made by Mayor Kelly and the press to appear the sole reason that this long mooted traction question has not been settled because of the obstinacy of security holders.

"This is not a fact. The commission should know that the sole reason why the people of Chicago do not have a modern, up to date transportation system is because Mayor Kelly and the Chicago city council have in every way prevented, blocked, and obstructed any attempts to modernize cars, and make improvements to bring the citizens of Chicago better transportation.

"We state that the entire blame for the present archaic system—these wooden cars—the accidents and wrecks which have occurred and the accidents, injuries, and possible deaths which will occur as a result of wooden cars on the elevated lines, rests in our opinion on the shoulders of no one else than Mayor Kelly and the city council.

"If the Chicago Surface Lines do not have up to date streamlined cars such as those operating on Madison street and which are in operation in almost every other metropolitan city in the United States, Mayor Kelly and no one else is to blame.

"If the elevated does not have a block signal system that is safe and adequate and other modern improvements to make it a high speed rapid transit system, Mayor Kelly and no one else is to blame.

Recalls New Car Plan.

"If people are crowded in cars, if they are delayed in getting to their war jobs, if their lives and limbs are endangered because of wooden cars and unprotected rights of way, Mayor Kelly and no one else in the city of Chicago is to blame."

Mr. Durham called attention to the fact that the surface lines sought authority in 1936 to buy streamlined cars, and that the mayor opposed the purchase at that time.

"Subsequently in 1937," he continued, "the mayor in a grandiose scheme for putting buses in Chicago, abandoning much of the elevated track, and creating super highways, presented to Chicago a most visionary dream."

William H. Sexton, former corporation counsel and now special traction attorney for the city, spent two and a half hours cross-examining Durham.

CONFESSES PLOT TO EXTORT; GETS SIX MONTH TERM

Abe H. Brown, 55 years old, an exconvict, was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $1 by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Felony court yesterday when he pleaded guilty to attempting to extort $23,120 from Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III.

Following his arrest last Thursday at the Lake Forest home of the Armours, Brown said the sum represented part payment of money promised him by Mrs. Armour's father, the late Charles H. Schweppe, investment banker and civic leader, for saving the latter's life in Boston in 1904. He said he was to receive $20,000 and an annuity of $1,020.

The jail term was recommended by Leslie Curtis and Francis McCurrie, assistant state's attorneys, who spent 45 minutes in conference with Brown and Armour's lawyer, Cyrus H. Adams, before the court was informed that the defendant had agreed to plead guilty to a misdemeanor if a felony charge was dismissed. Brown told the judge he had saved Schweppe's life, but testimony relating to this incident was not introduced at the request of the prosecutors and the Armour attorney.

SECRET IS OUT! KELLY TO FILE FORMAYORTODAY

Mayor Kelly, it was learned last night, will file his own nomination petition this morning—a gigantic thing, 8 feet high, consisting of thousands of pages bound together with special devised steel binder rods.

That doesn't mean that he will carry the record breaking document to the offices of the election commissioners. After it is formally presented to him at the meeting of the city central committee in the Mural room of the Morrison hotel as the plea of approximately 400,000 voters that he run for reëlection, it will be transported to the city hall by motor truck. In the meantime, Kelly will have proceeded there and will be on hand to make the filing official.

It is understood that Benjamin S. Adamowski, former legislative leader, who recently made his peace with the organization, will present an indorsement resolution at the Morrison meeting and that Mayor Kelly will speak briefly, voicing for the first time his consent to run.

MERCHANT SHIP SUNK BY U-BOAT IN U. S. WATERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—The navy today announced a medium size allied nations merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by a submarine in December in the Atlantic off northern South America. The navy said survivors have been landed at Norfolk, Va., and Miami, Fla., but other details were not announced. The sinking brought to 586 the number of vessels sunk in the western Atlantic area since Pearl Harbor, according to an unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press. The attacks have cost the lives of 3,790 persons, 2,458 are missing, and 17,649 have been rescued.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

[This department will answer questions concerning problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

Mrs. J. B. asks: "Is there any way in which I can receive an increase of the family allowance, which I now receive? My only son is in the army, and I find $37 is insufficient for my needs."

ANSWER: There is no way in which you can obtain an increase of the allowance now being sent to you under the service men's dependents bill, because the amount is set by law. However, if you are in urgent need, you might consult the Army Emergency Relief society, room 521, 433 West Van Buren street.

Mrs. M. K. asks: "Can you tell me if a man and his wife can receive benefits as dependents from their son in the army, if the man has been, and is employed? If the man is laid off, can it be claimed then, or do they have to wait until they use up their savings?"

ANSWER: Without knowing the income of the family and whether or not the service man previously provided a substantial amount of the family's support, it is difficult to answer your question. Parents are class "B" dependents, and the service man must voluntarily consent to contribute $22 of his salary toward an allowance for them. They, on the other hand, must prove dependency and relationship by filing notarized affidavits. If the man is unemployed and they need the contribution for support, it would be possible to file an application at that time. Cases are considered on an individual basis.

M. S. writes: "My husband is in the army and is now serving overseas. It seems to take six or eight weeks for my mail to reach him, and because I am now leaving the state, I am anxious that the army have a record of my new address in the event that they wish to communicate with me. Can you tell me how I should go about notifying them?"

ANSWER: Whenever possible, it is always best to have the service man originate a report of change of address, and I would suggest that you write your husband concerning it. However, since it takes some time to reach him, you might also notify the adjutant general, war department, Washington, D. C. When you write, be sure to include your husband's full name, serial number, rank, address, and any other identifying information you might have.

Mrs. T. S. asks: "Will you tell me how many months a dependent must wait before receiving a family allowance? I sent the necessary affidavits to my son on Nov. 1, and on the 20th of last month at the time he was paid, they deducted the contribution from his salary, but I still received nothing."

ANSWER: Your family allowance has just begun to accrue, and payment cannot possibly be made until at least the next succeeding month. All applications go to headquarters for aproval.

PRISONER TOUHY LOSES ANOTHER BID FOR FREEDOM

Roger Touhy, kidnaper, gangster, and leader of the spectacular escape from Stateville penitentiary which ended in a federal bureau of investigation roundup of his gang and the slaying of two of his six pals Dec. 28, lost another bid for freedom yesterday. Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan dismissed an amended habeas corpus petition filed by his attorney, Joseph T. Harrington, and ruled that his court had no jurisdiction. He threw out a similar plea a week ago on the same ground.

Leo Carr.

Harrington had charged that the kidnaping of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, for which Touhy is serving a 99 year term, was a hoax. Factor was under subpena to appear at yesterday's hearing and explain. So was Leo Carr, former state highway police superintendent, who had a part in the investigation of the kidnaping.

But Factor was busy in Cedar Rapids, Ia., where he pleaded guilty several weeks ago to a mail fraud and conspiracy charge in connection with liquor warehouse receipts.

Carr appeared in Judge Sullivan's courtroom, but was not called to testify.

FOUR BUS ROUTES RESTORED BY ODT; THREE RULED OUT

Surface Lines Promise Service Tomorrow.

An order of the office of defense transportation, made public yesterday, authorized restoration of surface lines bus operations on four Chicago routes and partial restorations on seven other lines. The same order was adamant, however, that three other heavily traveled routes, Kimball, Kimball-Homan, and Ogden, must remain shut down for the duration.

The lines ordered back in, and on which the surface lines promised service by tomorrow morning, are North, North Austin, and Fullerton avenues, and 83d street. Service on these and all other routes affected by the order was shut down Dec. 1 to comply with an ODT order that 15 per cent of the operations be abandoned to save rubber.

Extend Bus Routes.

Nonrush hour and Sunday service is to be resumed on the Montrose avenue, Division street, Elston avenue, and 87th street lines, and short extensions are to be made to the 71st and 103d street and Archer avenue bus routes.

On the four lines restored, it was announced, fewer buses will be run in nonrush hours, but in no case will there be less than one bus to each 20 minutes.

Mayor Kelly said he was still hopeful something could be done for patrons of the Kimball and Kimball-Homan lines. Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the council committee on local transportation, asserted that with the Kimball lines out, the Kedzie avenue cars were utterly inadequate to handle their loads.

Original Order Protested.

Under the original order, the surface lines were empowered to make the bus mileage cuts as they wished, so long as the rubber saving was made. There were many complaints from patrons of the lines shut down, and the city and the Illinois Commerce commission joined in asking changes.

Maj. R. F. Kelker, city transit expert, argued in favor of percentage cuts on all lines in nonrush hours instead of removal of whole routes. He and other experts also held that new bus lines to war plants should not appear in the totals to be slashed. This latter plea was presented to Guy A. Richardson, ODT local transportation director, a former Chicagoan, and was allowed.

SAVACHKA STAYS SILENT ON OWN UNION ACTIVITY

Michael Savachka, a principal in the $910,000 looting of the retail clerks' union, who is under indictment as a draft dodger and conspirator and faces army induction as well, squirmed thru two hearings yesterday, brushing aside questions with refusals to answer on grounds he might incriminate himself.

He was called first before a county grand jury in a vain attempt to reopen the swindle of old local 1248 of the clerks' union, which lost the $910,000 and its books and records as well under the reign of Max Caldwell, deposed business manager. He refused to sign an immunity waiver or to answer most of the questions put to him, it was learned.

He then took the witness stand on cross-examination before Daniel Covelli, master in chancery, who for nearly two years has been hearing the civil suit of union members against Caldwell, Savachka and other defendants. He again refused to answer most of the questions relating to the union funds, books and activities put by Atty. Francis Heisler, representing the union members. The hearing was continued to Jan. 19.

OFTEN PAROLED FELON GETS TWO 20 YEAR TERMS

Judge Reviews Long Record of Crime.

A Stateville parolee with a crime record dating from 1928, described as an offender who never "learned his lesson" because he managed perennially to get off with light sentences, was sentenced to two concurrent 20 year terms yesterday by Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court.

The parolee, William Anderson, 34 years old, was found guilty of robbing a young woman war plant worker of her purse and looting a south side apartment on Dec. 24.

Record of Petty Crime.

After studying Anderson's long record of convictions for petty crimes since 1928 and the short terms he served, Judge Sbarbaro said:

"You seem to have the faculty of being able to get out after you are put in. I'm going to put you in so that you'll stay in."

For his early offenses, Anderson's record showed he got off with small fines or brief jail terms. On Dec. 15, 1935, he was imprisoned at Stateville for burglary, but won a parole in 1939.

Anderson was returned to Stateville the following year for violation of parole, but was reparoled July 6, 1942.

Carries Shotgun.

Early on Christmas eve Anderson broke into the home of Mrs. Ruth Sharpe, 431 West 66th street, and carried away a large quantity of clothing and several articles of jewelry, which he cached in his home.

Then, armed with a shotgun which he said he had reduced to sawed off length to "protect his home from prowlers," Anderson held up Miss Audrey Doermer, 6551 Normal boulevard, in the alley at the rear of her home, and robbed her of her purse. A police squad who heard her call for help seized Anderson later with the gun hidden under his overcoat.

CALLS 'MORALE' CHARGES PART OF SMEAR PLOT

Hoffman Attacks Motives in Sedition Case.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] warned the house today that the effort to destroy the people's confidence in congress before the election is still going on. He charged the Marshall Field press with taking a leading part in the plot.

Rep. Clare Hoffman.

The fiery Michigan congressman called upon congress to protect itself by acting on his pending resolution for an investigation and the punishment of those responsible.

Turning to the government's indictment of Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago and 32 others on charges of conspiracy to undermine the morale of the army and navy, Hoffman demanded to know why it was necessary to return a second indictment here on Jan. 4. The Michigan representative asked why prosecution was delayed 71 days until the new indictment was voted if William P. Maloney, special assistant to the attorney general in charge of the prosecution, had sufficient evidence on which to proceed.

Assails Prosecutor's Methods.

Hoffman even asked why Maloney had not indicted him and the other members of the house if the repetition of a statement made on the floor by Hoffman were seditious, as the government charges.

The Michigan congressman asserted that Maloney had himself conspired to induce others to commit sedition, and said: "Maloney's procedure smells to high heaven."

Among those he accused of conspiring to wreck the influence of congress and prevent the reëlection of congressmen against whom the alleged plot was directed Hoffman listed these persons and organizations:

Marshall Field III., publisher of a Chicago paper and PM, a New York daily, the two newspapers; Eugene Meyer, publisher of the Washington Post and his newspaper itself; Dillard Stokes, a Post reporter who has been accused of entrapment of the sedition case defendants by persuading them to send their pamphlets to Washington, where the trial is to be held; Maloney; Walter Winchell, gossip columnist; Earl Browder, the twice convicted head of the Communist party; Nathan Cowan, legislative head of the CIO; the CIO as an organization; Editorial Publications, Inc., which prints the New Republic; The Daily Worker, and the New Masses.

Criticizes Publisher.

In listing Field and his papers, Hoffman said:

"Marshall Field III., the inheritor of several million dollars; his two publications, one the PM of New York, which is but little different from the Communist official publications, and one in Chicago, each brought into existence and wet-nursed by Field's inherited money."

Hoffman conceded that there might have been some who doubted the existence of a plot to defeat members of congress who were on the purge list, a conspiracy which he said the voters defeated by reëlecting the intended victims.

"But," he said, "the fact that such a conspiracy did exist has now been admitted by the editor of one of the publications charged with being a party thereto. That is PM, the adopted child of the multi-millionaire Marshall Field III. From that publication I quote:

"'He [Hoffman said he was meant] says we conspired to beat him and other splendid Americans of his stripe for reëlection to congress last month. He is right. We did so conspire.'"

The Michigan congressman said the statement appeared in the Dec. 11 issue of PM.

Hoffman said his earlier comments about those he blamed for trying to destroy the influence of congress had been criticized on the ground that those he named were unable to defend themselves.

"It is a matter of common knowledge," Hoffman observed, "that Lt. Comm. Walter Winchell had for weeks not only been speaking on the radio but that his column had been printed in many newspapers thruout the land.

"Marshall Field III., according to common report, is able to sink $20,000 a month in his PM publication. He is able to finance a Chicago newspaper and he certainly had the money and the men to carry on the smear plot against members of congress. The Washington Post and Dillard Stokes cannot claim inability to defend themselves."

Replies to Houston.

Replying to an address in which then Rep. John M. Houston [D., Kas.] defended Maloney and the others in December, Hoffman went on:

"Then the gentleman [Houston], abandoning his defense of Maloney, Stokes, and Marshall Field, complains because they were linked with a convicted Communist, Earl Browder. It is unfortunate that those gentleman traveled along in the smear campaign with those to whose company they now object.

"But they should be the last to complain, for they have all followed the procedure of linking the names of senators and congressmen with the names of convicted Nazi agents. Getting a dose of their own medicine where they have asked for it, and where it is justified by the facts, they squawk, and by their squawks show their yellowness. They can hand it out but they can't take it."

Ridicules Personal Charges.

Hoffman ridiculed accusations that he had supplied circulated statements intended to undermine morale among those who are now under indictment for sedition or that his statements were ever so intended.

He smiled when he mentioned that one paragraph which brought him criticism when he inserted it into the Congressional Record, was from Washington's farewell address.

"How much longer," Hoffman demanded, "will the attorney general of the United States permit Maloney and his co-actors to continue to return indictments and delay the trial of those incarcerated? How much longer will the attorney general permit his assistant, Maloney, to smear the members of a coördinate branch of the government."

Why Be Troubled By Wartime Constipation?

Avoid one of the common causes—lack of "bulk"!

No wonder so many folks feel "all done in" these war days! It's the way we live—longer hours, harder work, irregular eating habits. And in this hurly-burly, meals are apt to be rushed, improperly balanced—and the important matter of "bulk" overlooked.

What a difference getting enough "bulk" might make! For lack of it is one of the common causes of constipation. In such cases, medicinal laxatives are only "makeshift" remedies; they don't correct the cause!

But eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly and drinking plenty of water can prevent or overcome this trouble. For this delicious cereal supplies the necessary "bulk." Start eating ALL-BRAN today. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

TO ALL MONTGOMERY WARD PEOPLE

1—You are free to join or not to join a union, as you wish. The Company fully respects this privilege. Your opportunity with the Company will be the same whether you are a union member or not.

2—You do not have to join a union to work at Wards.

3—Wards is opposed to all forms of the closed shop. Liberty requires that an employee be free to join, to refuse to join, or to resign from a union without losing his job. Liberty requires that an employer be free to employ the person best suited for the work.

4—The President of the United States has commanded Wards to accept for its Chicago plant a form of closed shop called "maintenance of membership". Under this form of closed shop, employees are not free to resign from the union without losing their jobs. Wards is compelled to discharge every union member who fails to maintain his union membership in good standing (non-payment of dues, etc.). This making of membership in a union a condition of holding a job is the closed shop.

5—Wards did not voluntarily agree to this requirement. Wards believes it to be illegal and uneconomic. Wards has accepted it under duress and only because the President of the United States expressly so ordered.

6—Wards is the only retailer in the United States upon whom the President has imposed any form of the closed shop. It is unfair to impose burdens upon Wards and not upon those with whom it is in competition. If the retail industry is to be subjected to the closed shop requirement, it should be legislated by Congress and applied uniformly against all retail establishments.

7—The National War Labor Board has now called a hearing to determine whether the employees at Wards' six large stores in Denver, Detroit and New York City must belong to the union in order to hold their jobs. Wards will continue to oppose this illegal and uneconomic requirement. Wards will reject any demand of the Board that employees be discharged because they fail to maintain their union membership.

8—The President of the United States has no authority to order Wards employees to remain union members in order to hold their jobs. Congress is the only law-making authority. Congress has passed no law requiring the closed shop.

ASSEMBLY, 124-1, VOTES PURCHASE OF U. S. BONDS

Green's Plan Approved to Use 40 Millions.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—With only one Democrat voting "no," the house of representatives today passed Gov. Dwight H. Green's bill permitting investment of the state's record breaking surplus in "win the war" federal securities. The measure immediately went to the senate where it was pushed to second reading.

Former Democratic opposition vanished giving Republicans the two-thirds vote necessary to keep the emergency clause in the bill, without which it would have been ineffective until July 1.

These developments assured Gov. Green the keystone of his broad 1943 legislative program—guarding the $52,000,000 surplus from raids of pressure groups which have not had time to enter the new session with spending bills.

Vickars Explains Switch.

Rep. William Vickars of Pontiac, Democratic house leader, made a brief explanation of the change in attitude since last week.

"I don't think it will keep the pressure groups away," he said. "But on the other hand there's no harm in the bill."

In the vote of 124 to 1, the lone dissenter represented A. A. [Boots] Brands [D., Prairie du Rocher], who did not explain his vote.

Unanimous consent was sought to advance another emergency bill, to appropriate $50,000 for the state auditor's office for the added expense of administering the federal victory tax. Rep. Hugh Green [R., Jacksonville] admitted this figure was an estimate. A new pay roll setup, would be needed, with perhaps 35 or 40 more employés, he said.

How Many on Pay Roll?

"How many employés are there on the state pay roll?" the minority leader asked Green. "If we knew that we might guess how much work needs to be done because of the pay roll tax."

"I don't know," Green replied, but while the chuckles were still coming from the Democratic side, he added: "Never in the past 10 years have I known just how many state employés there are. I'll try to find out for you."

"I'm just wondering whether this bill is the start of lump appropriations," the Democrat remarked.

A bill to virtually halve the state automobile license fees, which vary according to horsepower, was introduced by Rep. J. S. Mundy [D., Marshall].

Four deficiency appropriation bills were hurried to passage stage in the senate. The measures would make available $1,059,502 to the department of public safety, $5,650,041 to the department of public welfare, $40,836 to the state treasurer, and $4,222 to the finance department.

Tomorrow both houses will adjourn until Jan. 26.

REFUSES TO CUT ALIMONY ON PLEA OF HIGHER TAXES

Rising income taxes are no excuse for cutting an ex-wife's alimony, Judge Thomas J. Lynch ruled yesterday in Circuit court in denying a plea for reduced payments by Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Meredith T. Beals.

Maj. Beals has been paying $275 a month to his former wife, Mrs. Meredith T. Beals, since their divorce on Nov. 7, 1940. Thru his lawyer, Lawrence J. Flynn, he sought a reduction to $175 a month, on the ground both that his income has decreased and that his income taxes have increased from $607 a year in 1940 to $2,112 due next March. His 1942 income totaled $14,137.

FARM CRIPPLING BY DRAFT, TARGET OF SENATE BLOC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—The senate agriculture committee voted today to summon agricultural, selective service and manpower commission officials to appear Wednesday with a proposal to halt the exodus of farm labor into the armed forces.

"The food situation has become so critical that drastic action must be taken, and at once," Sen. John H. Bankhead [D., Ala.] declared.

Bankhead told the committee he had been advised by Samuel B. Bledsoe, an assistant to the agriculture secretary, Claude Wickard, that officials were working today on a new regulation to alleviate the farm manpower shortages.

4,000 AUXILIARY POLICEMEN TAKE OATH OF SERVICE

Four thousand auxiliary policemen were sworn into service last night in ceremonies at Moody Memorial church, 1609 North La Salle street. The oath was administered by Federal Judge Otto J. Kerner. They are men who have volunteered and been trained in police work for call in case of emergencies.

Police Commissioner James P. Allman praised the auxiliaries as a "second line of defense."

In a test mobilization last night, 5,236 of the 11,000 civilian auxiliary firemen who have been sworn into service reported to district fire stations.

A judgment of $1,500 was awarded to Miss Lee La Beau, 21 years old, 517 Deming place, a model, against the Chicago Surface lines in a sealed verdict returned yesterday before Judge Robert A. Meier Jr. in the Circuit court. She had asked $10,000 for personal injuries suffered when, she said, she was thrown from a street car at Broadway and Diversey parkway Feb. 27, 1941, as she was boarding the car. One of her principal witnesses was her twin sister, Amy, also a model. Her lawyer was Edwin J. Halligan.

STRATTON, AT 28, IS SWORN IN AS STATE TREASURER

Nickell Takes Over as Schools' Head.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—William G. Stratton of Morris, who at 28 years old is the youngest man to hold an Illinois state office, was sworn in as state treasurer today and Vernon L. Nickell, Champaign, was inaugurated as superintendent of public instruction in colorful ceremonies in the chamber of the house of representatives.

Visitors' galleries of the chamber were filled as Justice June C. Smith of the state Supreme court administered the oaths before a joint session of the senate and house. In seats of honor were all elected state officials with the exception of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, Edward F. Cullinane, clerk of the Supreme court, and John A. Wieland, retiring superintendent of public instruction, all Democrats.

Stratton Children Present.

Also honored guests were Mrs. Stratton, the two Stratton children, Sandra Jane, 6, and Diana Joy, 3; Mr. Nickell's daughter, Miss Geraldine Nickell, brother, Lloyd F. Nickell of London, England; Mrs. Elmer J. Schnackenberg, wife of the speaker of the house, and the wives of other state officials.

Flowers were in abundance in the chamber and in Stratton's new office on the first floor of the capitol.

Democrats and Republicans joined in giving the two new state officials long and hearty applause as they were escorted into the house chamber and greeted with more applause the short statement each gave his inauguration.

Stratton, who swept into office Nov. 3 with more than 250,000 plurality over his Democratic opponent, W. D. Forsyth, was sworn first, and in his talk pledged efficiency in office and proper administration of the hundreds of millions of dollars over which he now becomes custodian.

Bans All Inefficiency.

"I have taken great care to obtain able and well qualified persons to serve in supervisory and expert positions," he said. "And I am insisting that all employés give full attention to the duties assigned them. Furthermore, inefficiency or discourtesy to the public will not be tolerated. It will be the policy of the office at all times to coöperate with the legislature and other government bodies."

Nickell in his talk promised revision of "pioneer day regulation and equipment" which he said still exist in some school districts, but called also for maintenance of "true American education, minus all other considerations."

The new superintendent asserted there would be a "vacation from the school systems of politics or any other influence that might detract from the sound preparation of all good Americans for their later lives."

The induction into office of Nickell removes another Democrat from the list of state officers, leaving Secretary of State Hughes the only regularly elected official from that party in office.

EX-CONVICT I.W.W. EDITOR SLAIN ON NEW YORK STREET

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Carlo Tresca, one time leader of the Industrial Workers of the World [I. W. W.] and anti-Fascist editor of the Italian weekly, Il Martello, published here, was shot and killed tonight on 5th avenue.

Police reported that Tresca, about 60 years old, was shot in the temple from an automobile which pulled to the curb at 5th avenue and 15th street. He was identified immediately by Giuseppe Calabi, a friend who was walking with him. Both men had just left the office of Il Martello at 96 5th avenue.

Tresca was sentenced in 1924 to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., for sending obscene pamphlets thru the mails. The sentence was reduced later, however, by President Calvin Coolidge and he was freed in 1925.

His record included arrests for I. W. W. activities and for felonious assault on a local Fascist leader.

President's Budget Asks 100 Billion Dollars for War Spending

OTHER REQUESTS ADD 9 BILLIONS TO RECORD TOTAL

Called Maximum Effort for Conflict.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—The text of President Roosevelt's budget message to congress follows:

"I am transmitting herewith a war budget exceeding 100 billion dollars for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1943. Last year I called the budget an instrument for transforming a peace economy into a war economy. This budget presents the maximum program for waging war.

"We wage total war because our very existence is threatened. Without that supreme effort we cannot hope to retain the freedom and self-respect which give life its value.

"Total war is grim reality. It means the dedication of our lives and resources to a single objective: victory.

"Total war in a democracy is a violent conflict in which every one must anticipate that both lives and possessions will be assigned to their most effective use in the common effort—the effort for community survival, national survival.

"In total war we are all soldiers, whether in uniform, overalls, or shirt sleeves.

BUDGETING FOR TOTAL WAR EXPENDITURES.

"The huge and expanding rate of war expenditures shows our determination to equip our fighting forces and those of our allies with the instruments of war needed for victory. Monthly expenditures for war purposes amounted to 2 billion dollars just after Pearl Harbor; they now exceed 6 billion dollars and they will average more than 8 billion dollars a month during the fiscal year 1944. For the whole of the current fiscal year total war expenditures are now estimated at 77 billion dollars; for the next fiscal year at 100 billion dollars. These estimates include the net outlays of government corporations for war purposes and assume only a small rise in prices.

"Victory cannot be bought with any amount of money, however large; victory is achieved by the blood of soldiers, the sweat of working men and women, and the sacrifice of all people. But a 100 billion dollar expenditure program does reflect a national effort of gigantic magnitude. It calls for vision on the part of those in charge of war production, ingenuity of management, and the skill, devotion, and tenacity of the men on the farms and in the factories.

PLANS FOR OFFENSIVE

Expresses Confidence U. S. Will Reach Objectives

"It makes possible the expansion of our armed forces necessary for offensive operations, the production of planes and munitions to provide unquestioned superiority, and the construction of ships which will make it possible for us to strike at the enemy wherever he may be. It reflects the determination of the civilians to "pass the ammunition." Moreover, consumers' goods and services will have to be produced in an amount adequate to maintain the health and productivity of the civilian population. And all of this will have to be done while we are withdrawing millions of men from production for service in the armed forces.

"Some persons may believe that such a program is fantastic. My reply is that this program is feasible. If the nation's man power and resources are fully harnessed, I am confident that the objective of this program can be reached, but it requires a complete recognition of the necessities of total war by all—management, labor, farmers, consumers, and public servants—regardless of party. Production short of these military requirements would be a betrayal of our fighting men.

"This budget does not include the detailed estimates of war expenditures which would reveal information to our enemies. An additional reason for such action at this time is that rapid developments on farflung battle fronts make it impossible to submit a detailed war budget for a year ending 18 months hence. I shall continue, however, to report on the broad categories of war expenditures.

"The following table summarizes our present estimates of war expenditures from general and special accounts and by government corporations:

ESTIMATES OF TOTAL EXPENDITURES FOR WAR, FISCAL YEARS 1943 AND 1944.

Object of expenditure—	Fiscal, 1943. [Billions.]	Fiscal, 1944. [Billions.]
Munitions	$43	$ 66
Military and civilian pay, subsistence, and travel	15	21
Industrial construction	6	2
Other construction	5	3
Other, including agricultural lend-lease	8	8
Total	$77	$100

"This spring I shall submit the necessary information upon which the congress can base war appropriations for the fiscal year 1944. In the meantime there are available about 170 billion dollars in unspent war appropriations and authorizations; about two-thirds of this amount is already obligated or committed. Further appropriations will soon be needed to permit letting of contracts with industry for the next year.

The Procurement of Munitions.

"Total mobilizations of all our men and women, all our equipment, and all our materials in a balanced production program will enable us to accomplish the production goals underlying this war budget.

"Man power—Marked progress has been made in mobilizing man power. In spite of the increase in the armed services industrial production rose by 46 per cent and agricultural production by 15 per cent between the calendar years 1940 and 1942.

"Industrial production has not been delayed and crops have not been lost because of lack of man power except in a few isolated cases. More than 10 million people have been added to the employed or the armed forces since the summer of 1940, 7 million of whom were unemployed and more than 3 million of whom are additions to the nation's labor and armed forces.

MAN POWER PROBLEM

Six Million More People Needed in War Tasks

"Man power mobilization is now entering a much more difficult phase. During the calendar year 1943 approximately 6 million people will be needed above present requirements for the armed services and war production. This number can be obtained by transferring from less essential work, and by drawing into the working force people who have not recently sought employment. Vigorous action is required to mobilize and train our reserve of women and young people, to accelerate the transfer of workers to essential industries, and to reduce harmful turnover and migration of workers in essential industries.

"It also requires prevention of labor hoarding and elimination of hiring restrictions based on sex, creed, or race. I reiterate my previous recommendation for a unified and adequate rehabilitation service to make available a million persons for war industry and to restore to civil employment persons who are being disabled in the armed forces.

"Man power needs of the armed forces and of war production during the calendar year 1943 can be met without impairment of essential civilian requirements. I stress the important distinction between "essential requirements" and the thousand and one things that are nonessentials or luxuries. The production of these nonessentials wasted man power at a time when careful economy and greater efficiency in the use of our man power resources is imperative. Private thought and public discussion of this subject are very necessary.

"Equipment—Were it not for an unprecedented program of conversion and the building up of a new war industry during the last two and one-half years we could not expect to fulfill the war production program outlined in this message.

"Some progress, but not enough, has been made in spreading war contracts more widely among medium-sized and smaller plants. Further efforts are necessary. In certain cases, of course, saving of man power and materials requires concentration in those plants best equipped to produce a given commodity.

"Materials—Furthermore, war production is limited by our supply of raw materials. The available materials must be transformed into the maximum of striking power. The production of less urgent or the wrong quantity of items, or poor scheduling of production in any single plant or in the munitions program as a whole, results in waste of precious materials. The nation's war production must be so scheduled that the right items are produced in the right amounts at the right time.

"War contracts—The procurement program must achieve maximum production with minimum waste and with the speed essential in time of war. This is the controlling objective not only for the original negotiation of contracts but also for the renegotiation required by law. The law provides for the prevention or recapture of excessive profits, thus supplementing and reinforcing the objectives of the excess-profits tax. I believe that the control of the costs of production is of equal importance.

"The proper negotiation and renegotiation of contracts must strive to reconcile the avoidance of excessive profits with the maintenance of incentives to economical management.

Farm and Food Program.

"Food is a primary weapon of war. An adequate food supply is, therefore, a basic aspect of a total war program. I have placed in the hands of the secretary of agriculture full responsibility for determining and fulfilling the food requirements in this war. Our agricultural production is larger than ever in our history, but the needs of our armed services and our allies are so great that a shortage of certain foods is inevitable.

"The production of the less needed commodities must be reduced, while the production of commodities for war and essential civilian use must be increased. It is imperative also that this increased demand for food be adjusted to available supplies. There will be sufficient volume in our bill of fare but less variety. That may hurt our taste, but not our health.

"To facilitate this program I am recommending appropriations for aids to agriculture totaling 837 million dollars for the fiscal year 1944. Among the major items included in the 837 million dollar total are 400 million for conservation and use of agricultural land resources, 194 million for parity payments on the 1942 crops, and 96 million for exportation and domestic consumption of surplus commodities. Other large items included are 64 million dollars for payments under the sugar act, 38 million for the farm security administration, and 31 million for reductions in interest rates on farm mortgages.

PAYMENTS ON CROPS

Asks Funds to Compensate Growers on Parity

"Prior to the 1943 appropriation acts annual appropriations for parity payments were made a year in advance of actual need, and advance allotments for the year ahead were used as a factor in determining payments on the current year. In the 1943 budget and appropriations acts provisions were made to insure that all factors used in determining the amount of parity payments on the crops of a given year would pertain to the program of that year.

"Also, to bring this item into conformity with our general budgetary practice, the annual cash appropriation for parity payments was omitted, but the secretary was authorized to incur contractual obligations supporting the coöperating producers of cotton, corn, wheat, rice, and tobacco that such payments would be made, if and as necessary, on their 1942 crops.

"The appropriation now requested, therefore, is simply the amount estimated to be necessary to compensate producers of corn, wheat, and certain minor types of tobacco for the disparity between the market returns from the normal yield of their 1943 allotted acreage and the parity price return from that production. It is expected that no parity payments will be necessary on the 1943 crops of cotton, rice, and most types of tobacco.

"Since the established national policy is to assure the coöperating producers of these basic crops parity prices on the normal yields of their allotted acreages, I am again recommending that the authority to incur contractual obligations for such payments on future crops be renewed.

"On the other hand, I am recommending a reduction of 50 million dollars in the appropriation for conservation and use of agricultural land resources. I am also directing the secretary of agriculture to utilize the 400 million dollars still provided under this heading as fully and effectively as the basic law will permit to encourage greater production of the crops essential to the war effort. This fund will not be used for restriction of production except on less needed crops. Payments will be made only to those producers who comply fully in their plantings with the stated war production goals.

RURAL REHABILITATION

Small Farms Essential to Winning War

"For exportation and domestic consumption of agricultural commodities the budget includes only the permanent annual appropriation of 30 per cent of customs revenues provided by law, plus reappropriation of unobligated balances. The food stamp plan, which is a major item of the current program, will be discontinued shortly. Although other items, such as school lunch and school milk projects and the direct distribution of surplus commodities, are somewhat expanded there will be an overall reduction of about 30 million dollars.

"Provision for operations under the farm tenant act and for loans, grants, and rural rehabilitation are continued on about the same level as for the current year. Small farms, like other small war plants, must be encouraged to make a maximum contribution to the war. I hope the congress will give as much sympathetic consideration to these smaller and poorer farmers as it has given to the smaller and poorer industrial concerns.

"Because no one can immediately foresee all the needs we may encounter in fulfilling our essential war requirements for agriculture, various loan and purchase operations, involving contingent liabilities which cannot be exactly predetermined, may be necessary.

Civilian Consumption.

"In spite of a 100 billion dollar war program, civilians can be supplied with an average of about $500 worth of goods and services during the next year. This implies an average reduction of almost 25 per cent in civilian consumption below the record level of the calendar year 1941.

"Even then most of us will be better fed, better clothed, and better housed than other peoples in the world. Do not let us assume from that statement, however, that there is no need for great improvement in the living conditions of a large segment of our population.

"It is the responsibility of the government to plan for more production of essential civilian goods and less of nonessential goods.

"Production and distribution of goods should be simplified and standardized; unnecessary costs and frills should be eliminated. Total war demands simplification of American life. By giving up what we do not need all of us will be better able to get what we do need.

"In order to distribute the scarce necessities of life equitably we are rationing some commodities. By rationing we restrict consumption, but only to assure to each civilian his share of basic commodities.

"The essentials for civilian life also include a good standard of health and medical service, education, and care for children in war time as well as in peace.

STABILIZATION PROGRAM

Hopes to Prevent Rises in Living Costs

"We must assure each citizen the necessities of life at prices which he can pay. Otherwise rising prices will lift many goods beyond his reach just as surely as if those goods did not exist. By a concerted effort to stabilize prices, rents, and wages we have succeeded in keeping the rise in the cost of living within narrow bounds. We shall continue those efforts, and we shall succeed. By making effective use of all measures of control we shall be able to stabilize prices with only a limited use of subsidies to stimulate needed production.

"Some would like to see the controls relaxed for this or that special group. They forget that to relax controls for one group is an argument to relax for other groups, thereby starting the living spiral which would undermine the war effort and cause grave post-war difficulties. Economic stabilization for all groups—not for just the other fellow—is the only policy consistent with the requirements of total war. I have read of this bloc and that bloc and the other bloc which existed in past congresses. May this new congress confine itself to one bloc—a national bloc.

Increased Taxation.

"Stabilization goes beyond effective price control. Under war conditions a rise in profits, wages, and farm incomes unfortunately does not increase the supply of goods for civilians; it merely invites the bidding up of prices of scarce commodities. The stabilization of incomes and the absorption of excess purchasing power by fiscal measures are essential for the success of the stabilization program.

"I am confident that the congress will implement that program by adequate legislation increasing taxation, savings, or both. We will help to "pay as we go" and make the coming peace easier for ourselves and our children.

Civilian Controls in Total War.

"Total war requires nothing less than organizing all the human and material resources of the nation. To accomplish this all-out mobilization speedily, effectively, and fairly we have had to adopt extensive controls over civilian life. We use the selective service system to man the armed forces.

"We are systematizing the movement of labor to assure needed man power to war industries and agriculture.

"We regulate prices, wages, salaries, and rents, we limit consumer credit, we allocate scarce raw materials, and we ration scarce consumer goods—all to the end of providing the materials of war and distributing the sacrifices equitably.

"Such regulations and restrictions have complicated our daily lives. We save rubber, metal, fats—everything. We fill out forms, carry coupons, answer questionnaires. This is all new. We have overdone it in many cases. By trial and error we are learning simpler and better methods. But remember always that reaching the objective is what counts most. There is no easy, pleasant way to restrict the living habits—the eating, clothing, heating, travel, and working habits—of 130 million people. There is no easy, pleasant way to wage total war.

"About 400,000 civilian employés of the federal government are engaged in the task of civilian administration for total war. They direct and schedule war production, handle the procurement of food, munitions, and equipment for our armed forces and our allies, supervise war time transportation, administer price, wage, rent, labor, and materials controls and commodity rationing, conduct economic and propaganda offensives against our enemies, and do necessary paper work for the armed forces.

"Besides these government employés, millions of men and women volunteers—who draw no pay—are carrying out tasks of war administration, many of them after long hours at their regular occupation. These patriotic citizens are serving on draft boards, on war price and ration boards, in the civilian defense organization, the war bond campaign, and many other activities. They deserve the gratitude of their countrymen.

WELCOMES CRITICISM

Better Organization Seen as War Progresses

"More than 1,600,000—or approximately three-fifths—of all federal civilian employés are engaged directly in war production. They build and load ships, make guns and shells, repair machines and equipment, build arsenals and camps, sew uniforms, operate airports and signal systems.

"These are the workers in navy yards, arsenals, storage depots, military airfields, and other operating centers. It is scarcely ethical to try to make people believe that these workers are holding down arm chair or unnecessary government jobs.

"This huge organization, created overnight to meet our war needs, could not be expected to function smoothly from the very start. Congressional committees and many individuals have made helpful suggestions. Criticism is welcome if it is based on truth. We will continue our efforts to make the organization more fully effective.

Compensation of federal employés.

"Last month the congress took temporary and emergency action, which will expire April 30, 1943, relative to compensation for federal employés. The legislation removed inequalities, lengthened the work week to conserve man power, increased payment for longer hours, and provided bonus payments for certain employés. The pay increases should be met largely by reducing the total number of employés proportionate to the increase in the work week.

"In the present appropriation requests and expenditure estimates for the fiscal years 1943 and 1944 no allowance has been made for any cost increase resulting from the adjustment in federal salaries.

"The problems of federal salary administration need further study. In the early days of the new congress I recommend that the congress arrange for enactment of more permanent legislation for the duration of the war.

"Nonwar" Expenditures.

"I am making recommendations in the usual detail for so-called 'nonwar' appropriations for the fiscal year 1944. This classification includes the same items as in former years.

"Actually the 'nonwar' classification now has little, if any, meaning. Most of these expenditures are related to the war effort and many are directly occasioned by it. This 'nonwar' category includes, for instance, expenditures for war tax collections, expenditures for budgeting, disbursing, and auditing war expenditures, and for statistical and scientific services to war agencies.

"It includes also such items as the control of white pine blister rust, which I recently discussed. Expenditures for forest roads to our timber resources are necessary to avoid possible loss of millions of dollars in lumber from trees which require more than 50 years to reach maturity.

"All counted there are less than 250,000 civilian employés of the federal government, including the postal service, who are engaged in these so-called 'nonwar' activities.

"A few weeks ago I transmitted to congress a comprehensive report on 'nonwar' expenditures during the last decade. This document demonstrated the important reductions which had been made in these expenditures, especially since the start of the defense program.

"The following table summarizes reductions analyzed in the report, to which it is now possible to add revised estimates for the fiscal year 1943 and estimates for 1944 as developed in this budget.

"NONWAR" EXPENDITURES, FISCAL YEARS 1939-'44.

[Millions.]

Fiscal year—	Total nonwar expenditures	Reduction below 1939.
1939	$6,516
1940	6,246	$ 270
1941	5,298	1,218
1942	5,125	1,391
1943 [estimated]	4,582	1,934
1944 [estimated]	4,124	2,392

"The table shows a reduction of 36.7 per cent in 'nonwar' expenditures in the next fiscal year compared with 1939. In appraising these reductions it should be borne in mind that large items, such as veterans' pensions and social security grants, are controlled by legal or other commitments. In fact, the outstanding increase for the fiscal year 1944 is for the veterans' administration, for which expenditures are estimated at 879 million dollars, or 265 million dollars higher than in the current year. Most of the increase is for insurance for our fighting forces in the present war.

"The most important reductions recommended for the coming year relate to work relief and general public works. Because of present high levels of employment I am able to recommend elimination of the works projects administration. This action under present conditions does not cast upon the state and local governments more than the proper burden of financing the relief of those who are unable to work.

"Expenditures for general public works will be greatly curtailed. Continuing projects are directly related to war needs. Others have been discontinued as rapidly as this could be done without risking the loss of the investment already made.

WILLING TO CO-OPERATE

Says Further Reductions Must Be Small

"I shall be glad to coöperate with the congress in effecting further reductions in 'nonwar' expenditures thru the necessary revision of underlying legislation and in every other way. It should be pointed out to the congress and to the nation, however, that we are fast approaching the subsistence level of government—the minimum of sustaining orderly social and economic processes—and that further reductions will necessarily be of much smaller magnitude than those already achieved.

"My recommendations contemplate that in the fiscal year 1944 96 cents of every dollar expended by the federal government will be used to pay war costs and interest on the public debt, and only 4 cents for all the so-called 'nonwar' purposes.

Interest.

"War financing has raised the requirement for interest on the public debt from 1,041 million dollars in 1940, the fiscal year before the defense program started, to an estimated 1,850 million dollars for the current year and 3,000 million dollars for the fiscal year 1944 under existing legislation.

Financing Total War—the Need for Additional Funds.

"Financing expenditures which will exceed 100 billion dollars is a task of tremendous magnitude. By meeting this task squarely we will contribute substantially to the war effort and clear the ground for successful reconstruction after the war. An adequate financial program is essential both for winning the war and for winning the peace.

"Financing total war involves two main fiscal problems. One problem is to supply the funds currently required to pay for the war and to keep the increase in federal debt within bounds. The second problem is caused by the disbursement of 100 billion dollars a year to contractors, war workers, farmers, soldiers, and their families, thus adding many billions to the people's buying power, at a time when the amount of goods to be bought is declining steadily.

"A large portion of this excess buying power must be recovered into the treasury to prevent the excess from being used to bid up the price of scarce goods and thus undermine the stabilization program by breaking price ceilings, creating black markets, and increasing the cost of living.

"We cannot hope to increase tax collections as fast as we step up war expenditures or to absorb by fiscal measures alone all excess purchasing power created by these expenditures. We must, therefore, provide a substantial portion of the needed funds by additional borrowing, and we must also use direct controls, such as price ceilings and rationing, for the protection of the consumer.

"Nevertheless, the more nearly increases in tax receipts follow increases in expenditures the better we safeguard our financial integrity and the easier the administration of price control and rationing. All of these measures are interrelated. Each increase in taxes and each increase in savings will lessen the upward pressure on prices and reduce the amount of rationing and other direct controls we shall need.

"The revenue acts of the last three years, particularly the revenue act of 1942, have contributed greatly toward meeting our fiscal needs. In the fiscal year 1944 total general and special receipts under present law are estimated at 35 billion dollars, or almost six times those of the fiscal year 1940. But the increase in expenditures has been even more rapid.

"I believe that we should strive to collect not less than 16 billion dollars of additional funds by taxation, savings, or both, during the fiscal year 1944.

"On the basis of present legislation we expect to meet 34 per cent of total estimated federal expenditures by current receipts during the fiscal year 1944. If the objective proposed in this message is adopted we shall meet approximately 50 per cent of expenditures during the fiscal year 1944.

The Need for a Balanced and Flexible Revenue System.

"I hope that the congress in working out the revenue program will consider that the fiscal measures must be designed not only to provide revenue but also to support the stabilization program as well by deterring luxury or nonessential spending. The cost of the war should be distributed in an equitable and fair manner. Furthermore, care should be taken that the fiscal measures do not impair but actually promote maximum war production. Finally, it is more important than ever before to simplify taxation both for taxpayers and for those collecting the tax, and to put our taxes as far as feasible on a pay-as-you-go basis.

"I cannot ask the congress to impose the necessarily heavy financial burdens on the lower and middle incomes unless the taxes on higher and very large incomes are made fully effective. At a time when wages and salaries are stabilized the receipt of very large net incomes from any source constitutes a gross inequity undermining national unity.

"Fairness requires the closing of loopholes and the removal of inequities which still exist in our tax laws. I have spoken on these subjects on several previous occasions.

Program Will Be Harsh.

"The congress can do much to solve our problem of war finance and to support the stabilization program. In the past wars have usually been paid for mainly by means of inflation, thereby shifting the greatest burden to the weakest shoulders and inviting post-war collapse. We seek to avoid both.

"Of necessity the program must be harsh. We should remember, however, that it is a war for existence, and not taxation, which compels us to devote more than one-half of all our resources to war use. An effective program of war finance does not add to the total sacrifices necessitated by war, but it does assure that those sacrifices are distributed equitably and with a minimum of friction.

"We should remember, furthermore, that helping to finance the war is the privilege mainly of those who still enjoy the receipt of incomes as civilians during the war. It is a modest contribution toward victory when we compare it with the contribution of those in the fighting forces.

"By the end of the current fiscal year the public debt will total 135 billion dollars. By June 30, 1944, it will be about 210 billion dollars under existing revenue legislation. Before the present debt limit of 125 billion dollars is reached the congress will be requested to extend that limit. To do this is sound, for such a debt can and will be repaid. The nation is soundly solvent.

Preparing for Total Victory.

Preparing for total victory includes preparing the base on which a happier world can be built. The tremendous productive capacity of our country, of all countries, has been demonstrated. Freedom from want for everybody, everywhere, is no longer a utopian dream. It can be translated into action when the fear of aggression has been removed by victory. The soldiers of the fighting forces and the workmen engaged in military production want to be assured that they will return to a life of opportunity and security in a society of free men.

"The economic stabilization program, altho born of war necessity, will greatly facilitate post-war reconstruction. A determined policy of war taxation and savings will aid in making post-war problems manageable by reducing the volume of additional borrowing and supporting the stabilization program.

"Because of the unavoidable magnitude of interest-bearing debt, taxes probably will never revert to their pre-war level. A substantial reduction from the war level will, nevertheless, be possible and will go hand in hand with a greater human security if the underlying fiscal structure is kept sound.

"I shall be happy to meet with the appropriate committees of the congress at any and all times in regard to the methods by which they propose to attain the objectives outlined in this message. We are at one in our desire quickly to win this war and to avoid passing on to future generations more than their just share of its sacrifices and burdens."

BUDGET TO FACE CLOSE SCRUTINY FROM CONGRESS

Members Promise to Watch Spending.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Members of congress, staggered by the 109 billion dollar budget requests of President Roosevelt today, warned that the closest scrutiny will be made of government spending and all future requests for appropriations.

Sen. Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], ranking minority member of the senate appropriations committee, commented that the message was so general that it would require examination of the complete budget to determine its contents. Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] urged the closest examination of appropriation requests and investigation into past spending.

Sen. Kennth McKellar [D., Tenn.], acting chairman of the senate appropriations committee, said that his committee would look into every request for funds even if it took all the time of members from other duties. Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.], another member of the committee, commented that "every appropriation is going to have to be justified."

Foresees Forced Loans.

Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the senate finance committee, said he approved the meeting of 50 per cent of war costs on taxes, but said that most of the increased revenue must come from compulsory loans to the government.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. [R., Mass.], house minority leader, said: "It looks as tho the President has given us something we must look over very carefully. There's going to be a lot of work for congress in scrutinizing these requests."

Speaker Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], said: "It was a good summation of the nation's fiscal affairs and our future war needs. I am sure that congress will provide whatever is needed for prosecution of the war."

Wonder How to Get Money.

Several congressmen, including Representatives Wesley E. Disney [D., Okla.] and Harold Knutson [R., Minn.] said they favored the President's indorsement of the pay-as-you-go proposal on income taxes, but wondered where in the world they were going to get the enormous new revenues requested. Both Disney and Knutson are members of the house ways and means committee which initiates revenue legislation.

BUTTER FOR U. S., OLEO FOR ALLIES, LAFOLLETTE ASKS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Butter for the home folks and oleomargarine for those abroad is the aim of Sen. Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.].

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, made public today, the senator said that while an important part of the war was in the feeding of the allies, "I strongly urge you to take the necessary action to preserve our butter supplies for our own military forces and domestic consumption."

Secretary Wickard recently directed creameries to reserve 30 per cent of their butter production for war purposes.

La Follette said that the use of butter substitutes "has been consistently discouraged as a matter of public policy," and that "the fruits of all these past efforts will be threatened with complete destruction, if now, in a period of shortage, we send our butter abroad and force our own people to use butter substitutes."

Budget Comparisons

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 11.—Following is the official summary of the federal budget for the fiscal year 1944, beginning July 1, 1943, with comparisons of the 1943 and 1942 fiscal years, as sent to congress today with President Roosevelt's annual budget message.

CHOICE OF FLYNN AS ENVOY STIRS SENATE STORM

Rutledge Gets Court Post; Brown Named to OPA.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—President Roosevelt made four major appointments today, including that of Democratic National Chairman Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn of New York to be minister to Australia and roving presidential ambassador in the southwest Pacific, which touched off a verbal explosion in the senate.

After a speech by Sen. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] denouncing the Flynn appointment as an insult to Australia, Chairman Tom Connally [D., Tex.] called a meeting of the foreign relations committee to provide for hearings on charges against Flynn, notably the scandal attaching to the paving of a courtyard on his country estate with Belgian paving blocks owned by the New York borough of the Bronx, of which Flynn is political boss. The committee will meet Friday.

Rutledge Named to Court.

The most important nomination the President sent to the senate was that of Wiley Blount Rutledge of Iowa to be an associate justice of the Supreme court as successor to James F. Byrnes, who resigned to become director of economic stabilization.

Rutledge, who is 49 years old, is a justice of the federal court of appeals of the District of Columbia, to which post he was named in 1939. At that time he was dean of the law school of Iowa State university.

Justice Rutledge is a liberal, a broad constructionist of the constitution and one who holds, as the New Dealers contend, that the welfare clause of the national charter justifies a broader conception of the powers of the federal government. He was in favor of the President's plan to pack the Supreme court, tho objecting to some features of it.

Brown Gets OPA Post.

Another presidential nomination was that of former Sen. Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan to be price administrator in place of Leon Henderson, who was eased out of his job to appease popular indignation over the bungling of price fixing and rationing.

Altho the qualification of Brown for the post is based mainly on the fact that he piloted the price fixing bill thru the senate, he probably would not have been appointed were he not a Democratic lame duck, having been defeated for reëlection last November. His defeat was due largely to his alienation of the farm vote by opposing allowance for labor costs in fixing price ceilings on farm products.

Brown has promised that as price administrator he will simplify the Henderson machinery of price control and eliminate much of the red tape. Henderson's big mistake, in the opinion of Brown, was in trying to fix the prices of all commodities instead of a comparatively small number of key materials.

Lee Gets Consolation Prize.

The fourth presidential appointment was a consolation prize tendered former Democratic Sen. Josh Lee of Oklahoma, a lame duck since Nov. 3. The prize was a membership in the civil aeronautics board. There will be considerable opposition to confirmation of the appointment on the ground Lee lacks qualification for the job and was repudiated by the voters of his state.

The White House made public a letter addressed by the President last Friday to "Dear Eddie" Flynn apprising him of his appointment as minister to Australia to succeed Nelson Johnson, who is retiring from the diplomatic service.

"In addition," wrote Mr. Roosevelt, "I am appointing you my personal representative with the rank of ambassador. I do so because in the very large area of the southwest Pacific I want to feel free to avail myself of your services in various other forms of activity, over and above your duties as minister.

Hurley's Duties Cited.

"For example, Hon. Patrick J. Hurley, in addition to being minister to New Zealand, is a general in the army, and I have used his services in many different places outside of New Zealand proper and in ways and for purposes which do not fall directly under his ministerial capacity."

In the paving block scandal Flynn was whitewashed by a Bronx grand jury and the jury foreman was rewarded with a federal job. Flynn, however, still is in danger of a prosecution that the new governor of New York, Thomas E. Dewey, is being petitioned by a citizens' committee to invoke.

Sen. Bridges said that "it was a disgraceful state of affairs when it becomes necessary to subpena the chairman of a major political party before a grand jury in connection with a criminal offense."

Bridges Tells of "Coincidence."

"It is an interesting coincidence," he continued, "that at this particular moment Paving Blocks Flynn should be seeking diplomatic immunity. Tom Dewey, noted thruout the land as an able, fearless prosecutor of criminals, has become governor of New York. The Citizens' Union of New York has just written a letter to Gov. Dewey asking him to take steps to reopen the now famous paving block case, twice considered by a grand jury.

"The Citizens' union suggests that it is now a year since city employés using city-owned paving blocks paved the courtyard of Boss Flynn's palatial country estate. So far as I know, Paving Blocks Flynn still has the blocks that gave him his name.

Willing to Send Him Away.

"I have no objection to sending Paving Blocks Flynn 5,000 miles away, but if he wants to be a rover, I don't want him to rove where the boys from my state of New Hampshire and the rest of America are giving their blood and offering their lives in the supreme sacrifice for a decent way of life.

"In my judgment the winning of this war and the laying of the foundations for peace can not be accomplished by sending to Australia and the Pacific, one of the vital battle areas of the world, a man of the caliber and type of Paving Blocks Flynn."

Sen. W. Warren Barbour [R., N. J.] said he regretted that President Roosevelt "has seen fit" to nominate Flynn. "It is essential," Barbour said in a statement, "that any one selected for this position have the complete confidence of the American people, and by the greatest stretch of the imagination we can hardly place Flynn in this category. I shall vote against his confirmation."

Sen. Connally gave out a letter from Flynn the day before the President's letter of appointment in which Flynn said he did not anticipate any objections to his nomination but nevertheless asked for a full investigation.

"Country Shocked," Says Landon.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 11 (AP).—Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, said today "the whole country will be shocked" by the appointment of Edward J. Flynn as minister to Australia.

"Revolting," Says Willkie.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential nominee, said today that the nomination of Edward J. Flynn "must be revolting to all decent citizens."

"The difference between the professions of President Roosevelt's and Vice President Wallace's speeches and the administration's low political performance is a tragic paradox," he said. "I hope that they do not intend to create the brave new world of the common man thru such instrumentalities. Nor can the appointment be justified by the desire to get a new Democratic chairman in order to start the fourth term drive."

Get Appointment to Federal Jobs

CHESTER W. HEPLER NAMED MAN POWER HEAD FOR CHICAGO

Chester W. Hepler.

Chester W. Hepler, Illinois director for the United States employment service since January, 1942, yesterday was named Chicago area director for the war man power commission. The nomination was among several in the WMC submitted by President Roosevelt for senate approval.

With nine years experience in government employment service operations, Hepler will supervise the solution of labor supply problems in one of the nation's key war industrial areas. He will work with William H. Spencer, regional director of the WMC.

Hepler, who lives at 900 South Seminary avenue, Park Ridge, is married and has a daughter, 17 years old.

A COMMON COLD JUST SNEEZES AT SCIENCE'S WORK

Health Congress Told Vaccines Fail.

Despite a variety of attempts thru medical research to prevent it, America is going to keep right on sneezing and sniffing from the common cold, Dr. Chester S. Keefer, Wade professor of medicine at the Boston university school of medicine and director of the Evans Memorial and Massachusetts Memorial hospitals, told the fifth annual Congress on Industrial Health at the Palmer House yesterday.

"Methods of preventing colds have been directed along several lines," he told the congress, "and it can be said at once that none of them is effective."

Cold Vaccines a Disappointment.

The congress, sponsored by the Council on Industrial Health of the American Medical association, exceeded its last year's total registration of 300 on its first day and a total attendance of approximately 500 is expected before its close tomorrow.

"Cold vaccines," said Dr. Keefer, whose address, "Respiratory Infections in Industry," was a joint report prepared by the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry and the Council on Industrial Health, "have been a great disappointment. There is good evidence that vaccines may produce little or no protection against diseases of the upper respiratory passages."

Hygienic Methods Suggested.

"We are forced to the unhappy conclusion that at present there are no effective methods available for prevention of the common cold. Every effort should be made to practice hygienic measures, such as washing of the hands before meals and avoidance of direct contact with persons who have colds."

Regarding influenza control, Dr. Keefer was more optimistic. "Studies carried out with vaccines give considerable promise," he said.

REOPEN U. S. SUIT AGAINST BAN ON RECORDED MUSIC

The government's anti-trust suit to stop James C. Petrillo and his American Federation of Musicians from halting manufacture of recordings for public purposes was reopened yesterday. Federal Judge John P. Barnes ordered Petrillo and officials of his union to appear in his court Jan. 18 to show cause why a preliminary injunction should not be issued against them.

He granted a petition offered by Daniel C. Britt, special assistant United States attorney general, which was amended from the original one dismissed last Oct. 12. Judge Barnes on that occasion ruled that the matter was essentially a labor dispute and that his court had no jurisdiction.

The new petition, filed Dec. 24, contains the original allegations plus a charge that Petrillo and his union will put out of business some 500 independent radio stations thru the union's ban on canned music. The government also has an appeal pending before the United States Supreme court on the original petition Judge Barnes dismissed.

Britt said that Thurman Arnold, head of the anti-trust division of the department of justice, will appear before Judge Barnes Jan. 18 to press the government's petition for an injunction.

ROOSEVELT SETS RECORD, NAMING 8 TO HIGH COURT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—The nomination today of Judge Wiley B. Rutledge to be a Supreme court justice was the eighth appointment to the tribunal made by President Roosevelt and set a record for the number named by one President since the administration of George Washington.

Washington named the original six members and filled seven vacancies. Five new appointees were named by Presidents Lincoln, Jackson, and Taft. Justice Owen J. Roberts, named by President Hoover in 1930, is the only person on the court not appointed to his present position by Mr. Roosevelt.

In addition to new appointments, Roosevelt elevated Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone from associate justice to succeed Charles Evans Hughes as head of the tribunal.

Justice Rutledge is the first member of a federal court of appeals named to the high tribunal by the President. He also is the first appointed from the west by President Roosevelt. He taught law at Iowa State university before coming to Washington.

$382 from Press Photograph Show Given Service Centers

IMMUNITY LAW DECLARED VALID IN JURY PROBES

Supreme Court Upholds Witness Right.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—The Supreme court today ruled that persons who testify in response to a subpena before a grand jury anti-trust investigation obtain immunity from prosecution even tho they do not claim their constitutional right against self-incrimination.

Justice Owen J. Roberts delivered the six to two decision, specifically applying to William F. Monia and L. Aubrey Williams, who testified before a Chicago grand jury which subsequently indicted them and a group of meat packing companies for alleged violation of the anti-trust law.

Charges against the two were dismissed by the federal District court in Chicago on the ground that a 1903 federal statute granted them immunity from prosecution growing out of the subject matter of their testimony.

U. S. Attorneys Oppose.

The justice department, which appealed, contended the statute was intended to grant immunity only for testimony which the government would have been otherwise unable to obtain and that the right of immunity must be asserted at the time of the testimony.

Justice Roberts said that "on its face the legislation means to the layman that if he is subpenaed and sworn and testifies he is to have immunity."

"Instead of being a trap for the government, the statutes in question, if interpreted as the government now desires, may well be a trap for the witness," he added.

Full Immunity Intended.

"Congress evidently intended to afford government officials the choice of subpenaing a witness and putting him under oath, with the knowledge that he would have complete immunity from prosecution respecting any matter substantially connected with the transactions in respect of which he testified, or retaining the right to prosecute by foregoing the opportunity to examine him."

Justice Felix Frankfurter and Justice William O. Douglas dissented. They reviewed the legal history of immunity statutes and concluded immunity was granted not as amnesty but only to obtain evidence which could not otherwise be procured.

"The prosecutor's insistence upon disclosure, which, but for immunity from prosecution, could be withheld, is that for which alone the immunity is given," the dissent said. "History and reason alike reject the notion that immunity from prosecution is to be squandered by giving it gratuitously for responding to the duty, owed by every one, to appear when summoned as a witness."

Mme. Perkins Plea Sustained.

The court also held that the determination whether a factory is subject to the public contracts act is an administrative function of the labor department and not a judicial function of the court.

It reversed a federal district court refusal to grant Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, a subpena requiring the Endicott-Johnson corporation of Binghamton and Johnson City, N. Y., to produce pay roll records for examination.

The act requires manufacturers to pay minimum wages determined by the labor secretary for work on government contracts of more than $10,000. The corporation was charged with failing to pay the required wages and overtime on government shoe contracts.

BRAKEMAN'S $32,500 AWARD UPHELD BY U. S. SUPREME COURT

The United States Supreme court ruled yesterday in Washington, D. C., that Norvel H. Lilly, 49 years old, Durand, Mich., a brakeman on the Grand Trunk Western railroad, was entitled to damages for injuries suffered when he fell from a locomotive at Ferndale, Mich., Feb. 6, 1937. Lilly, who said he suffered a fractured vertebra and permanent disability, was awarded $32,500 damages in Superior court here.

Lilly contended he slipped on ice on the locomotive's tender and that the ice had resulted from the railroad's negligence. The railroad replied that the brakeman had assumed the risks of his position. The Illinois Appellate court had reversed the Superior court verdict and the state Supreme court denied an appeal.

Justice Murphy, who delivered the Supreme court's opinion, said: "The use of a tender upon whose top an employé must go in the course of his duties, which is covered with ice, seems to us to involve unnecessary peril to life or limb—enough so as to permit a jury to find that the boiler inspection act has been violated."

Slated to Die Saturday, Grocer's Slayer Asks Stay

Paul Williams, 23 years old, who was sentenced to die for the murder of a south side grocer after a 95 minute trial—one of the shortest murder hearings in Cook county's Criminal court history—appealed his sentence yesterday to the Illinois Supreme court in Springfield. Convicted of slaying Thomas Papayanis in the attempted holdup of a food shop at 2300 East 71st street last Sept. 19, he is scheduled to die Saturday in the Cook county electric chair. His petition asked for a stay of execution.

LABOR RATIONING FOR WAR PLANTS PLANNED BY WMC

May Force Industries to Fire Workers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—War Man Power Chief Paul V. McNutt said today that plans are being prepared to ration labor among industrial plants in an effort to eliminate labor hoarding by employers and to redistribute workers for war production.

McNutt said "there has been more labor hoarding than I would like to see" and added that rationing of employers will probably be necessary. He declined to say when such a plan might be placed in operation.

Under one plan being considered for a so-called labor rationing program, the war man power commission would survey the number of various types of employés in various plants, including those engaged in war production and in nonwar producing lines. It would then make its own estimates of the plants' requirements for various types of workers, particularly in skilled lines where shortages prevail in some areas.

Could Force Firing of Workers.

The WMC could then direct some employers to discharge certain numbers of workers in each line and authorize other companies to increase their employment in various types of work. It could also authorize new plants to employ certain numbers of various classes of workers.

An executive order from the President last month gave McNutt power to order employers to discharge workers if the WMC found they were more essential in other work. McNutt has no power, however, to require an individual so discharged to take another job. Such authority would require legislation in the form of a labor draft act.

McNutt said the overall program for drafting men for the army, navy, marine corps, and coast guard on a coördinated basis thru the selective service system probably will go into effect by the end of February. It had previously been announced that this program, which will include joint induction centers for all branches of the services, would be in operation by Feb. 1.

Studying Physical Qualifications.

The postponement, McNutt said, is necessary to work out the mechanical details involved in the comprehensive program. One of the problems still being studied, he added, is the standardization of physical and educational qualifications for inductees in the various branches.

The new draft setup is being prepared as a result of the halting on Dec. 5 of all voluntary enlistments for men between 18 and 38 into the army, navy, marine corps, and coast guard. Under the present stopgap arrangement, volunteers are being accepted only if their applications are cleared thru local draft boards.

McNutt said, however, that when the permanent draft plan is established, it will still be possible for volunteers to obtain "advance induction" before they are drafted, by applying to local draft boards if they meet enlistment standards and are not classified as engaged in an essential occupation.

Postpone Rail Hearing.

McNutt announced that a hearing by the WMC's fair employment practice committee on the question of discrimination by the railroad industry in hiring workers has been postponed indefinitely. The hearing was scheduled to start Jan. 25. He said the WMC plans to take up the question in the "normal way," presumably thru conferences with railroad and union leaders, before it decides whether a public hearing is necessary.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 12, 1943.

Were it left for me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter.—Thomas Jefferson.

THE LEATHER MEDAL.

The determined purpose of the people of the United States since our rearmament began in June, 1940, and especially since Pearl Harbor, has been to expand the production of the things useful, directly and indirectly, in war. The people have looked to Washington to tell them what these things are. Great new factories have been constructed to build airplanes, tanks, guns, and ammunition. The facilities of existing plants have been greatly extended. There has been some if not enough increase in the output of the extractive industries. The production of all American industries was already at a level equal to the peak in 1929 when the President delivered his armament message in 1940. Since then there has been an increase of nearly two-thirds.

Nothing is more useful in fighting war than food in plenty and variety. If any kind of food could be said to be more important than another the top rank would be given to meat. This ranking is supported by the practice of housewives in spending the largest part of the food budget on meat. And, judged by per capita consumption over many years, beef is the most important meat.

In any program for expanding the scale of production in the United States, provision should have been made for increasing the number of beef cattle, and where possible their average weight. It was not only the protein requirements of the American people that made that desirable. Beef is an important source of fats, which is a war stuff as well as a food stuff. Still more important, cattle provide the hides from which are made shoes for soldiers and civilians. An expanding and sustained beef production in the United States was clearly indicated as a major element in the war plan.

In the face of what was obviously called for, Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard spoke as follows to the farmers at the end of 1941: "Within a few years marketing of cattle and calves for slaughter may be extremely large. In view of this the department has urged farmers and ranchers to increase their marketings now as much as possible, particularly their marketings of aged cows and other she-stock."

If any move would be certain to bring about a beef, fats, and leather shortage Secretary Wickard's program was that. All of those consequences of Secretary Wickard's statement have been realized. There is a shortage of meat. Stringent rules have been imposed upon the use of fats. Tanning operations are being reduced because of the shortage of leather and since the middle of last year the entire supply of cattle hides has been controled to assure a sufficient supply of leather even for military purposes.

When the war has been won and a contest is conducted to name the silliest thing done during the war, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's 1942 beef program will receive well deserved consideration.

THE ALADDIN CLUB.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who makes more Republicans every time she opens her mouth, assured an audience in New York state the other day that "after the war there will be a complete state of chaos thruout the world." The prospect did not appear uninviting to her. She continued that the British people are soon going to have to decide whether they will continue rationing for three years after the end of the war in order to feed other nations. The implication was obvious that the United States, which is doing a major part of the job of feeding Britain, might be expected to follow this example.

It does not seem to occur that the American people will take a different view of their responsibilities after the fighting stops, the view that Europe brought the war on itself by its failure over the decades to adjust its political and economic problems more wisely and that the primary responsibility for bringing order in the chaos which Mrs. Roosevelt anticipates rests on the same people whose mistakes brought it about. Our people have never been wanting in a spirit of charity in the past, nor will they lack any generosity to genuine calls for charity after the war, but a nation which had already sickened of the WPA on a domestic scale is not going to exhibit much enthusiasm for it on an international scale.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, their star boarder in the White House, Hardship Harry Hopkins, the New York investment bankers who have managed to get themselves such a big slice of the war controls, and the social climbers who glow in the patronage of the exiled princelings all see themselves collectively as Aladdin and Uncle Sam as the slave of the lamp. They deny that Americans have any interests to be respected or protected. Americans have only the duty to sacrifice themselves for foreign rulers and for the rectification of blunders in statesmanship for which our people bear no responsibility.

The lamp which these fake Aladdins are rubbing is that of patriotism. The sacrifices are represented as being for the good of the country, whereas in many instances the country itself is being sacrificed. Nor is the charmed circle of mutual admirers sharing them. Eight hours after the OPA prohibition of all so-called pleasure driving in the east became effective, Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Hopkins rode to a concert in one of the White House automobiles.

THE PAROLE REFORM BILL.

Six years' discussion of the parole evil and legislative remedies for it have made support of parole reform legislation a nonpartisan question in the Illinois legislature. Sponsors of the measure to be acted on at this session are a Chicago Democrat, Sen. Connors, in the senate, and a downstate Republican, Rep. Rennick, in the house.

The Rennick-Connors bill embodies the original principle of parole reform, as first set forth in 1937 in the Ward-Schnackenberg bill. By its provisions trial judges may fix maximum and minimum sentences for prisoners, both within the broader limits of the present indeterminate sentence act. The parole board may not free a convict before the expiration of his minimum term, nor deny him parole after he has served the maximum.

With that portion of the parole reform program the Supreme court has not found fault. When it declared the Green-Rennick parole act unconstitutional last year, it did so on the ground that the act gave the parole board improper power to alter maximum and minimum sentences fixed by judges. That was not part of the original program, and elimination of this unconstitutional section from the present bill will not harm the operation of the maximum-minimum sentence system.

Illinois' parole record is getting better, year by year. It is getting better because public attention has been focused on it and public indignation has driven to cover the politico-criminal alliance that once operated parole as a racket. The Rennick-Connors bill is designed to prevent that racket ever being revived to become the public scandal that it was a few years ago.

GENERALS UNDER FIRE.

Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger has been in command of American troops on the Buna front. He might have directed the operation from a safe headquarters in the rear, but, as Mr. Noderer reports, has chosen instead to spend most of his time on the firing line. He carries a Tommy gun and uses it to kill snipers.

Other American generals have been taking similar chances. Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider received multiple wounds at the front in New Guinea. Brig. Gen. Kenneth N. Walker was missing after leading his bombers on a raid over Rabaul, New Britain, on Jan. 5. Maj. Gen. Clarence Tinker did not return from a bombing expedition which he led in person at the battle of Midway. Brig. Gen. Asa N. Duncan was lost in a flight to North Africa at the opening of the campaign there.

In the American fighting tradition, the general's place is at the front. Washington's aides were frequently appalled at the risks he took. Gen. Grant himself reconnoitered the front at Chattanooga. When at one point in the Wilderness campaign the bullets began to whistle about him, an aide urged him to withdraw. The general replied quietly that it would be better to bring up a battery and drive the enemy back.

The example was worth an army corps. The success of the American troops in this war provides a striking contrast to the many failures that preceded our entry. The superiority of our troops in morale and discipline is not the only explanation. Another important influence has been the conduct of our generals, and the inspiration they have afforded to their subordinate officers and the men in the ranks.

Gen. Eichelberger's aides urged him to remove the three-star insignia of his rank, which made him a conspicuous target for snipers. He refused. "I want these boys to know I'm in there with them," he said.

That's the way to win campaigns and to win wars. The loss of an able general may be a very serious one, but in the fighting business the risk must be taken. It is simply a fact that a general killed at the head of his men, sharing their risks and privations, has been of more service to his country than one, however brilliant he may be, who preserves his life by remaining out of danger in the rear.

WHEN THE CRIMINAL HIDES THE EVIDENCE.

While Tom Pendergast was boss in Kansas City and had some of his henchmen installed in the state government of Missouri, a juicy opportunity arose in connection with litigation over fire insurance rates in the state, in which some millions of dollars of premiums had been impounded pending determination of legality of a rate increase by the companies. Pendergast and his tool, Robert Emmett O'Malley, then the state superintendent of insurance, made a deal by which the larger part of the money was to be returned to the insurance companies in return for a bribe of some hundreds of thousands of dollars paid to Pendergast and his crowd.

Since the litigation was in the United States court which had impounded the money, O'Malley had to recommend the crooked settlement to the court which, on his representations, approved it. Eventually, as the law began to catch up with Pendergast and his gang on one count and another, the insurance scandal came to light. By that time the statute of limitations barred criminal prosecution and, as an alternative, the federal judges brought Pendergast, O'Malley, and a third defendant before them, charged them with contempt in that they had deceived the court, and sentenced them to prison. The case was appealed and the United States Supreme court has just set aside the contempt sentence, holding that the statute of limitations applies to contempt of court as well as to crimes.

That statute is a valuable and proper protection of the citizen. The theory behind it is that if the prosecutors were allowed to go back any number of years and charge a citizen with crime, the passage of time would often have made it impossible for him to produce the testimony necessary to defend himself, even tho he were innocent.

A special case arises, however, in crimes involving public office. Very commonly those offenses go unpunished because the office holders are able, thru their official power, to suppress the evidence until the statute of limitations has run. The late County Clerk Sweitzer held office for 24 years and it was not until he vacated it that it was discovered that for many years he had been juggling his accounts to conceal shortages. The instance is but one of many.

A proper legal remedy can be applied to these cases. It would consist of an amendment to the statute of limitation providing that where any crime involves the abuse of official power the period of limitation shall not begin to run until the official involved has vacated the office in question. In cases of conspiracy the limitation should not be permitted to start on behalf of any of the defendants until the last of them has vacated any office whose powers were misused by the conspirators.

This is a matter that should receive the attention both of congress and of state legislatures, since both the state and federal criminal codes have their statutes of limitation.

WARTIME TABLE TALK.

La vie militaire has been a subject of general discussion in this land for several years, but many a young officer fresh from civilian life has been surprised to learn, after donning his uniform, that the regulations grant him four freedoms: The freedom from carrying bundles, the freedom from pushing baby carriages, the freedom from dragging a lady on his arm, and the freedom frpm walking a dog.

* * *

The new slogan of the food supply propagandists, "A carp pond for every farm," is at least 50 years old. Carbon copies of this fantasy have been in the files of the department of agriculture ever since the sluggish weed-eater was introduced into this country. At that time, incidentally, the carp was regarded as of Prussian origin.

* * *

The biggest, laziest, and most degenerate-looking carp that this column ever saw were in the pond of the old royal château at Fontainebleau, close to the scene of Napoleon's first abdication.

* * *

The carp is distantly related to the despised sucker, which gave the state of Illinois its pioneer nickname, and to numerous fishes that are frequently mentioned in English novels, such as bream, dace, gudgeon, roach, and tench.

* * *

The search for neglected sources of food may eventually turn toward the "reedbirds" that were plentiful 50 years ago, and esteemed by gourmets. You will find them in the large menagerie which contributed to the famous annual game dinners at the Grand Pacific hotel in the 1880s.

* * *

"Reedbirds" were mainly red-winged blackbirds, we believe, but almost any small twitterer with a plump breast was likely to be included. Many a robin has been eaten as a "reedbird." Hunting farmers on southern marshes who didn't care what they shot contributed "reedbirds" to northern markets.

PREMATURE SPRING FEVER.

"If Winter comes, can Spring be,"
Asked Shelley, "far behind?"
And to that two-buck question
I speak what's in my mind:

It can be, Percy Bysshe, old boy,
It can be, you bet!
I yearn for Spring, the hussy,
And it isn't half way yet.

I want to feel the ravage
Of April golfing germs—
I want to see the robins
Heave-hoing on the worms;

I'd mow a lawn with pleasure,
Or put on window screens—
Or plant a foolish garden
Full of lettuce, peas, and beans.

I'm sick of pussyfooting
Down a slippery, icy walk—
I'd like to see some housewives
In a spring time, backfence talk.

Yes, these things mean the spring time
Which it may be in Tibet—
Here, Winter has just started
And it isn't half way yet.

Try an Opossum in the Meat Shortage.

Linemaster: Went coon huntin' the other night. 'Twas a clear, frosty night with a full moon and we had some good hounds, but daggone it, after traipsin' over 12,000 acres of Indiana, all we got was nine possums. The boys skinned 'em for the fur and was goin' to throw the carcasses away, but I grabbed two. I like the way my old lady roasts 'em with red yams. Course you have to cut off a lot of the excess fat an' take out the scent glands, but that's easy. Say, they were tender as young pigs.

One of 'em was carryin' a litter of eight tiny ones in her marsupial pouch. They're related to the kangaroo, you know. I read up on possums when I got home. Seems like when they're born they're almost formless like an embryo, no bigger'n a honey bee, but have the instinct and the ability to climb into that pouch, where they stay for two months or more. Found out that the possum was here, just as it is now, 70 million years ago. As dumb and slow as they are, I can't figger that one!

SAFEGUARD YOUR KIDNEYS.

THE kidneys are on the job constantly and the work which they perform is enormous. They assume the responsibility of filtering from the blood substances which otherwise would prove poisonous. While we can get along satisfactorily with but one of these structures, we feel more secure when "spare" is available. Unless we abuse them, neither will be overtaxed.

By the time one has reached the age of 60, the average individual will have had the blood strained millions of times. In consequence, between 50,000 and 100,000 pints of fluid waste will have been removed from the circulation.

But these organs are not immune to disease. Following an infection—for example, sore throat—they may become inflamed. Then it is that the victim may complain of considerable swelling of the tissues. This is caused by retention of water. Blood in the urine may mean that the renal machinery is unable to function—at least for the time being.

We should be on the alert to detect—from this cause—extensive and persistent swelling of the face, hands, or legs. The symptom informs the physician that he is facing a real problem. As a rule, the urine will be loaded with albumin and the total output markedly reduced.

All of this means that we must be ready to combat certain types of streptococci, particularly the hemolytic variety, which exhibits great fondness for kidney cells. A severe case of tonsillitis may call for the prompt employment of one of the sulfa drugs, lest nephritis make its appearance. These chemicals are usually able to forestall the spread of dangerous organisms.

Let us assume that, despite all precautions, the renal apparatus has been injured. Every sufferer must be handled as tho he were made of fragile glass. The slightest chill must be avoided. The room should be kept at about 78 degrees Fahrenheit, with the patient warmly clothed. Under no circumstances can he be up and about, even to visit the bathroom.

The diet may be general and as much as the patient desires. Appetite may need to be tempted. As the thunder abates, more food will be required. Meat and vegetables comparable to average meals may be consumed.

With convalescence, we must look upon the victim as one who will require careful medical supervision for at least a year. The condition may fail to subside completely. If much damage has been done, the blood pressure will rise slowly. In the meantime, the individual fails to regain strength.

If albumin is being excreted in generous amounts, just that much more protein must be added to the daily menus. But there is no advantage in an overplus, and 6 ounces in each 24 hours will probably suffice. We need not look upon Bright's disease as something which will take life quickly. It can be lived with and even outwitted if we will play the game.

Few of us will develop this chronic state if we will take care of every acute sore throat, avoid undue exposure, make certain that the teeth are not harboring abscesses about their roots, and that the sinuses [when infected] can discharge their foul contents with facility.

At husking bees, a red ear was a prize. The fortunate finder was allowed to kiss the prettiest girl. His ears would then glow with embarrassment. Ordinarily, exposure, irritation, or pressure causes the blood vessels to dilate so that the parts will appear to be on fire.

RED TAPE.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Those in need of auxiliary oil rations because of illness have a splendid opportunity of learning how time, labor, and transportation facilities are wasted.

1. Applicant makes trip to local ration board for application, which practically requires a lawyer's assistance to fill it out.

2. Doctor must be contacted again to write a statement such as was inclosed with original application.

3. A heating engineer or a plumber must make an unnecessary trip to applicant's home to check heating plant which, in this instance, was installed new two years ago. He must then also sign application. His time and transportation are not paid for by Uncle Sam.

4. Application, which contains identical information contained in original one sent in September, must now be sent to ration board and again rechecked.

5. In the event that a home is not insulated, equipped with window stripping, storm windows, and storm doors, explanations are in order.

Perhaps Mr. Morgenthau can figure out how to pay taxes, buy bonds, buy all this extra equipment, and still keep up payments on the home we don't want to lose.

The ironic part of it is that while we are over here trying to protect these same people they are trying to push prohibition thru while a great part of their opposition is in the army.

It is easy to see that all of the trouble makers and public pests are not in the pay of Hitler or his axis buddies, but they are impeding the war nevertheless.

A THEORY ON BEEF PRICES.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Argentina has little pork to export, hence the floor here under pork prices, but has lots of beef, the markets for which have largely disappeared during the war, hence the ruinously narrow price margin between range and finished cattle in the United States.

This 1943 "shortage" of beef may cause some hunger pangs now but is going to be more troublesome in the future when it will become one of the items of proof of our "dependence" on other countries.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—I am a maid working for $15 a week and it seems most unreasonable and unfair that domestics earning their livelihood in a truly great country and enjoying the peace and liberties that we enjoy should not pay our share of earnings above the $12 minimum toward the victory tax.

It is only fitting that we domestics should help to bring this war to a successful conclusion. This goes, too, for the agricultural help which has also been exempted from the tax. I feel that congress should immediately amend the victory tax legislation to include both the domestics and the agricultural help employed in this land. Where else could any one of them enjoy the happiness and privileges that we enjoy? Hence, we should also pay our way along with the other good American citizens.

The present shortages in America were caused by the New Deal and they paid a vast sum to assure these shortages. They planned it that way, and deliberately.

How many people realize the truth of this situation, and why doesn't congress investigate it and expose it?

SQUEEZE ON OFFICE WORKER.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Every time I listen to the radio or read a paper some one is pleading the cause of the poor farmer, saying that prices should be raised so that the farmer can make a profit comparable with that of the war worker. You would think that every one was a war worker with a huge income except the farmer, so I would like to ask for some one to plead the cause of the office worker, who seems to be the forgotten man now.

He has to buy war bonds to the limit, pays increased income tax, victory tax, etc. Everything goes up but his wages. Ceilings were put on prices, but every time he goes to buy he learns of prices being boosted again. Ceilings were put on to protect us from inflation, and, being patriotic, the white collar worker did not ask a raise in income. But if prices are going to be raised all the time he will have to demand a raise, too, or else sell his war bonds [as I see some are doing]. I'm darned if I can figure out any other way.

FISH POND IDEA WINS SNORTS ON MIDWEST FARMS

Called 'Crackpot,' 'Silly' and 'Bum' Plan.

Farmers of middle western states snorted in derision yesterday at the government's suggestion that they construct fish ponds on their farms to increase the nation's food supply as well as to obtain "intangible recreational values."

This suggestion was contained in the current issue of Fishery Market News, a publication of the interior department's fish and wildlife service. The article proposed ponds covering from one to five acres and visualized an increase of "tens of millions of pounds of proteins" to the nation's food war chest.

THE TRIBUNE asked several of its correspondents in rural districts to ascertain the reaction of representative farmers to the interior department's plan. Replies follow:

"Another Crackpot Idea."

Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 11 [Special].—"Just another crackpot idea," said Merrill E. Jackson, county assessor and farmer, in commenting today on the government's fish pond for every farmer idea. "No one has the time or inclination to go into the fish rearing business and very few farmers would have the money it would take.

"I don't think you'll find many farmers taking to it," said Ellis Learner, former trustee of Center township. "This is just another swivel chair idea not suited to the level land of Indiana."

John Van Sickle and Homer Bowland, officials of the agricultural adjustment administration, said the damming of streams for fish ponds would be hazardous because it might interfere with drainage systems.

CCC Effort Recalled.

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 11 [Special].—Lester McBeth, farmer who owns 300 acres in Knox township near here, recalled an abortive and costly attempt at fish pond construction by the civilian conservation corps when asked his opinion today concerning the government's fish pond suggestion.

The CCC built a three acre fish pond on a farm near his land, he said, erecting a dam at a cost of $2,000. Nothing ever came of it, he said.

W. T. Watson, tenant on a 100 acre farm near here, said the labor situation is such that he doesn't know a single farmer who could get help to build a dam.

"The farmers I know don't like to fish," Watson said.

"Just a silly, bum idea," was the comment of Fred B. Swickard, Gilson farm owner and county board member.

"Of all times, this year is no time to be planning any such scheme," said Kirk McDowell, who owns and operates 600 acres in Copley township. "We have more to do than we can do now. I wouldn't know what to do with fish if I had them."

How About the Water?

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Jan. 11 [Special].—"Who's going to furnish the water?" asked C. B. F. Michel, who farms 400 acres near Marion, Ia., when asked his opinion of the government's fish ponds for farmers scheme. After a moment's thought, he added, "Who's going to furnish the help?"

"Fish, you wouldn't have any," Michel asserted. "When the July and August dry spell arrived the fish wouldn't live. It's just tomfoolery."

No Time for Fish.

Monroe, Wis., Jan. 11 [Special].—Wisconsin farmers have no time for the fish business, Roscoe Smith, president of the state farm bureau, said here today in commenting on the government's suggestion that farmers construct fish ponds on their farms. He said the idea is impractical in this section where large dairy production makes land valuable for other uses.

Not Very Excited.

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 10 [Special].—Farmers in the agricultural areas of southeastern Wisconsin won't get very excited about the prospects of putting up fish ponds on their farms, in the opinion of E. V. Ryall, Kenosha county agricultural agent and former president of the National Association of Farm Extension Workers.

Ryall said that during the last harvest many Kenosha county farmers lost heavily because they could not get help to gather in the crops, with the result that much produce was left rotting in the ground. He observed that under these circumstances farmers generally will have little time to cultivate fishing ponds.

"What Next?"

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 11 [Special].—Tippecanoe county farmers shook their heads and exclaimed, "What next?" in commenting today on the government's suggestion that farmers construct fish ponds.

"This proposal is the limit," said Dr. J. S. Morrison, owner and operator of a large farm. "Sensible suggestions from the government to the farmer are as scarce as hen's teeth."

"Building a pond would be something for a millionaire absentee farmer to attempt," said Rochester Baird, owner of a 550 acre farm.

"Farmers have no labor to spare on such things," said A. Blaine Miller, county official and lifelong farmer.

Neither Place, Nor Time.

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 11 [Special.]—Representative reaction to the government's suggestion that farmers raise fish in specially constructed fish ponds on their farms today was:

William Lambert, Bourbonnais farmer—"Our only boy is in the army. I'm farming 210 acres alone. When would I have time for it?"

Otto Seedorf, Kankakee farmer—"I'd like to go fishing all right, but have no place to build a pond, nor the time to do it."

Idea Finds a Backer.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 11 [Special].—Farmer sentiment concerning the governments proposal for construction of a fish pond on every farm is mixed in this section of Northern Indiana.

Paul Post of R. R. No. 1, Fort Wayne, favors the idea. He said ponds could be built with a gravel beach at one end for swimming.

Henry Kolmerton, Allen county farmer and chairman of the AAA program, believes the proposal to construct a pond on every farm is ridiculous. Kolmerton believes any farmer having a pond on his farm probably would net his fish rather than spend his time angling.

Herman Bueter, living east of Fort Wayne, said the soil of Allen county is not adaptable to construction of fish ponds that would hold water. He recounted some experiments of years ago which ended in failure.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. E. L. Hanson, Zenda, Wis.]

THE QUESTION.

Did you ever receive something you thought you didn't deserve?

WHERE ASKED.

The Pullman building, 79 East Adams street.

THE ANSWERS.

Edward L. Peterson, clerk, 7631 Colfax avenue—I don't think I deserved the first money I ever earned. A man dropped a half dollar in a shallow mud puddle and I waded in and retrieved it for him. He gave me a quarter. I've discovered since that money isn't always as easily earned.

Robert A. Thatcher, 13011 South Seeley avenue, Blue Island—I will never forget the whipping I didn't deserve. I was told to make my little brother stay at home when I went to the baseball game. He tagged along without my knowing it and was hurt. I felt badly and got a whipping besides.

Jack Arnold, office boy, 4646 Magnolia avenue—There were students in our class who devoted all of their extra time to studying. It didn't seem like it was hard work for me at all, and with no extra effort I received a scholarship. I always felt that there were others who were more deserving.

Frank B. Cerone, office clerk, 733 North Springfield avenue—Every time some one compliments me on a new suit I take credit for something I don't really deserve. My father still has a great influence on everything I buy and if my clothes are selected in good taste he really should have the credit.

Kenneth M. Mollison, auditor, 4339 Irving Park road—I've often thought that I don't deserve to have a wife like mine. She puts up with more than most other people would under the circumstances. I also have a beautiful little daughter who I sometimes think deserves a better father.

Ray J. Warneke, office boy, 4126 Greenview avenue—It was a big event in my life when I visited my uncle's farm. When I was ready to return to the city I discovered I didn't have enough money for my ticket. I didn't think it was right for him to pay my fare and give me an extra five dollars.

MAJ. ROWAN, WHO TOOK MESSAGE TO GARCIA, DIES

Spanish-American War Hero Ill 2 Years.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 11 (AP).—Maj. Andrew S. Rowan, the man who carried the message to Garcia in the Spanish-American war, died yesterday in the army's Letterman hospital, it was announced today. He was 85 years old and had been ill for two years.

Maj. Andrew S. Rowan.

Rowan fired the imagination of the American people at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war by carrying a message from the war department thru the wilds of the jungle to Gen. Calixto Garcia, the Cuban rebel leader.

His thrilling exploit was immortalized by the late Elbert Hubbard whose essay, "A Message to Garcia," became famous as one of the world's best sellers. It was translated into many languages and more than 30 million copies were sold.

Invasion Data Needed.

A graduate of West Point, Rowan was a lieutenant in charge of maps in the war department in Washington, D. C., when it became apparent war with Spain was impending. The department needed precise military information of the Spanish forces and the insurgents in Cuba in order to plan its invasion of the island.

Gen. Garcia, who had long urged Cubans to rise against Spain, was regarded as the best informed man of the military situation, but he was hiding in the mountains and it was doubtful whether he would learn, until too late, that hostilities were imminent.

Rowan was selected for the perilous mission because of his trustworthiness, his reputation for bravery, his knowledge of the island, and his ability to speak Spanish. He was sent secretly to Kingston, Jamaica. On April 23, 1898, his 41st birthday, he receive a coded message instrucing him to join Garcia as soon as possible.

Ordered to Learn Strength.

His specific orders were to ascertain the strength of the insurgents and to arrange for their coöperation with the American forces in the event of war. Embarking from St. Ann's Bay, Jamaica, in an open sailboat, accompanied by a Cuban guide, he landed at night near Santiago on April 24.

He eluded outposts of the Spanish patrol before dawn and started out thru the jungle. For seven days and nights he crawled thru the thickets and swamps. His route took him over the Sierra Maestra mountains. Finally, on May 1, he reached Garcia with the message.

Garcia, surprised and overjoyed, provided him with the military information and selected three of his most trusted officers to make the dangerous trip back across the country and to Washington.

Wins Prompt Promotion.

Rowan was promptly promoted to lieutenant colonel. President McKinley publicly congratulated him and he became a popular hero. It was not until 24 years later that congress voted him the distinguished service cross.

During the Spanish-American war he was on the staff of Gen. Nelson A. Miles, commander in chief of the American army, with whom he served in Cuba and Puerto Rico.

He also saw service in the Philippines uprising and in 1905 was given the permanent rank of major. He retired in 1909.

PUTS HEAD OUT TRAIN WINDOW; STRUCK BY TRUCK

Harold E. Winters, 35 years old, a North Shore line collector, was seriously injured yesterday in an unusual accident aboard his train at Washington and Utica streets, Waukegan.

Riding in the front cab, Winters stuck his head thru a window as the train was moving slowly across the intersection. He was caught by a tackle on the rear of a motor truck moving in the opposite direction and pulled from the train, falling headlong to the pavement.

Winters, who lives at 1717 Hyde Park avenue, Waukegan, was taken to Victory Memorial hospital with a deep laceration of the scalp. The truck was driven by Lawrence Dockery, 623 Julian street, Waukegan.

Mrs. A. J. Turney, Glencoe, Sues Husband for Divorce

Mrs. Miriam Turney, 235 Sheridan road, Glencoe, filed suit for divorce in the Superior court yesterday against Arthur J. Turney, a wool broker at 160 East Illinois street. She charges cruelty. The Turneys were married Aug. 12, 1942, in Omaha, Neb., and separated last Dec. 23. She asks that Turney pay expenses to be incurred next spring with the expected birth of a child.

STATE HOSPITAL PATIENT STRUCK BY 2 AUTOS; DIES

Escaped Inmate from Chicago Is Victim.

Frank Smith, 47 years old, committed to the Manteno state hospital from Chicago about 18 months ago, was fatally injured Sunday night when he was struck by two automobiles on U. S. highway 54 near the Kankakee-Will county line.

Charles Spencer of the hospital police department, said Smith escaped from the hospital and that he found Smith lying along the road, apparently after the patient had been struck by a hit-run driver. While Spencer was on his way to call an ambulance, Smith apparently regained consciousness and began walking along the highway.

He was struck a second time by an automobile driven by Leroy Croxen, Peotone, Will county.

Hit-Run Accident Fatal.

Olaf Wallen, 70, of 3508 Wilton avenue, died in Augustana hospital last night of injuries received Dec. 23 when he was struck by a hit and run driver at the corner of Cornelia and Sheffield avenues.

TELL RIVER BUS PLANS IF SETUP WINS APPROVAL

The Rodi Boat Storage and Service company, 2454 South Ashland avenue, plans to charge 25 cents for individual rides and 20 cents a ride on a weekly ticket basis for a nine minute "river bus" trip from Adams street to Michigan avenue if the company obtains a city license to institute the service, John F. Hayes, spokesman for the company, said yesterday.

Details of the plan will be submitted in a letter which will be forwarded today to the coast guard and the city council's committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges, Hayes said. The company plans to start with six cabin type cruisers, four of them 32 feet long and seating 25 persons and the other two 34 feet long and seating 30 persons.

The boats would dock at Adams street, Madison street, and Michigan avenue at the start. A branch line later might be extended to Chicago avenue. The company would operate from 7 a. m. to 7:30 p. m., with less frequent service from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

BOY ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF ROBBING MAIL

James L. Stubbs, 13 years old, colored, who worked as a part time employé in the main postoffice during the Christmas rush, was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by Federal Judge William H. Holly on charges of stealing from the mails. He was released on $500 bond.

Stubbs, who lives at 5025 Michigan avenue, was hired to handle the holiday mails when he represented that he was 16 years old. He is in the seventh grade at the Farren grammar school.

Assistant United States Attorney Mary Bailey filed the complaint, charging that Stubbs opened six letters and removed checks and money orders totaling $62.

Emerson House Board to Give Another Benefit Cocktail Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

A COCKTAIL PARTY that the board of directors of the Emerson Settlement house gave last year at the Racquet club was such a success that the gay occasion is to be repeated on Jan. 29. Oddly enough, the board made more money at that simple sort of gathering than it ever had at the elaborate supper or dinner dances that had been given in previous years.

The sum of $1 again will be charged for admission to the club, and then guests may purchase rolls of tickets to pay for drinks and grab bag participation. The grab-bag will be no ordinary one, for into it will go such items that are hard to get today as canned and dried fruits, sugar, etc., all of which will be contributed from the directors' own pantries. Adding a spot of glamor to the grab-bag loot will be objects from the stage settings of the various shows in town at that time.

Present will be celebrities of the stage and screen who will be in Chicago then, among them Miss Gertrude Lawrence, who opens in "Lady in the Dark" next Tuesday at the Civic Opera house; Paul Lucas, who is coming with "Watch on the Rhine" next Sunday to the Selwyn, and some of the cast of "The Eve of St. Mark," which opens next Monday at the Harris.

Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley Jr. Donates $100 War Bond.

Zasu Pitts, Skeets Gallagher and his wife, and Buddy Ibsen also have accepted invitations to the party. Miss Lawrence will award a $100 war bond, donated by Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley Jr., to some lucky person. Mrs. Byron S. Harvey Jr., president of the settlement, heads the committee for the benefit. It is rather a "skeleton" committee because so many members have had to drop out for one reason or another. Mrs. George W. Dixon Jr. is about to accompany her husband to Washington, D. C.; Miss Adrienne Ely has resigned because she works six days a week at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, and Mrs. Gardner Brown, the treasurer, is inactive at the moment, as she is taking care of her home and her two little children in Lake Forest.

Friends of Edith Atwater, who has just closed in "R U R" in New York, and of her husband, Hugh Marlowe, who plays opposite Gertrude Lawrence, will be welcoming them back to Chicago together by Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Marlowe have taken an apartment at the Seneca, not far from her mother, Mrs. Harold C. Pynchon. Mr. Marlowe's parents are Chicagoans, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hipple. The opening of "Lady in the Dark" is to benefit the Margaret Etter crêche, and after the play Miss Lawrence and the Marlowes will be holding court at the Pump room, where the crêche directors will be giving a supper party.

The "Eve of St. Mark" cast also includes some former Chicagoans—Cyrella Dorn, a former Francis Parker school student; Mary Ann Bestor, daughter of Orchestra Leader Don Bestor, and Owen Jordan, a University of Chicago graduate and former member of the drama department of De Paul university.

Byron-Parker Wedding Takes Place Saturday.

Of interest is the news that Miss Virginia Parker and Malcolm Ross Byron are to be married on Saturday. The ceremony will take place quietly at 4:30 o'clock in the apartment of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Cummings Parker, the Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson officiating. A small reception will follow. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Parker, will be attended by young Mrs. Parker. John Prosser will be best man. Mr. Byron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alwyn Byron of Ottawa, Canada, will take his bride to the southwest on a wedding trip. They will be at home at the Ambassador East.

Ensign Borland to Visit Chicago with His Bride.

The Bruce Borlands are in a high state of excitement, for their son, Ensign William F. Borland, and his bride, the former Anne Jay Bryant, are due to arrive next week from Seattle, Wash., where they were married on Dec. 28. Young Mrs. Borland's parents, the John Jay Bryants, stopped over in Pasadena, Cal., after the wedding, but they are expected at home today or tomorrow to prepare for the reunion. The Borlands plan to ask a few close friends of the two families in for tea on Jan. 22 during their son's 10 day leave before he reports for sea duty.

Gwen Dew, newspaper woman who was captured in Hongkong by the Japanese, will give an eyewitness account of the fall of that city when she speaks at 11:30 o'clock today at the Woman's Athletic club. Her story, "I Was a Prisoner of the Japs," will be followed by luncheon. Among those with reservations are Mrs. Robert Peacock, Miss Elizabeth Hoffman, Mrs. John Slade, Mrs. Stanley Pierce, Mrs. Frederick Schmidt, Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley, Mrs. Henry Pope, Mrs. C. Wallace Johnson, and Mrs. James Gillick.

Hans Lange, who is to conduct the Chicago Symphony orchestra in its Bond concert on Jan. 27, will be the special guest at a tea at the Cliff Dwellers following the regular Friday symphony concert this week. Appearing with the orchestra on the 27th will be Nathan Milstein and Gregor Piatigorsky. Mrs. Ernst Puttkamer will be hostess for the Cliff Dwellers.

English Speaking Union to Hear British Consul.

Members of the English Speaking union have received invitations to what promises to be an interesting meeting at 4 o'clock on Friday at the Arts club. Henry Hugh Thomas, new British consul in Chicago, will speak on "The Japanese as I Know Them." Mr. Thomas has served in the consular service in Tokio, Manila, and Shanghai, where he became "consul for Japanese affairs" in 1938. He was interned by the Japanese when war with Japan started in 1941.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Colton Daughaday Jr. became the parents of a daughter, Pamela Jean, on Dec. 31 in Denver, Colo. Mr. and Mrs. Daughaday Sr. of Winnetka plan to go west later to see their first grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Fellenz Jr. [Virginia Skinner] became the parents of a daughter on Sunday in Fond du Lac, Wis. The baby is the grand-

Ushers for Benefit Performance of 'Lady in the Dark'

Miss Jane Kreuscher, Miss Anita McCahey, and Miss Yvonne Hoskins (left to right) will act as ushers at the opening of "Lady in the Dark" next Tuesday night at the Civic Opera house. The performance will be followed by a supper party at the Pump room with the leading lady, Gertrude Lawrence, as special guest. The Margaret Etter Creche will benefit from the opening and the supper party.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

The Boss Writes Back.

"Dear Girls: I've been getting your notes from time to time and have filed them away under the heading 'Women—Their Cause & Cure.' I expect the data will form valuable material for some future analyst concerned with the downfall of the male empire in business [as in the home].

"One aspect of the correspondence strikes me as being pertinent to our present economic difficulties—the assumption that all of the concessions and adjustments must be made by the employer and none by the employé. This doesn't jibe with my personal experience. The first money I earned was from my uncle for weeding his garden. I recall that my uncle—the employer—stipulated the terms [or how many weeds for how much] and I—a small grimy employé in overalls—accepted tho the sun was hot and my back ached. I did not tell my uncle I thought only the front garden need be weeded. He was doling out the pennies!

"I doubtless should be run out of town if I suggested that what 'ails' a lot of you girls is your readiness to overlook this simple fact; or if I called attention to one or two observations:

"1. Hundreds, yes thousands of you, are not doing a job. In my own office you write letters to the boys in service during business hours. You want to back up these men but not seriously enough to do a 100 per cent job here at home.

"2. Those of you who are doing a job are not assuming sufficient responsibility for the ones who are riding along. Lowered standards of efficiency because the employer is up against a labor shortage and has to take what he can get assuredly will not produce a favorable verdict for women in industry after the war.

"But, as I said, I'd be run out of town, so I'm merely pouring this [confidentially] into the ear of the White Collar Girl.—Still The Boss."

Apologetic Postscript.

In mentioning the Jones Commercial school at 607 Plymouth court, for whose new semester registration is now under way, I neglected to state that inquiries about the courses should be made at the board of education, telephone Dearborn 7801.

Honor.

Agnes Colville, who has just won the prize in the special processed division of house publications, awarded by the Industrial Editors' Association of Chicago, has been in the public eye before. A native Iowan, Agnes was honored—when she was all of 4—by being chosen to unveil the statue of Chief Keokuk on the banks of the Mississippi. All she did then, she declares, was "to pull a string," but those who are familiar with the interesting house magazine she now edits agree that in the honor which came to her last week, no strings were pulled! Like mother, like daughter, holds true in this case, because Agnes' mother has edited for 25 years the P. E. O. Record.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

Student participation in the war will be a major course in a new program to start on Feb. 8 at Mundelein college. Approximately 500 of the 603 young women enrolled will take part in an extensive program worked out by counselors and major advisers, in cooperation with the vocational guidance staff.

Convinced that the college trained women of America have a vital work to do toward winning the war, and that the conservation and direction of woman power is as great a need as the conservation of man power, college authorities have developed this new plan of guidance and training for specialized work in the vital services, professions, and industries.

A profile will be prepared for each student, based on the results of psychological, aptitude, and preference tests, plus her academic achievement. Using this data, counselors and advisers will confer with undergraduates in the choice of courses and assist them, upon graduation, to obtain employment in the specific fields for which they are prepared.

Miss Marion Stoffel of Cicero, a junior chemistry student at Mundelein college, expects to choose photography or radio communications in a new war activities program to start on Feb. 8 at the college.

At present the most imperative need for college trained women appears to be in five general fields, for all of which the liberal arts course is a basis. These are:

Teaching, technical work in science and mathematics, home and health, including nursing, dietetics, nutrition, and child care; community service, embracing occupational therapy, civil service, recreational work, and sociology, and business training.

In addition to the long range training of students to step into strategic positions of service after graduation, Mundelein college has the conviction that every student should be engaged right now in some activity which contributes to the war.

The authorities stress the importance of the mastery of each subject and urge the young women to accomplish to the maximum of their ability the work involved in the regular courses—this as a patriotic duty.

Those students, however, who are not working, either on NYA or on the student aid at the college, and who are not employed outside the college after school hours, are asked to include in their curriculum one of 15 carefully planned courses, several of which will be given at hours convenient for all students.

An appeal to housewives to open their kitchens as well as their living quarters to service men and their wives has been made by the Y. W. C. A. room registry, which said that many service men were unable to bring their wives here for short or long periods because "eating out" was too expensive. Mrs. Miette Cummings, director of the Y. W. C. A. service department, said the registry is besieged by service men seeking rooms with kitchen privileges. At the same time the appeal was made it was announced that the room registry had moved from 203 North Wabash avenue to the Loop Center Y. W. C. A., 59 East Monroe street. It will remain open from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night daily, and Sundays from noon until 8 o'clock.

This enlarged service, Mrs. Cummings said, is made possible by financial aid from the U. S. O. She added that women who will list their homes with the room registry will be doing real war work.

Thru the Looking Glass

A friend of ours who forsook bridge parties and her fireside to work in a defense plant tells us, as so many women workers do—that working with oil coated machinery gave her a pleasant sense of achievement but ruined any sense of satisfaction she might have had in the beauty of her hands.

She tried protectives and found them unsatisfactory. She decided then that she'd simply try to toughen the skin and reports that this is working very well indeed. In her locker she keeps one tin of machinists' soap, one cake of superfatted soap, a stiff hand brush, and a bottle of greaseless lotion to be used as a softener.

The abrasive soap she uses just once a day, at the end of her shift. On her rest periods, twice a day, she uses her good, bland soap and her brush and scrubs vigorously. Then, most important to her toughening program, she rinses the hands for a long time, first in warm and then in very cold water.

She is so enthusiastic about the generous use of cold water that she uses it again at night before going to bed and this time in her bath spray, playing it on the hands until the skin tingles. After each washing she applies the lotion.

Her skin is far less sensitive than it used to be, but no rougher. The surface doesn't break as easily, and in miraculous fashion it takes the scrubbings now without becoming red and chapped. Brisk and frequent rinsings with cold water, she says, have conditioned the skin to the point where it can take it.

Most sauces for fish have butter in them; some of them have a really lavish amount of butter in them. Good old butter, it has been one of the cook's best friends all these years, and now it's so scarce that we can't afford to use it in sauce for fish!

Fat fish, such as mackerel, trout, and salmon don't need a buttery or oily sauce. Lean fish don't absolutely need it, but butter is awfully nice with baked fillets, lobster, and shrimps.

However, there are other good sauces which will leave us more butter for our bread. These are good with almost any kind of fish, fat or lean, shellfish included.

Sour Cream Sauce for Fish.

½ cup thick sour cream
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice
Salt, papper, celery salt

Combine ingredients. A teaspoon of onion juice or minced onion adds to the flavor. A tablespoon of cut chives is prettier than onion, if you have a pot of chives in your kitchen window.

Tartar Sauce for Fish.

½ cup cooked salad dressing
2 tablespoons chopped pickle
2 teaspoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon or more minced parsley
Salt, pepper, if needed

If you have canned pimientos on hand, add a tablespoon of chopped pimiento for color contrast. Or a tablespoon of chili sauce or catsup will do nicely. If the dressing is very thick, thin it with cream or milk.

White Sauce Variations.

Excellent fish sauces can be made from a basic white sauce. Make the base by blending 2 tablespoons margarine or meat drippings with 2 tablespoons flour and adding ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and 1 cup milk or stock. Cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Here are some of the variations.

Mustard Sauce: Add 2 tablespoons prepared mustard to the basic white sauce.

Lemon Sauce: Add lemon juice to taste. Two tablespoons of minced parsley make the sauce more attractive.

Onion Sauce: Add onion juice, onion salt or minced onion to taste. Chopped chives are prettier, if you have them, and give a more delicate flavor. Chopped green onions, including tops, also are nice.

Celery Sauce: Cook chopped celery in water to cover and use the cooking water as the liquid in the white sauce. Add cooked celery together with 1 teaspoon minced onion and 1 tablespoon minced parsley to sauce.

Pickle Sauce: Use the liquid from pickles or olives as part of the liquid in white sauce [not more than ¼ cup] and add chopped pickles or olives to the sauce.

Then there's just plain lemon juice which is one of the finest known dressings for any kind of fish. A good French dressing, or a lemony mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing may be used as a fish sauce, too.

Or one can combine equal parts lemon juice and melted bacon drippings, add minced onion for flavor, and pour this over fish ready for serving.

Deliveries of fresh fish these days don't provide an even distribution, and one locality may differ from the next in the kinds and amount of fish available. The housewife will usually find several good kinds to choose from when she goes to market, in spite of wartime conditions affecting fish as well as other foods.

Color Supplies Zip to Topcoat and Suit Duets

BY REA SEEGER.

The familiar combination of suit with topcoat is going stronger than ever. Altho the idea is far from new, this season's variations on the theme are novel and intriguing. Color and pattern contrast make the difference.

Sturdy, warm woolens provide protection against what remains of cold weather; color and clever contrasts and mixtures make the temptation for something new. You'll find streamlined two piece suits, concisely cut, superbly tailored and fitted, which team with chesterfield or loose topcoat. You'll also find shorter dressmaker jackets fitted in around the slender waistline, buttoned snugly over the ribs, matched to pleated skirts. Sometimes the skirt is softened with flat shirring or soft unpressed pleats.

These are the classic examples of the between season costumes beloved of the career girl, the lucky people traveling south for vacations, and restive stay-at-homes yearning for a change.

Despite their high colors, the use of unusual contrasts, and their definite hint of spring weather, these costumes are surprisingly warm and comfortable. Some are wind resistant. The suits are equally smart under fur coats or jackets; the matching topcoats slide over wool dresses or other suits. Suits and coats are sold separately.

Some of the suits and coats are gray with pencil stripes in white, copper, dull blue, or even dubonnet red. There also are fascinating gray mixtures in blurred checks and plaids. Diagonal woolens in vivid green are used for the jaunty little jackets and the topper, with the skirt of the suit in midnight blue. Cinnamon brown woolens are teamed with a matching topcoat of the same flattering brown of heavier winter wool. Clean-cut stripes are used for the topcoat to contrast with the solid color of the suit. Bright yellow toppers with red suits, bright blue with lemon yellow suits, violet with beige—anything is possible.

Many Inactive Nurses in Illinois Respond to Call Back Into Serivce

Several thousand inactive Illinois nurses have responded to a campaign opened on Dec. 26 to locate and qualify them for military or civilian duty, Miss June A. Ramsey, executive secretary of the Illinois State Nurses' association and special agent of the United States public health service, said yesterday.

Many of those who have replied to the 30,000 questionnaries being sent out are eager to reënter the nursing profession, Miss Ramsey reported. "Each of them, when returned to active or emergency service, will release a nurse who is eligible for service with the armed forces," she said. "The army and navy are demanding nurses at the rate of 3,000 a month. We must bring back and qualify for service by means of refresher courses those hidden, inactive nurses."

Futile Freeze.

A week or so ago we wrote of a candidate for the WAVES, name unknown, who crawled into a refrigerator in a Board of Trade restaurant in order to lose a degree of temperature and so pass the WAVES physical examination. The girl, Rita Davis, called to tell us the outcome. Altho she spent 10 minutes in the fish freezing room, which she found a nice nautical initiation, her temperature stayed with her.

Non-Regulation Talk.

A Chicagoan, W. J. P., was walking east on Washington boulevard the other morning when he found himself alongside a column of WAACs bouncing alonk with their platoon leaders. As they approached Franklin street the traffic light, no respecter of military prestige, changed to red. In true military style the leader raised her hand, presumably the signal to halt, but her company, busily preoccupied with the vision of a city coming out of its early morning lethargy, surged on and past the leader. Undone in this time of emergency and chagrined at being unable to halt her army, the leader raced after them and cried, "Hey, you girls, come back here!" They did.

Foresight.

A Chicago couple strolling along on the north side the other night neared a confectionery beside which stood a young man and a 3 or 4 year old miniature of him. Both seemed wrapped in thought, the former gazing into the distance with a frown that might have come from meditation of his income tax, Christmas bills, or the problems of paternity. The child was gazing intently at a toy brown horse in the confectionery window. As the couple came abreast, he turned to his father and said, "Daddy, what you going to get me next Christmas?"

Good Morning!

Mrs. Hadley didn't turn into a pillar of salt but she and Lot's wife had a heap in common.

Until the war had the nerve to come and muss up her life, the Widow Hadley's existence was a pleasant and well ordered one. She'd married the man whom she'd loved and from him inherited plenty of money, a charming home, and two splendid children, a boy and a girl. At least she thinks they're both splendid. Mrs. Hadley's aversion to seeing or hearing of anything that doesn't just suit her has kept from her the knowledge that her young Theodore is well on the way to becoming a first class drunkard. . . . Patricia, however, is different—a girl of charm, beauty, and character.

The story opens on a birthday party—Mrs. Hadley's. Friends and children are there to pay her homage. . . . The radio is turned on for the symphony. . . Instead comes a frenzied voice announcing the bombing of Pearl Harbor . . .

"Turn it off," says Mrs. Hadley. "Get something else!" But there's nothing else to be got. War has come to America. And to Mrs. Hadley!

But Mrs. Hadley won't have the war. She won't have her son go into the service. He does. She won't have her daughter doing canteen work and marrying an Irish sergeant. She does. She won't have her best friend spending time on first aid courses. But patriotism at last nabs Cecelia.

Mrs. Hadley's butler becomes an air raid warden. On the sly—but it comes out. The lady becomes alienated from the man who executes her estate—and loves her—because he refuses to agree with her ridiculous stand. And, before long, Mrs. Hadley sits alone in her mansion with only a parasitical doctor for company. You suspect him of being a Nazi sympathizer.

Then, something happens that breaks down all the barriers—and Mrs. Hadley gets in step with the rest of the world.

This is a very smoothly acted and interesting picture. I'm sure you'll like it.

Dr. Crane Will Address Red Cross Instructors

Dr. George W. Crane will speak on "The Psychology of Handling the Lay Group" at a meeting tomorrow evening of the nutrition and home nursing instructors of the Red Cross, to be held at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Commonwealth Edison building, 140 South Dearborn street. James B. Forgan, president of the Chicago chapter, will preside, and Miss Estelle Blatt, home nursing director, will tell of plans for the coming year.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 11.—Those huddles between Orson Welles and Alexander Korda mean that they're still talking about a joint production of "Cyrano de Bergerac." Orson tells me they won't get at it for at least two years. When he finishes "Jane Eyre" for Twentieth Century, he wants to do an important picture with a war background. Saturday night Orson showed up at Ciro's escorting Mme. Wellington Koo. They had a grand time. That lad certainly gets around. . . . I wouldn't have believed it possible—I don't yet—but I hear George Bernard Shaw has given permission for Monty Woolley [otherwise known as "The Beard"] to play his life on the screen. I hope, if they do get around to it, they'll leave in the scene of Shaw when he visited the west coast. He was surrounded by screen stars, asking him questions which he answered so bluntly that our stars, Ann Harding among them, fled from him in tears!

One Booster, Anyway.

In a telegram from Gabriel Pascal, he says, "I'm working on a story for pictures inspired and suggested by that wonderfully pure man, Henry Wallace, Vice President of this great country, which I expect to start in Holywood come spring." . . . George Brent will be in the coast guard in two weeks from now. The reason Vic Mature was sent to Iceland was that the coast guard doesn't like the kind of publicity he brought to it. . . . I don't think it will be many days before little Susan Hayward and John Carroll marry. They are certainly wild about each other—"wild" is the word. Yet when they were doing "Hit Parade" together, they hated each other with such a vengeance that once the little Susan slapped his face—which so often leads to love, or so I'm told. . . . That good looking actress, Lee Patrick, plays a WAAC in "Cross Your Fingers." . . . Incidentally, in that, too, Leo Carrillo has the best part handed him in a long time.

Timely.

With the new call for millions of pints of blood, Twentieth is hurrying up their picture on Dr. Norman Bethune, who founded the blood bank. . . . "Heaven Can Wait," but didn't. Don Ameche shaved off his mustache for it. . . . Paramount signed Bianca, the Jugo-Slav singer at New York's Casino Russe. She's a dead ringer for Lana Turner. . . . Ginny Simms may star in a picture Metro's trying to whip up around her radio show "Johnny Presents." . . . When Ella Logan and her husband, Fred Finklehoffe, were dining with George Jessel recently, a "ham" actor passed by, and Jessel remarked, "That fellow owes more money than Hitler has enemies." "You're telling me!" replied Finklehoffe. "His remodeled nose still belongs to me!"

One Hit Does It.

Don Raye and Gene De Paul, who wrote "Mr. Five by Five," were brought to Metro by Jack Cummings to do a number for "I Dood It." They looked so young nobody gave them a tumble—not even an office. One day they couldn't even get on the lot! But how different things are now, since they've turned in three numbers for this picture which has everybody humming. They've been signed to do "Broadway Melody for 1943" [formerly called "Very Warm for May"]. . . . What a birthday celebration RKO is going to toss for Joan Leslie Jan. 21! She'll be 18, and that means from then on she won't have to go to school at all—let alone four hours a day.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Walker of Kenilworth announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia, to Capt. Charles G. Rummel of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Rummel of Wilmette. Miss Walker is a senior at Northwestern university. Capt. Rummel is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

Mrs. King Louis Klimmeck announces the engagement of her daughter, Jane, to Cyrus B. Will, son of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Martyn Will of Highland Park. Mr. Will was graduated from Northwestern university and took postgraduate work at the University of Chicago and at Northwestern's technological institute. He now is with the army signal corps.

Prof. and Mrs. William H. Burger of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to David Michael Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Hardy of Kenilworth. Miss Burger was graduated from Lawrence college last June and is supervisor of vocal music in the Edgerton, Wis., public schools. Mr. Hardy, a graduate of Northwestern university, is awaiting his call in the army air corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard S. Brown of Madison Park avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to David O. Harris, son of Mrs. Samuel Harris of Peoria, Ill. Miss Brown is a graduate of the University of Chicago. Mr. Harris is stationed at Camp Butner, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Beaurline of River Forest announce the engagement of their daughter, Lois, to Ensign Donald R. Nelson of Chicago. Miss Beaurline attended Carleton college for a year and will be graduated from Northwestern university in March. Ensign Nelson, a graduate of Northwestern, is stationed in Maryland.

Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Patterson of Lake Bluff announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Conrad Hoffman. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: My particular problem is in the field of duplicate bridge. My favorite partner and I had quite an argument over the following hand:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

♠ K J 10 6
♥ K J 9 6
♦ K 7 4

♠ 9
♥ 10 8 7
♦ J 9 8 5
♣ K Q 10 7 5

EAST
♥ 5 4
♦ Q 10 6

SOUTH
♣ 9

"I was South, my partner North, and we bid the hand as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	6 spades	Pass
7 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

"We went down one for an absolute zero on the board. Now for our questions:

"1. Was North's three spade bid correct?

"2. Was South's four heart bid correct?

"3. Was North's five club bid correct? In this connection, it is fair to point out that we do not use any four no trump convention, preferring to use cue bids as ace-showers.

"4. After North jumped to six spades, was South justified in bidding the grand slam?"

The fatal seven spade contract was the direct result of slavish adherence to a system [cue-bidding to show aces] that requires plenty of judgment and discretion. South's opening bid, North's original response, and South's first rebid, were uniformly correct, but the same cannot be said for North's five club bid, even with due appreciation of the ace-showing system. I grant that North could not tell whether South's four heart bid showed an honest suit or merely first round control, but it was vital for him to find out, or at least to announce his strong support for that suit. Thus, a heart raise would have been far more informative to South than was North's cue bid in clubs. The crux of the bidding was for North-South to agree upon hearts, not spades, as the eventual trump. Twelve tricks were the absolute limit of the combined hands in spades, but 13 tricks were readily available with hearts as trump, assuming only that the outstanding hearts broke 3-2.

Obviously, however, South could not name the proper trump, hearts, without strong heart support from his partner. Incidentally, in view of North's actual sequence of bids, South probably should have been satisfied with the six spade contract.

Double-talk explained by experts

Double-talk, that satta atta sfatta sutta language, was recently discussed by three experts. One contends that the easiest way to learn this peculiar form of speech is to start out by saying "Buy Buy War War Bonds Bonds." Another claims this form, "Buy War Bonds Buy War Bonds." The third favors "Buy War Buy War War Bonds War Bonds." However you may wish to say it, Buy War Bonds—all you possibly can—today. Betrothal to Soldier at 18 Often Unwise

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The disadvantage of becoming engaged at 18 is that you may discover it is pretty hard, passing up other dates when your fiancé is removed to another part of the country, and you're left alone.

That's what "Red" is thinking. She recently turned 18, and finds being engaged to a boy whom she can see only once in three months is a trial. He has been transferred miles away.

"I have chances at other dates, both solo and in groups, and altho I think I love my sweetheart, I find it hard refusing them. There's one boy who is insistent with invitations, and he is a nice lad, too. If I weren't already engaged, I could 'go for' him in a big way. Then, when I go out with the group, I am the odd woman, which doesn't put me in a very nice position. The other girls won't let me dance with their beaux. I am wondering now if I have made a mistake and what I should do about it. What do you suggest? RED."

The very youthful engagement don't meet with our hearty approval, Red, for the very reason you outline. You cut yourself off from society, in a way. You young people aren't very casual about your beau-ing and sweetheart-ing. You get yourselves cornered with one partner, which means discrimination against the extra girl, a position she can't enjoy.

It's so young, 18, to get yourself socially marooned. Yours are the years for circulation, not retirement.

We feel that when a young woman, engagement ringed or not, begins to ask if she has made a mistake, it were better to dissolve the agreement and start anew. The boy in your case, Red, may find it hard, away off in a strange town and lonesome, to find himself committed to the girl back home. Couldn't you talk it out reasonably in letters? Ask how he would feel about your accepting dates, extending him permission to do likewise with your blessing, if he chooses. He may respond with the suggestion that, perhaps, you were too young to know what it's all about. Anyway, we'd work toward that conclusion.

Piano Symphony Falls Short of Standard of Professional Concert

The Chicago Piano Symphony orchestra, composed of 19 girls playing 12 pianos under the direction of Antoinette Rich, made its debut at Orchestra hall last night in a concert which lacked both the standard and the accomplishment of professional performance. The soloists were 17 year old June Olson, whose talent was dimmed but not extinguished by the garbled 12 piano version of Tschaikowsky's B flat minor concerto, and William Tabbert, young lyric baritone, who as of today is transferring his activities from the singing stage to Camp Grant. —C. The Stage

By Cecil Smith

A quiet week-end, with nothing new happening in Chicago's theater world, provided a chance for me to add Zasu Pitts' feeble diversion, "Her First Murder," to my mottled list of play-going experiences. While I cannot pretend that Claudia Cassidy's report of the opening lent wings to my feet as I approached the Erlanger theater, still I did want a copy of the program to add to my files, and Miss Cassidy hadn't asked for two of them when she was there.

Last week, with mournful good humor, Miss Cassidy told you, in words that will brook no revision, what this futile compound of labored gags is like. It is advertised as a "laff riot," and perhaps it is one. To the best of my knowledge I have never laffed in my life, and I know I have never participated in a riot. My inexperience in these matters is so complete that I may even have laffed at the Erlanger Saturday night without realizing I was doing it. I do know that I laughed three times.

Even to those who know how to laff, the play cannot be very satisfactory. Essentially it is a good idea gone wrong. The vaudeville performers who constitute most of the dramatis personae might have been infinitely amusing, if they had been handled with some flair for characterization and some gift for creating audience sympathy.

But as the play stands it is no more than one of those weak detective plots in which the author does not really play fair with his audience, for he does not give them enough legitimate material to work with. People fly on and off the stage all evening long, uttering laff lines, but seldom taking the audience into their confidence about any clews they may have discovered or any significant hunches they may have felt.

I hope Miss Pitts will not take it amiss if I say that while she is not exactly an accomplished actress right now, she has the makings of one. She could be an important and valuable player with the help of a director of resource and imagination. He could show her how to make her otherwise appealing vocal delivery more elastic, so that she would not seem to isolate her lines from the simultaneous movement and action of the play, and he could tell her when it is cute and appealing to be gauche and awkward, and when it is not.

Jumper and Shirtwaist Frocks

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESSES.

A princess style jumper and a shirtwaist dress are today's pattern offerings. They're versatile fashions for all hours of the day, and may go anywhere with assurance. With a minimum of sewing skill you can make both these models for your wardrobe.

Style No. 3077 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 35 inch material for jumper; for long sleeved blouse, 2 yards of 35 inch or 39 inch fabric; for short sleeved blouse, 1⅝ yards of 35 or 39 inch.

Style No. 2069 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 35 inch or 3⅝ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The Clotilde pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Days-of-the-Week Towels

BY NANCY CABOT.

These charming young creatures are busy as bees every day of the week. Their occupations are attractively pictured on days-of-the-week towels. Should one prefer to use the figures as wall pictures, the days of the week may be omitted and the silhouettes embroidered in an outline stitch.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of days-of-the-week towels, No. 587, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Home in War Time to Be Panel Discussion Topic

"War Comes to Chicago Homes" will be the subject of a panel discussion this evening in the large chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church at a joint meeting of the Women's federation of the church and the business women's groups. The speakers will be Miss Mary Murphy, chairman of the OCD committee on the day time-care of children; Miss Marie Bell, executive secretary of the Mary Bartelme club, and Dr. Bertha Shafer, director of clinics for the Illinois Social Hygiene league. Mrs. O. R. Sellers will preside. Preceding the 8 o'clock program, a reception and dinner will be held at 6 o'clock.

How to Calm Child's Fears Is Told Today

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Recently, you may remember, I promised you a series of parents' questions and answers, quoted from a booklet by the Child Study association of America, called "Children in Wartime." One was reprinted in a recent column. Today we have two more:

"How can parents avoid frightening their children and yet get them to take the necessary precautions for safety in case of air raids? My children walk long distances to school every day and ought to know about signals and what to do. I am afraid that giving them information will only frighten them more."

It is not what or how much you tell your children that frightens them, but how you tell it. Let your manner be sensible and matter of fact. Of course, you should give your children complete instructions, as these come from official sources. Then explain to them the reasons behind these instructions. Make what you have to say simple and brief. Don't go into a dozen or so remote possibilities. Don't repeat yourself, or beg your children to listen so as to be sure to understand what you are saying.

They get you the first time. After you have told them, go about your business and let them go about theirs. Your composure and ability to attend to all the familiar routines will calm them more than any number of sermons on being calm. Fear in children comes not so much from knowing the facts about possible dangers and how to meet them as from a "hush hush" atmosphere or from feeling that their own parents are jittery, and that something is being hidden from them.

"How much can my 4 year old understand about the war? And how can I keep him from hearing all sorts of frightening things from his older brother and his brother's friends and even from some grown-ups? Every once in a while when he sees me looking troubled, he says, 'Haven't they caught Hitler yet?'"

It is true that little children cannot understand what the war is about. They have no clear idea whether the fighting is near or far away, what it is like, or what it all means. They are likely to catch only a mood of terror. Therefore, "business as usual" and all the reassuring details and pleasures of their own small lives are the best things for them.

Young children will be better off if they don't hear constant war talk. But neither should we try to avoid the subject altogether. Perhaps you can put it up to your older son that he, and his friends, too, have a real "war job" right now in seeing that the younger ones don't get scared. That will mean watching their step with radio and conversations and seeing that others do, too.

Yet, we cannot completely protect even the young child from knowing that there is a war and that there is danger. In addition to thoughtless and idle talk, there are likely also to be grim realities, and every family must take precautions. We can't pretend the war isn't here, and we will have to meet our children's questions whenever they come at whatever age.

The attitude which seems to say "don't bother your little head about such things" always defeats its purpose. Not only does this attitude give the child a feeling that he is not being told about something threatening, which makes it twice as frightening, but it also cuts him off from the comfort of being in on the whole thing with his parents. Even a small child who is puzzled and anxious may get a great relief from occasional direct and open talk about the war.

Jewish Women to Give Fund to Naval Hospital

A gift of medical equipment will be made to the United States navy hospital now under construction at St. Albans, N. Y., by the National Council of Jewish Women as the first memorial to the founder, Hannah Greenebaum Solomon, it was announced here yesterday by Mrs. William H. Sahud, president of Chicago section of the council. Ten thousand dollars for the equipment, which will include a duplex respirator, two dual wave and one short wave diathermy units, and violet ray and X-ray machines, will be raised by voluntary subscriptions.

Plans for the memorial were presented thru a program memorandum to council members and friends gathered for a memorial service for Mrs. Solomon in the auditorium of the Medical and Dental Arts building. Mrs. Solomon was for more than 50 years an outstanding leader in Chicago in education, philanthropy, and civic betterment. She died on Dec. 7 at the age of 84.

TO AMERICA'S FIRST PLANE SPOTTER

We don't know who you were.

But the night you went on duty marked the end of the world, as most Americans had always known it.

You were a symbol of the realization that oceans are merely hours across by air. You were an admission that the barriers of land and water had been lifted. You were our first bow to the new global geography where distance is reckoned by the skyways as well as by nautical miles.

New York is closer to Moscow, by plane, than it is to our South American neighbor, Buenos Aires.

We are fighting the war today on that new global geography. We're fighting for remote pin-point islands in the Pacific because they can be potent air bases. We're fighting in the Aleutian fogs because from Kiska a bomber could strike at Detroit almost as easily as at San Diego.

The sea route from New York to Bombay is about 9400 miles. It is a 3-week voyage.

Today's skyway route from New York to Bombay by plane is about 7790 miles. Flying time: 39 hours.

There is no need to labor the point that this is an air-minded war. The newspaper headlines never let you forget it. And as you read them, remember that we must remain equally air-minded in victory.

The countries of this new, sky-linked world will be bound together more closely, geographically and physically, than our own states were at the turn of the century. Today, wherever you may live, no spot on the once-wide globe is farther than 60 hours away from your local airport.

FROM	TO	SURFACE TIME		AIR TIME
New York	Chungking, China	11,300 M	31 days	7500 M	38 hrs.
New York	Moscow, Russia	5700 M	8 days	4525 M	23 hrs.
New York	London, England	3700 M	5 days	3462 M	17 hrs.
San Francisco	Brisbane, Australia	8200 M	21 days	7050 M	35 hrs.
Chicago	Fairbanks, Alaska	4090 M	8 days	2730 M	14 hrs.

Approximate traveling time and distances as you have known them in the past and as you will know them in the Air Age.

Realization of how the plane has shrunk our world is vital to straight thinking about the kind of peace that can last. With this new conception of global geography, you see the world as it is—a clustering of nations whose nearness makes them inter-dependent and inter-related.

Without this new conception, you are looking at a world that used to be—a world where nations lived in the safety of remoteness, protected by distances that no longer exist and seas that have been narrowed to mill ponds.

But understanding alone isn't enough. If the global community is to live together in freedom and enduring peace after the war, the nations which deeply believe in freedom and peace must possess air supremacy.

To bring this supremacy about, first in war and then in peace, is the aim of the tens of thousands of men and women who make up America's aircraft industry.

QUICK FACTS FOR AIR-MINDED READERS

In 1929, Consolidated was already building America's biggest planes. The company is 20 years old this year.

• • •

Today Consolidated is building the B-24 Liberator, (4-engine, long-range, land-based bomber)—PB2Y Coronado patrol bomber, (4-engine long-range flying boat)—PBY Catalina patrol bomber, (twin-motored, long-range flying boat)—the C-87 Liberator Transport, (cargo-plane version of the Liberator bomber).

• • •

Consolidated was one of the first aircraft manufacturers to establish a training school for Army Air Forces mechanics and ground crew. "Camp Consair"—complete with barracks, officers' quarters, mess halls, laboratories, classroom buildings, and hospital—adjoins the Consolidated plant at San Diego.

• • •

In Fort Worth, Texas, where nothing but grazing land stood a year and a half ago, one of the world's longest aircraft assembly lines is now delivering a steady flow of 28-ton C-87 Liberator Transports. These planes are daily spanning both oceans with military supplies and personnel for our global fighting fronts.

• • •

Winston Churchill used a Liberator for his flight to Moscow. General H. H. Arnold flew in a Liberator from Brisbane, Australia, to San Francisco in the record time of 35 hours and 53 minutes.

It was a Consolidated Liberator, dubbed the "Gulliver," which carried Wendell Willkie on his round-the-world flight. The "Gulliver" was the first plane in history to span Siberia and cut across the Gobi Desert and Mongolia, the first to fly from China to the U.S. via Alaska. The 31,000-mile route blazed by this Liberator will probably become one of the regular skyways of post-war aerial travel and commerce.

• • •

Ford and North American are also building the Consolidated-designed B-24 Liberators. Similarly, in Canada, Boeing and Vickers are building the Consolidated Catalina patrol bomber.

• • •

Turning out great numbers of long-range bombers like the Liberator, is Consolidated's major wartime job. But we are not doing this job single-handed. More than 2000 sub-contractors and suppliers, in many parts of the U.S., are working round the clock to provide many of the materials and parts for this giant bomber.

ILLINI LIMIT BADGERS' KOTZ TO 11 POINTS

Minnesota Loses to Iowa, 48-41.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 11 [Special].—Illinois' Whiz Kids, with Andy Phillip scoring 24 points, romped to an easy 52 to 40 victory over Wisconsin here tonight before 14,000 fans. The Badgers cut down an 11 to 0 lead in the first few minutes of the game to make a contest of the first half when they trailed by only 4 points, 28 to 24.

However, the Illini again turned on the heat in the second period after Johnny Kotz had scored to bring the count to 28 to 26 and pushed in 10 markers in a row. That scoring spurt was too much for the Badgers and they never again were very much in the game.

Kotz Is Slowed Down.

While Phillip was pouring in 24 points for Illinois, Kotz, Wisconsin's ace, was having a bad night and could muster only 11 points. The game was rough in the second half, each team losing two men on fouls. The officials twice halted the game when roundly booed by the fans.

Kotz started the second half scoring with a basket, but three buckets by Phillip from as many angles, and goals by Ed Parker and Ken Mathisen sent the Illini far ahead, 38 to 26.

The Badgers climbed to a 40 to 34 score when Patterson scored twice and Kotz and Sullivan each from the side but Illinois speed and control of the ball gave the visitors three quick scores and the game was over except for some clever stalling by the champions in the final minutes. Lineup:

IOWA, 48; MINNESOTA, 41

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 11 [Special].—Iowa evened its Big Ten basketball series with Minnesota tonight, winning, 48 to 41. Co-Captain Tom Chapman paced the Hawkeyes with 14 points on four field goals and six free throws. Bill Lind collected 13 points for Minnesota.

The Gophers set out to dominate play and held a 13 to 5 lead midway thru the first half. A three man show for the Hawkeyes, featuring Theron Thomsen's long shots, Chapman's clever ball handling, and Ben Trickey's fast floor play, then sent Iowa into a 20 to 17 lead at half time.

Minnesota, with Lind controlling the ball under the basket after Iowa's center, Jim O'Brien, had been ejected on fouls, tied the score at 24 points and later caught the Hawkeyes at 35 points.

SKATING UNION CANCELS THREE NATIONAL MEETS

Voluntary coöperation by the American Skating union following the request of Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, that civilian travel during wartime be curtailed, was announced yesterday by Pete Miller, president of the union. Miller said skating union officials had voted to cancel plans for the national outdoor and indoor speed skating meets as well as the North American event.

Sites for the three meets had been selected with the national outdoor meet scheduled for La Crosse, Wis.; the indoor for Detroit, Mich., and the North American in St. Paul, Minn.

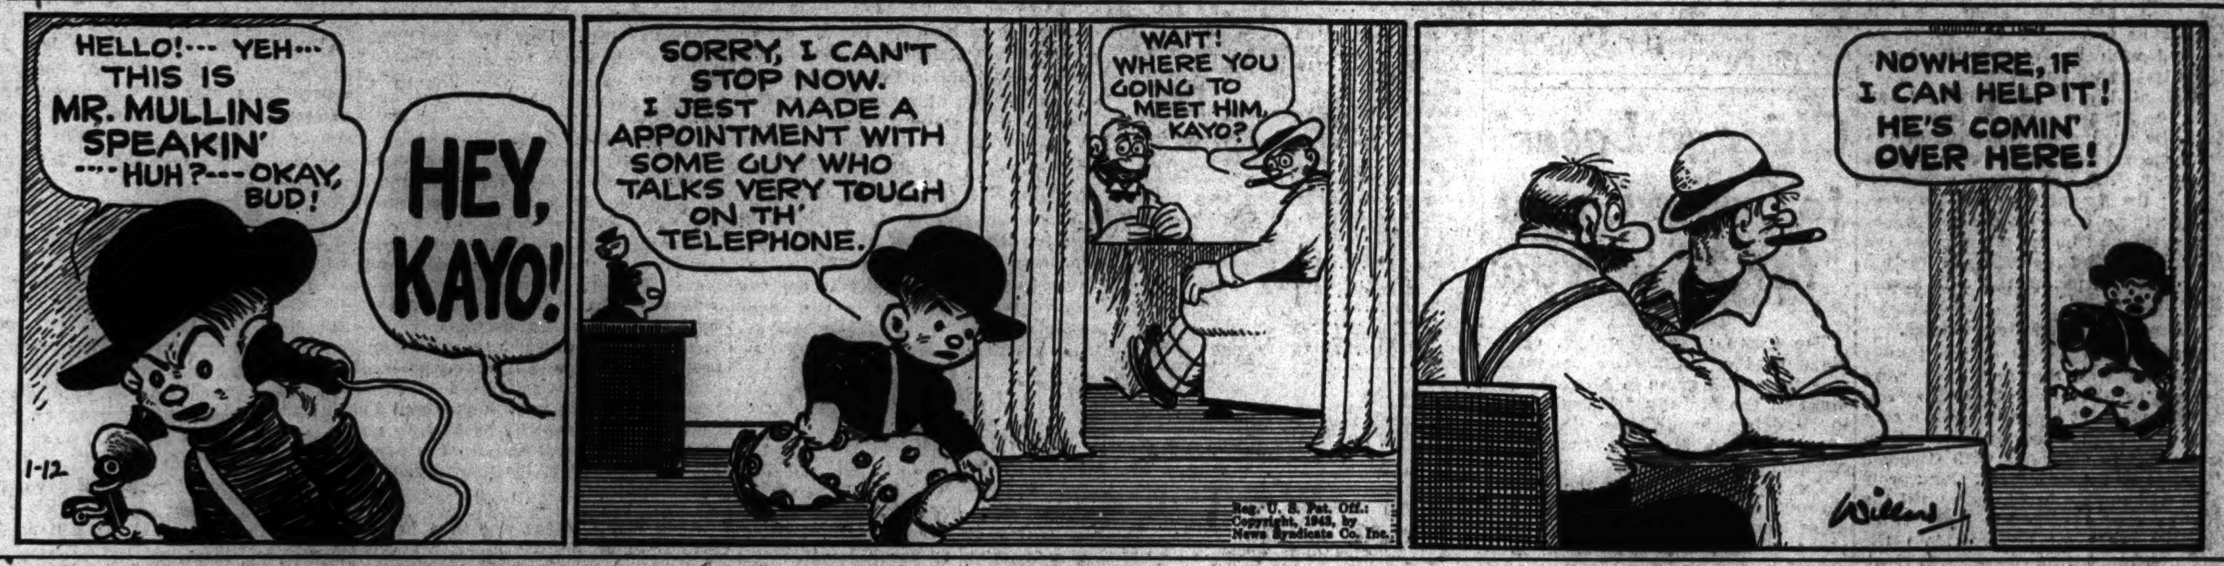
MOON MULLINS—A LONG DISTANT CALL



In the Wake of the News

[While Arch Ward, conductor of this column, is on vacation The Wake is being prepared by members of the sports staff.]

MAJ. JOE TRINER, former chief of the Illinois athletic commission and president of the National Boxing association, is in India, awaiting orders to report to a permanent base. . . . Jimmy Lillie, Chicago soccer star, who was reported missing after last summer's allied raid on Dieppe, is a prisoner of the Nazis. . . . Lillie, member of a Canadian unit, is believed to be the first American soccer player to enlist in this war. . . . Dawes Comins, Kansas City bowler and finalist in the recent national All-Star tournament in the Auditorium, has joined the Linsz recreation team of Cleveland, having been transferred by his company to that city. . . . Pvt. Horton Smith, the golfer, is at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. . . . Lt. Walter Hagen Jr., son of the old time star and one-time captain of the Notre Dame links team, is getting his mail at Camp Cooke, California. . . . Turn About's Fair Play Dept.: While Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gell of Anaconda, Mont., were on a hunting trip, beavers which they had been protecting in a lake on their property, invaded the front yard and felled their best shade tree. . . . The Gells promptly obtained a permit to trap the little animals and bagged five. . . . They will no longer be able to enjoy the shade of the missing tree, but a beaver jacket will help keep Mrs. G. warm. . . . Walt Lautenbach, Wisconsin's basketball guard, goes thru something akin to a hog calling act when he is guarding an enemy player who has the ball. . . . Johnny Kotz, the Badgers' high scoring forward, is as quiet on the floor as Lautenbach is loud. . . . Johnny never gives his wad of gum a rest while he calmly maneuvers around the floor.

O'Neal Adams, New York Giants' end, and Connie Mack Berry, Chicago Bears' lanky wingman, are teammates on the Oshkosh, Wis., basketball team. . . . Don Gutteridge, second baseman of the St. Louis Browns, is spending the winter as a personnel man at the Jayhawk Ordnance works, near his home town of Pittsburg, Kas. . . . And just to keep in shape, he is refereeing basketball games. . . . If the Cardinals are looking for a spring training site, restricted as they are to Missouri, what's wrong with Springfield, a city of 60,000 where the Ozarks begin in the southern part of the state? The Cards have a farm club in that city, a member of the Western association. . . . When Ed Frutig, former Michigan football player, was with the Green Bay Packers in 1941, he shunned airplane trips. . . . Now he's an instructor at a naval air base near Detroit and an excellent pilot.

GLEN ELLYN WILL SEEK 1ST VICTORY IN SILVER SKATES

Team of 35 Enters Annual Ice Derbies.

Thirty-five boys and girls from Glen Ellyn, Ill., will seek Silver Skates championships Saturday and Sunday at Garfield park in the 26th annual races sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. The Glen Ellyn A. A. A., which these youngsters represent, never has won a championship altho placing in several of the classes, but this year Burt Tilden, team manager, believes the club will score its initial individual triumph.

Dave Roll of Glen Ellyn last year was second in the boys' juvenile class. Dave went on to tie with Donald Laser for the North American juvenile championship. Laser was the Silver Skates winner in this class. Roll now is skating in the junior division for boys, 14 and 15 years of age.

Many Outstanding Skaters.

Tom Tilden is another of Glen Ellyn's stars. He fell in the 1942 Silver Skates Derby for boys under 12 years of age when he was leading the race. Tom now skates in the juvenile class and he is one of the favorites in this Derby.

Other outstanding Glen Ellyn skaters are Janet Rudolph and Marjorie Kennard, girls' junior class; Ted Tilden, Glenbard High school football captain and all around athlete, intermediate class; Red Hanson and Bill Gauger, who compete in the same group, and Victor Olson, boys' junior Derby.

Preliminaries Are Saturday.

Because there will be no national meet this season for the speed skaters an unusually large number of contestants will come from midwestern cities for The Tribune meet. Entries were received yesterday from Cleveland and St. Louis. Previously skaters from Cedar Rapids, Ia., Milwaukee, and Indianapolis had entered the Derbies. Six states: Ohio, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri, Indiana, and Illinois, will be represented in the events.

Preliminaries in four age classes will be held Saturday at Garfield park. These classes are for boys and girls under 16 years of age, the boys' midget, juvenile, and junior classes, and the girls' junior class.

MARQUETTE FIVE BEATS MICHIGAN STATE, 41 TO 32

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 11 [Special].—Marquette university's basketball team pulled away in the last half tonight to defeat Michigan State, 41 to 32. Ernie Kivisto, sophomore forward, scored 14 points and led the second half splurge that brought the Hilltoppers their fourth victory in nine games. It was the Spartans' sixth defeat without a victory this season.

Marquette led, 16 to 15, after a first half which was largely a battle of free throws. Lineup:

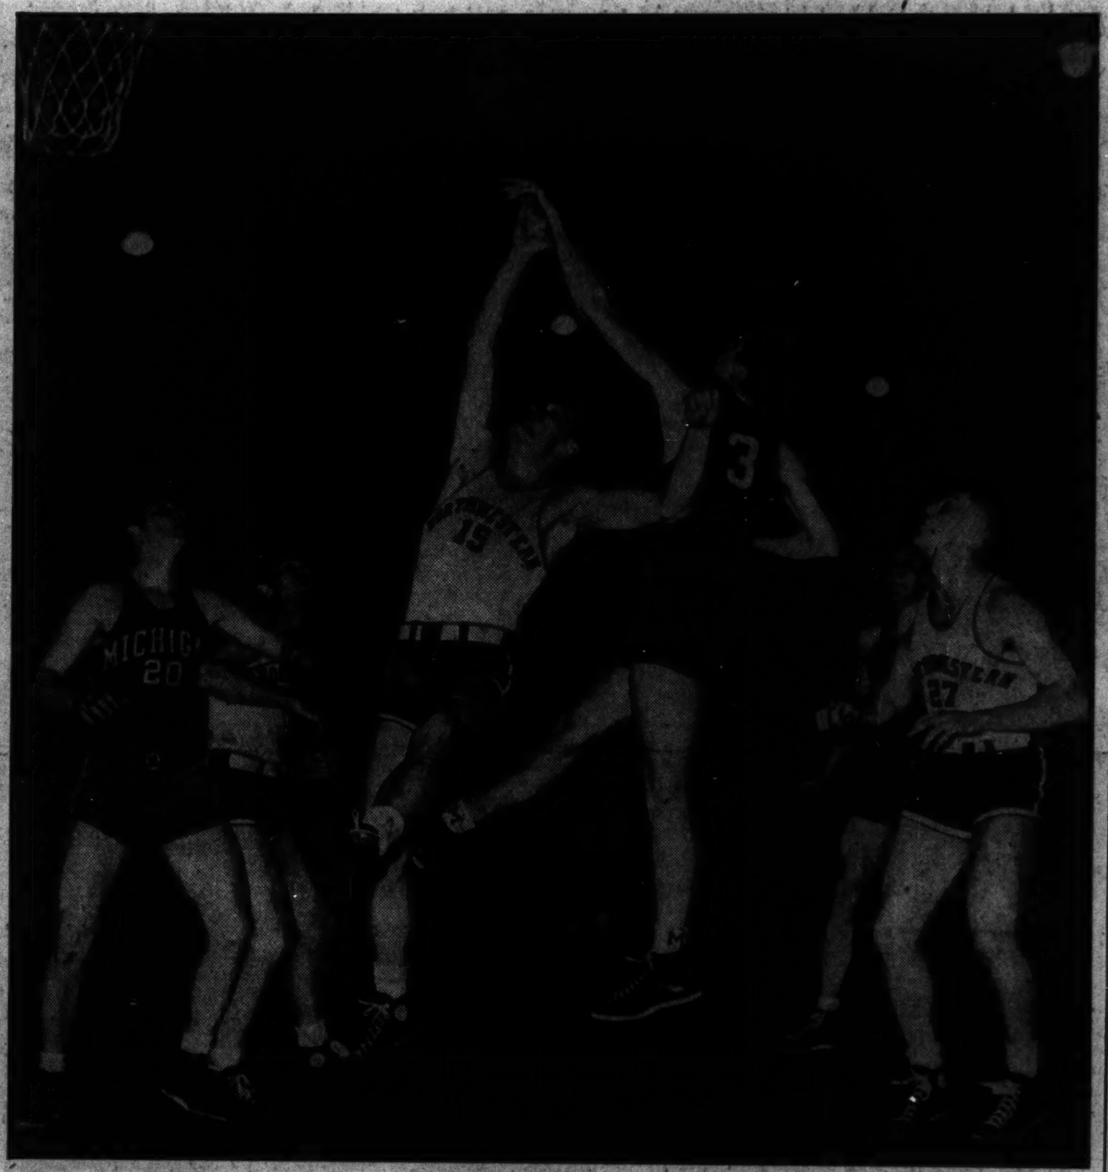
Northwestern's Wildcats Are Wild Again



Northwestern's Wildcats, beaten in all except one of their football games and nosed out by two points in their first Western conference basketball battle, came back last night to defeat Michigan, 49 to 32. In this action shot, Bud Hasse (15) goes high in the air in battle for the ball with Michigan's Gerry Mullaney (3). No. 27 of Northwestern is Nick Vodick and No. 20 of Michigan is Mel Comin. Illinois Turf Operators Talk Over Problems

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Illinois track operators gathered yesterday in the Palmer House to discuss methods by which horse racing may best be conducted in this state without interfering with the war situation. Among the major matters under consideration was the transfer of meetings from outlying tracks, such as Arlington Park and Lincoln Fields, to those more conveniently located, such as Hawthorne and possibly Washington Park.

Another phase of this new era of coöperation among the racing men was the discussion yesterday of plans for the recently chartered Illinois Turf association, an organization thru which Illinois tracks will cope with problems common to all.

Will Try to Work Out Solution.

"In everything we do toward the operation of race tracks during the coming season, our first consideration will be the manner in which these operations fit in with the nation's war situation," said Benjamin F. Lindheimer, executive director of Arlington Park and Washington Park. "This means, among other things, that we must strive to conserve transportation facilities and rubber. Arlington Park naturally would prefer to present its meeting at the Arlington Park plant and Lincoln Fields would prefer to run at Lincoln Fields. If this is not possible, however, we shall try to work out a solution by which they can operate somewhere else."

Maj. Williams Heads Board.

In addition to Lindheimer, yesterday's gathering included Matt J. Winn, head of Lincoln Fields; John D. Allen, president of Arlington Park; Walter Gregory, president of Washington Park; John D. Jackson, general manager of both Arlington Park and Washington Park; Charles Krutchkoff, president of Hawthorne; Charles Bidwill, executive director of Hawthorne and vice president of Sportsman's Park; J. E. Donavan, secretary and treasurer of Sportsman's Park, and D. C. Burnett, general manager of Fairmount Park.

Clement Nance, secretary of the Illinois racing board, was present at the gathering. The Illinois Turf association had been formed with the full encouragement of the board, which is headed by Maj. Ednyfed Williams.

Tho no definite program for a transfer of meetings was announced after yesterday's discussion, conferences will continue along these lines so that before the Chicago season opens on May 1 concise plans will be formulated for various eventualities. The next meeting of the Illinois Turf association will be held Thursday in Arlington Park's loop office.

De Paul Beats Loyola, 46-38, in Rough Battle

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

DePaul's Blue Demons last night defeated Loyola's Ramblers, 46 to 38, in the seventh annual basketball game for Catholic Youth Organization's needy youth fund, but the winners' margin hardly describes the tempo of the game, which was in keeping with the best thrill-producing traditions of this young series. The Demons' victory was their third in the yearly rivalry originated in 1937 by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil. In a preliminary, the St. Ignatius High school heavyweight quintet whipped DePaul academy, 38 to 13.

Loyola Fails to Hold Lead.

The capacity crowd of more than 3,500 in Loyola gymnasium was well rewarded, despite the comfortable advantage with which DePaul left the floor, both at the half and the conclusion.

At one time during the first half, Loyola held an 11 to 7 lead, but the Demons tied it with ten minutes remaining, and after suffering the Ramblers to take a one point edge on Bernie Carmen's free throw, took a lead which they never surrendered, emerging from the first half with a 25 to 18 margin.

Officials Call 38 Fouls.

The Demons threatened to make a runaway out of it in the second period, in which they went to the front by 15 points at 42 to 27, but the efforts of Jack Dwan, Capt. Jack Stanton, and a smallish freshman named Joe Morreale kept the Ramblers in the game right down to the finish.

The contest was slightly on the rough side, as attested by a total of 38 fouls, 19 to the side.

GRAHAM LEADS WILDCATS TO 49-32 TRIUMPH

Indiana Crushes Ohio Five, 61-31.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern's sharpshooters, with the exception of the reliables Otto Graham and Capt. Russ Wendland, were off their Stadium pace of Saturday evening. The Wildcats, however, were far too fast and too accurate for Michigan's basketball team and the Wolverines, after an even tussle for 15 minutes, were soundly trounced, 49 to 32, last evening in the Evanston High school gymnasium.

A near capacity crowd watched the Wildcats mark up their first Big Ten triumph in which Graham and Wendland garnered scoring honors and Bobby Jake, Bud Hasse, and Nick Vodick dug up the ball for passes. Jake didn't attempt many shots last night. The floor situations seldom permitted, but Bobby dropped in his first attempt. Vodick's floor work was vastly improved and his ability to get into the air completely fooled his taller opponent, Capt. Jim Mandler.

Hasse Stops Mandler's Pivoting.

Hasse guarded Mandler and held Michigan's leader to one field goal in a splendid exhibition of how to stop the pivot play. Mandler's other goal was made against Ronnie Schumacher.

The Wildcats counted on only 17 of their 72 shots, but they were deadly at the penalty line, getting 15 in 19 attempts. Michigan scored on 11 tries from the field in 64 shots, many of which were ineffectual follow-ups. Michigan's height produced control but the Wolverines lacked the ability to capitalize on this advantage.

For 15 minutes the teams fought on even terms. In this period the score was tied six times and Michigan led five times to Northwestern's three. After a 16 to 16 deadlock the Wildcats went ahead on Graham's goal from the side and they never lost the lead. Jake's first shot made it 20 to 16 and Hasse's free throw gave the Wildcats their intermission lead of 21 to 16.

It Becomes a Romp.

Wendland got a penalty shot and then a field goal to open the second half and he coöperated with Graham to open up a 10 point gap at 28 to 18. With 10 minutes gone the Wildcats were in front, 39 to 25, and then the bottom dropped completely out of the Wolverines' defense. Schumacher contributed a pair of goals to help Graham and Wendland and when the Northwestern captain left the game on personals, the Wildcats led 46 to 28. Graham's 17 points was tops for the evening. Lineup:

HOOSIERS WIN, 61-31

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 11 [Special].—Indiana's fast breaking basketball team breezed to a 61 to 31 victory over Ohio State tonight. The victory was Indiana's second over the Ohio State five and its ninth straight this season.

Five minutes elapsed before the Hoosiers found the range. Then, with Ohio leading, 9 to 6, they got going. Indiana was ahead, 35 to 16, at the intermission, and it wasn't until the late minutes when Indiana's seconds came into action that the Buckeyes were able to keep pace.

The Buckeyes had little chance after a basket by Dick Wittenbraker, junior guard, shoved Indiana out in front, 10 to 9. Great defensive work off the backboard by Wittenbraker and Ralph Hamilton, plus the shooting of these two, and Sophomore Center Ward Williams and Forward John Logan buried Ohio. Hamilton paced the Hoosiers with 13 points, running his season total to 107 in nine games.

Capt. Freddie Miller and Max Gecowets were the only Buckeyes who could hit the net. Gecowets had 8 points and Miller got 7. Indiana averaged 33 per cent from the floor, getting 26 baskets in 79 shots. Ohio State made 12 of 85. Lineup:

Formula for '43.

I think that if ceilings as matters of courses
Were placed upon gags about Bing Crosby's horses,
Or if powers that be would cry, "Hold, enough!"
On cracks about tires and rationing stuff;
If quipsters could only be made stop their mockings
At ladies who these days must paint on their stockings;
Taboo jokes on horse meat and things likewise drear—
I think we'd all have a much pleasanter year.

If columnists herewith would put up the bar
On all jokes and passes re Hedy Lamarr—
Of course it would mean new effort and tireless
For comics who put on those shows on the wireless;
But if humorous quickies 'bout WAACs and 'bout WAVES
Could just be consigned to nice early graves,
The outlook, I'm sure, would hold much more of cheer,
And I know we'd all have a much happier year!

Blackhawks Play Leading Bruins Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Chicago Blackhawks, spry and happy after Sunday night's 2 to 1 victory over their western hockey rivals, the Detroit Red Wings, are rolling toward Boston this morning where they are scheduled to play the Boston Bruins tonight. The Bruins on Sunday night resumed the National league lead by beating Toronto after taking a 7 to 2 licking from Montreal Saturday night. So it should be a contest of two teams flushed with the ecstasy of victory their last times out.

With all the Bostons' topflight rating, the Hawks have no reason to fear the Bruins on the basis of the four games the teams have played this year. The Hawks have won once, 5 to 1; the Bruins were victors once, 9 to 6; there has been one legitimate 4 to 4 tie, and in the other game the Bruins acquired the fifth goal for a 5 to 5 tie on a decision that still smells from herring.

Play Two Other Road Games.

Tempering the zeal of the Hawks somewhat was the fact they were obliged to leave their leading scorer, Max Bentley, at home to nurse a sore and a bruised leg incurred Sunday night in collisions with Giacomo Orlando and Alex Motter. Max probably will remain in Chicago until the Hawks return with the Red Wings Sunday night, or he may join the team en route if he responds to treatment properly.

After their meeting with the Bruins the Hawks will move up to Montreal for an engagement Thursday night with the Canadiens, who were on fire Saturday and Sunday nights. Saturday night the fifth placers astounded the hockey world with that 7 to 2 triumph over Boston and they came right back Sunday night for seven more goals as they were about beating the New York Rangers, 7 to 4. Following their match in Montreal the Hawks will move to Detroit for a game with the Red Wings Saturday night.

Carr Keeps Scoring Lead.

Lorne Carr, who emerged as the leader last week after a computation tussle that had his teammate, Syl Apps, on top for a few hours before press time, retained his lead thru Sunday night's games. Bill Cowley of Boston is in second place and Apps and Bill Taylor, both of the Leafs, are tied for third. Here are the top dozen:

	Goals.	Assts.	Pts.
Lorne Carr, Toronto	19	18	37
Bill Cowley, Boston	9	27	36
Syl Apps, Toronto	19	16	35
Billy Taylor, Toronto	11	24	35

Golden Gloves Examinations Start Jan. 22

The first preliminary physical examination for Golden Gloves boxers, who will compete in Chicago's sectional tournaments, will be held in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, on Friday evening Jan. 22. This examination will be for all boys except those affiliated with the Catholic Youth organization. A special examination will be held as usual for them at the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 East Congress street.

The date for the C. Y. O. examination will be set later by Jack Elder, director of C. Y. O. athletics, and a letter of instructions will be sent to all C. Y. O. boxers. The examination at Trafton's gym, where all other medical tests have been made for the last few years, will include all boys who send in entry blanks in the next seven days.

The south side trials in the novice and open divisions will start Feb. 1 in the St. Sabina gymnasium, 78th street and Racine avenue. The north side sectional tournament for both divisions of boxers will open on Feb. 3 in the Loyola university gymnasium. Each of these tournaments will determine novice champions and open champions for the two sections.

On Feb. 11 these winners will be matched for the city title bouts in the Armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. The eight Open division winners in these finals will represent Chicago in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 22, 23, and 24.

The entry blank, which is printed daily in these columns, may be used to file for competition in Golden Gloves.

PRITZLAFF GIVES PREP CITY TITLE GAME APPROVAL

August H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education for the board of education, last night expressed himself in complete harmony with the plans recently approved by Mayor Kelly for city championship basketball games between the winners in the Catholic and Public leagues.

"I see no difficulties at present that cannot be corrected for the presentation of such a card," Pritzlaff said in indorsing the proposal. "Certainly, the worthy nature of the undertaking—having, as it does, an end in the form of a contribution to the service fund—would warrant the effort necessary to correct any differences."

Cubs' Stockholders and Directors Meet Tomorrow

Stockholders and directors of the Chicago Cubs will hold their annual meeting tomorrow. According to General Manager James T. Gallagher nothing affecting the pitching staff, the outfield, or other playing positions is scheduled to come up.

Chicago Loses to Camp Grant for 27 in Row

The Camp Grant Warriors, champions of the 6th service command, won their 12th game in 13 starts last night in the Midway fieldhouse, and, in so doing, handed the University of Chicago Maroons their 27th straight defeat, 48 to 26.

The Maroons stayed in the contest thruout the first half, but the soldiers' speed and ball handling provided too much competition in the second period, and the Warriors won handily, despite missing a number of easy shots.

Chicago, despite lengthening its losing streak, played one of its best games of the season, snatching the ball off the backboards numerous times, stealing the ball and driving in for the basket instead of trying its usual timid long shots.

Pvt. Don Blanken of the Warriors, former Purdue forward, was the game's high scorer with 13 points scored off six field goals and one free throw. George Krakowka led the Maroons in scoring with seven points. Chicago scored the opening point of the game as Dave Zimmerman sank a free throw, but the Warriors retaliated with Blanken and Mickey Rottner, formerly of Loyola, leading the attack and climbed to an 11 to 3 lead in the first five minutes. Lineup:

HEAVY, CRUSTED SNOW CUTS DOWN MENU FOR DEER

Cedars Are Chief Food in Michigan Woods.

BY BOB BECKER.

The cedar browse hangs high this winter for many deer in the upper peninsula of Michigan, and heavy snows are going to make it a tough season for the animals. Fortunately, the men who are cutting cedar posts in certain swamps are giving some of the deer a big lift on their food problem. Every time they cut down a cedar the deer move up later to feed on the part of the tree that has been left on the ground.

We had an opportunity to see the home life of the deer in the cedar swamps when we attended the annual midwinter meeting of the Outdoor Writers Association of America held at Blaney Park, Mich., a few days ago.

Members from Ohio, Michigan, and Illinois who attended this meeting discussed war time conservation and fishing and hunting problems, endorsed the idea that every fisherman lucky enough to use his tackle this season should see that his catch is used for food, and then inspected Blaney Park's conservation program.

Travel by Snow Train.

One of the trips made by this group was to a heavy swamp where a number of deer are spending the winter. There was more than 15 inches of snow at the time and more was coming down when we started for the woods. With all ground vegetation blanketed by a crusted snow, the deer had to turn to their old food standby—the low branches of the cedar trees.

We traveled several miles to one swamp on a snow train, one of the most unusual bobsled conveyances we've ever seen. The accommodations on this woods train consist of an inclosed, heated car which looks like a miniature red caboose on runners, and an open, old fashioned bobsled. This outfit carried us into the cedar and spruce swamp via a logging road. Here we could see the deer walking around, and lying down in the deep snow.

Keep the Trees Trimmed.

Harold Earle, vice president of the Blaney Park Rod and Gun club, called our attention to the way the deer have browsed on the cedars. They've eaten many of the branches they can easily reach so that all the trees present a well defined and fairly even "browsing line."

Navy Pier Quintet Wins 8th Victory of Year, 38-31

The Navy Pier basketball team scored its eighth victory of the season last night by defeating the University of Illinois Chicago Department quintet, 38 to 31, in the Navy Pier gymnasium. Bob Custer, guard, led the attack with 10 points on two baskets and six free throws.

Muscato K. O.'s Johnny Denson in First Round

Sergt. Joe Muscato, Buffalo heavyweight, knocked out Johnny Denson of Indianapolis in the first round of a bout listed for 10 rounds in Marigold Gardens last night.

Denson, who weighed 186 pounds, was floored twice before the match ended in 2 minutes and 50 seconds. Muscato weighed 194 pounds.

Johnny O'Brien, Calumet City middleweight, stopped Al Sheridan, Indianapolis Negro boxer, in the third round of a scheduled six round event. It was the only knockout on the supporting card and a fitting climax to O'Brien's ring career for the duration. He will enter the army Friday. The 1,181 spectators gave Johnny a rousing ovation when he left the ring.

Jack Hill, Bloomington, Ind., substitute for Bishop Murphy, outpointed Young Joe Wolcott, Cleveland middleweight, in five rounds.

Al Nedoff, Gary lightweight beat Lou Hewitt, also of Indianapolis, and Bobby Berger, Chicago 152 pounder, conquered Bruce Henman, La Porte, Ind., in four round contests.

Altus Allen, ordered to report for possible induction in the army on Jan. 22, the date he is scheduled to meet Lem Franklin in a 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium, will be able to go thru with the meeting with Franklin, Dr. William Allen, his manager, said yesterday.

As a result, Altus was in a happy frame when he continued training yesterday in the new Ringside gymnasium in the loop by sparring several rounds with Nate Bolden. Bolden is paired with Lee Savold in a 10 round main event on the same card.

Franklin will return to training chores in the Ringside this afternoon when he will box with Hubert Hood and Lou Campbell. Clarence Brown, former Catholic Youth organization heavyweight champion, will be added to Franklin's sparring staff tomorrow.

Brown yesterday was matched to oppose Joe Maxin of Cleveland in an eight round event in Marigold Gardens next Monday.

YANKEES PICK ASBURY PARK AS TRAINING SITE

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The New York Yankees announced tonight that they would train this spring at Asbury Park, N. J., 65 miles from New York.

Selection of the site followed a personal inspection Saturday by Manager Joe McCarthy and Chief Scout Paul Krichell, both of whom praised the advantages of the location.

The American league champions will use the high school athletic field, which is seven blocks from the Albion hotel, where the players will be quartered.

SENATORS TO STAY HOME.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, has announced that the club will train at home this spring.

Griffith said the players would use some diamond in Washington other than their home field at Griffith stadium, which will not be in shape because of returfing after the football season.

832 BOWLERS TO SEEK $20,800 IN PETERSEN MEET

29th Tournament Will Open Jan. 23.

A record total of 832 bowlers will compete for a record purse of $20,800 in the 29th annual Petersen individual classic which opens Jan. 23 in Barney Hochstadter's Archer-35th recreation center, it was announced yesterday by Louis P. Petersen, sponsor of the event. The event is to run for nine days, ending Jan. 31. Each contestant will shoot for the top prize of $4,000. The total of regular and squad prizes will be more than 125.

Each bowler will roll eight games across 16 alleys, an assignment which has made the classic the most popular event of its type in the country. It is the biggest money event in all bowling. Three squads, each made up of 32 men, will compete on the first Saturday and Sunday. Two squads are scheduled daily the next four days, three on Friday, Jan. 29, and five each on the two closing days.

Admission to the event will be 50 cents per squad, and the entire gate will be donated to the Auditorium Theater Service Men's Bowling center.

MEAT OUTPUT SETS RECORDS IN MONTH, YEAR

Beef Production Off in December.

Meat production both for December and all of 1942 set new tonnage records, final data disclosed yesterday.

The department of agriculture reported that packers under federal inspection butchered 12,347,368 cattle last year, compared with 10,945,906 in 1941 and the previous high of 11,829,000 in 1918. A sharp rise in December also carried the hog total to a new record of 53,896,881 head. The former high was 53,334,000 in 1923, and the 1941 kill was 46,519,757. Sheep and lambs totaled 21,624,689, against a previous record of 18,124,531 in 1941. Calves numbered 5,461,042 in 1941 and 5,759,694 in 1942, highest since 1937.

Monthly Records Also Set.

Monthly records also were set by December slaughter of hogs and sheep. The hog total was 6,777,890 head, below the forecast by the department of agriculture, but above the previous monthly record of 6,600,000 in December, 1924. The December, 1941, total was 5,766,664. Sheep and lambs totaled 2,174,601. The only other totals above 2 million on government records were 2,126,042 in November and 2,343,807 in October.

The one dark spot was beef, whose output has been on the decline since records were set early in the fall. Tho the year's total set a record, volume dipped below 1941 for the first time since early spring. Butchering was 3 per cent under November and 23 per cent under October, the 982,403 cattle total being the smallest month since May, and compared with 1,004,418 in December, 1941.

HOG PRICES DECLINE

Increased supplies of hogs at all leading packing centers yesterday brought a general decline of 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds after prices had reached a 23 year January high last week. Top leads were bought at $14.85, and the average was $14.60, both down 15 cents.

The Chicago stock yards received 36,000 hogs, including shipments direct to packers, the biggest Monday total since exactly a year ago when 40,858 arrived. Eleven leading markets received 152,000 head, compared with 98,000 a week earlier and 143,000 a year ago.

Most good hogs weighing 190 to 250 pounds brought $14.65 to $14.75.

Steer and yearling sales were slow at weaker prices. Top loads brought $16.65, and the bulk sold at $14 to $15.75. Lamb prices fell 15 to 25 cents under pressure. Top sales were at $15.90.

NORTHERN TRUST, TITLE RE-ELECT ALL DIRECTORS

Directors of Northern Trust company and Chicago Title and Trust company were reëlected at the annual meetings of stockholders yesterday and will meet today to elect officers for the year.

Carl E. Lyon was elected a director of the Avenue State bank, Oak Park, to fill the vacancy created by the death of C. W. Stiger. Other directors and officers were reëlected.

R. G. Williams, vice president and cashier, was elected to the board of the La Grange State Trust and Savings bank to replace G. W. Thompson, resigned. The other directors were reëlected as were all officers.

All directors and officers of the National Bank of Hyde Park were reëlected.

First National Bank of Chicago and 55 other banks in the city and county will hold meetings, either of stockholders or directors or both, today.

Estimated Steel Output of Nation Gains 2.3 Pct.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Steel production will recover fully this week the ground lost last week and the nation's mills will average 99.3 per cent of capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated today. The previous week's operating level, partly reflecting flood conditions in some areas, was 97 per cent.

Claim Strength for Defeating Midland Plan

Opponents of a recently evolved proposal for settlement of Midland United-Midland Utilities claims and for distribution of the companies' assets to principal creditor groups yesterday claimed sufficient strength to defeat the plan.

Jacob I. Grossman, attorney representing a number of holders of Midland Utilities debentures, left for Wilmington, Del., to petition the federal District court for leave to intervene in the long bankruptcy proceedings.

Claim Necessary Strength.

The opposing group holds $1,772,500 of Midland Utilities debentures and, according to the petition, will be joined by the owners of another $468,000 of debentures. This would give the opponents more than one-third of the total debenture issue of 6 million dollars and block necessary concurrence by a two-thirds vote, it was said.

The petition asserts that terms of the agreement under which the debentures were issued were violated in connection with the pledge of securities backing loans made by bank and utility operating company creditors.

Wilkerson Opposes Plan.

Court recognition of debenture owners' rights to be equally secured would permit their repayment in full or substantial part, the petition said. Unpaid interest brings their total claims to $9,150,000.

Former Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson is associated with Grossman in the litigation. Well known persons included among the petitioners are Eugene R. Pike, Edward J. Fleming, Harry Grabiner, Daniel C. Green, Thomas E. Hostey, Irwin Walker, and Francis J. Lewis.

O'BRIEN ELECTED BOARD OF TRADE HEAD THIRD TIME

Philip R. O'Brien was reëlected president of the Chicago Board of Trade for his third term in the exchange's annual election yesterday, defeating G. Willard Hales by a vote of 370 to 249. Hales, a Chicago feed manufacturer, whose term as a director of the exchange expired this year, was a candidate by petition.

O'Brien's reëlection was regarded as an indorsement of his fight against government restrictions on open markets.

Charles R. Hartshorn, general agent of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, Toledo, O., has been promoted to assistant general freight agent with headquarters in Chicago.

Charles R. Hartshorn.

J. F. Forsyth of Chicago has been has been appointed vice president of Best Foods, Inc.'s central division, it was anounced yesterday. The firm was formed thru the merger of Best Foods company and Hecker Products corporation.

Mrs. Kathleen Catlin, formerly with Marshall Field & Co., has been appointed advertising and promotion director for Munsingwear, Inc.

E. A. Cudahy, president of the Cudahy Packing company, and other officers and directors were reëlected yesterday at the annual meeting of stockholders in Portland, Me., and the meeting of the board which followed in Chicago.

POLITICS CHARGE IN RENT CONTROL BRINGS HEARING

As a result of charges by Atty. Randolph Bohrer of irregularities in operation of the area and regional offices of the rent control division of the office of property administration in Chicago, Earl D. Howard, area rent director yesterday announced the area office will conduct a public hearing on the matter at 10 a. m. Monday in 675, 222 West Adams street. Phyllis M. Kelley of the office of price administration legal division will conduct the hearing.

Bohrer, owner of the Country Club apartment hotel, 6960 South Shore drive, in a letter addressed to Howard, charged that after he had been granted the right to raise rents in some of the suites he received an order rescinding it. He imputed the reversal to political pressure.

Bohrer then wrote to the Illinois senators and to Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], chairman of the joint committee on reduction of nonessential federal expenditures, asking for a congressional investigation. The property owners' bureau of the Chicago Real Estate board already has started an inquiry into the workings of the two rent offices.

Science Makes Speaking Easy at Dedication

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A robot dedication marked the official opening yesterday of the new $250,000 metals and minerals research building at the Illinois Institute of Technology on the near south side. The research building is expected to take a major part in Chicago's technical industrial progress.

Instead of the customary dedicatory oratory at the ceremony voices of the speakers came forth from the magic new steel recording wire developed at the institute, while the speakers smoked as they listened to themselves talk. Instead of a pretty girl pushing an electric switch to start things going, a new sound device did the job.

After a lunch in the new building, Dr. Henry T. Heald, president of the institute, instead of standing up to make a talk, quietly puffed on a cigaret while his voice, previously recorded, came out thru a loud speaker.

Announced Last June.

The wire recording development was first announced at the institute last June as the invention of Marvin Camras, assistant physicist. It records sound on wire as fine as a human hair.

Harold Vagtborg, director of the Armour Research Foundation, sat at his table smoking a cigar as his message came thru the loud speaker next.

After the brief recorded talks a weird sound of increasing volume came from the speaker. When it reached a predetermined pitch, as measured by a sound level meter, it was fed into a sound analyzer, which provided the impulse that started things moving in the building in somewhat similar manner to the operation of the "electric eye."

Magnesium Forging Done.

Eighteen minutes after that sound blast which activated an electric induction furnace, steel was being poured from the furnace and 38 minutes later iron was coming out of a miniature cupola. Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, head of the Chicago ordnance district, helped to pour molten iron into moulds.

In the interim, the staff gave a demonstration of the latest methods of forging magnesium. Special techniques had to be developed for handling the metal because of fire hazard.

A press having a pressure of 2,400,000 pounds was demonstrated next. Its control is so close it can be brought to a stop at the point of contact with a feather without crushing the feather.

Electroplating Research Shown.

The group visiting the new building was shown the research being carried on in tin electroplating. The Armour foundation already has developed a method which enables the amount of tin formerly used to coat one can to coat three cans.

Research work at the new metals building—much of which is now secret because of the war—is divided into 14 divisions, including steel, electroplating, hydraulic press, powdered metals, steel casting, analytical and others.

The new building, at 34th and Federal streets, is the first unit in Illinois Tech's new $3,100,000 campus development. It was designed by Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, noted Dutch architect, with Holabird and Root, Chicago, associates.

WAR CONTRACT TINKERING HIT AS WASTEFUL

Tax Excess Profit, Tool Maker Asks.

Renegotiation of government contracts by army and navy boards under authority of congress is increasing war costs, slowing production, and placing a premium on inefficiency, 1,000 members of the Associated Equipment Distributors were told yesterday at a "victory seminar" in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

In attacking the system, A. G. Bryant, president of the Bryant Machinery and Engineering company, Chicago, asserted:

"The inexperienced, sloppy manufacturer can let his costs run wild, can condone shop inefficiency and waste. By so doing, he narrows his margin of profit and is therefore less subject to attack by one of the renegotiation boards."

Lauds Object, Criticizes Method.

Bryant, a member of the war production board machine tool industry advisory committee and past president of the Associated Machine Tool Dealers of America, applauded the government's aim of preventing another crop of war millionaires, but criticized the renegotiation method as "probably unconstitutional."

Citing recent figures that both the army and navy renegotiation boards had accounted for about 125 million dollars in cash refunds on contracts, Bryant said:

"First, if these figures had remained in the profits of the various companies, at least 80 per ccent, according to present tax laws, would have been returned in taxes to the treasury department.

"Second, the companies that have made such refunds are going to have no desire in 1943 to cut their costs or even maintain their efficiency of 1942. From a selfish standpoint, they would prefer to have higher costs, smaller profits, and thus be less subject to the pressure of renegotiation.

Ignores Ceilings and Losses.

The system, he said, ignores the fact that many contracts are based upon established ceiling prices, and provides no redress to a contractor who may sustain a loss.

As an alternative, he proposed governmental steps to encourage lower costs and increased production, adding: "When profits have been earned that are excessive, let them be taken by the treasury department in an orderly procedure of taxation."

Delegates at the meeting represent manufacturers of all types of construction equipment. Their facilities are devoted almost exclusively to war, with a substantial volume of output being distributed thru lend-lease arrangements. Some of the companies have swung into manufacture of tanks and munitions.

The meeting will continue thru Friday, with several army construction officers on the speakers' program.

E. P. Phillips, Richmond, Va., was elected president of the organization.

Dues Strikes in Hard Coal Field Bring Plea from WLB

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP)—The war labor board took a hand in the hard coal strike today for the first time, appealing to the United Mine Workers to call upon all employés to resume work immediately, altho the dispute has not been formally certified to it. In a telegram to President John L. Lewis and the recording secretaries of 22 local unions involved, the board said:

"The strike of the miners which has interrupted the production of vitally needed anthracite in Pennsylvania is in violation of labor's pledge to the President that there shall be no strikes for the duration of the war and that all disputes shall be settled by peaceful means.

"Orderly procedures have been established by the government of the United States for the peaceful settlement of all disputes and your dispute can and will be settled under these procedures."

5,000 Return to Mines.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP).—Approximately 5,000 striking miners returned to work today in Pennsylvania anthracite fields, but an estimated 19,000 others continued a 13 day old government condemned walkout that has created one of the most critical hard coal shortages in years.

After repeated appeals from Fuels Coördinator Harold L. Ickes, the war department, and their own union leaders, 2,000 workers resumed production on a limited scale at three collieries of the Glen Alden Coal company, the industry's largest operator, while 3,000 returned to three collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal company.

Decisions to go back to work were reached at week-end meetings after Ickes denounced the strike as "intolerable" and Lt. Col. Charles W. Kerwood of the war department urged the men to return for one week pending settlement of grievances.

Chief of these is a dues increase of 50 cents a month, voted at the United Mine Workers convention at Cincinnati last October. The strikers contend they were not properly represented at the convention. They also want a $2 a day wage increase.

Pickets kept operations halted at the Huber colliery of Glen Alden where miners also had voted to work.

Committee Joins Plea

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Anthracite coal industry's governing committee of 12 members, representing equally the United Mine Workers of America and the mine operators, tonight called upon all striking coal miners in Pennsylvania to return to their jobs immediately.

STUDY ALLEGED FRAUDS IN ARMY AIR CONTRACTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—Robert P. Patterson, under secretary of war, today said indictments probably will be sought in connection with certain contracts entered into by the army air forces at Wright field, Ohio.

For some time, Patterson said, the contracts have been under investigation, and recently Lt. Col. William O'Dwyer was assigned to Wright field to augment the investigating staff.

"The aim," said Patterson, "is to unearth and investigate any matters indicating irregularities or frauds in connection with such contracts."

CHICAGO AREA SELLS HALF OF BOND TOTAL IN RESERVE DISTRICT

Winfield Ellis, director of the Chicago metropolitan district Victory Fund committee, yesterday issued detailed figures on sales of government securities during the December financing drive, showing sales in this area totaled about half of those for the entire 7th federal reserve district, which includes all or parts of five states.

Sales in Cook, Lake and DuPage counties aggregated $855,872,212, compared with $1,738,592,000 for the 7th reserve district. The metropolitan district organization well exceeded its 810 million dollar goal, with nonbanking sources accounting for 47.5 per cent of the purchases and banking groups buying 52.5 per cent.

Advanced Blanket Rating Given Material for Housing

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—A higher blanket rating of AA-3 was assigned today by the WPB to deliveries of materials for construction of most of the war housing projects sponsored by the national housing agency.

URGES BRUSHING AWAY SECRECY ON HOME FRONT

Must Trust Public, Says Murray.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Administrators of war agencies in Washington should differentiate between the need for secrecy on the war front and the home front, Sen. James E. Murray [D., Mont.] told the annual convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association tonight.

Sen. James E. Murray.

"On the war front," he said, "the key to successful strategy is secrecy and the use of propaganda to deceive the enemy. The enemy must never be allowed to know our plans of war supply and distribution.

Must Trust the Public.

"On the home front secrecy and the failure to trust the public are fatal. The public must always know what the government is doing and the basis of the action it takes. On the home front our administrators have failed to take the public into their confidence in connection with civilian supply and distribution."

The chairman of the special senate committee studying the problems of small business said the war was being fought with the science of "logistics." On the home front, he said, this art employed in distribution is in its infancy.

"We are just beginning to realize that price control, rationing, inventory control, and other regulatory programs, insofar as they apply to civilian commodities," Murray said, "are all techniques to be used for the single purpose of seeing that essential civilian requirements are met.

"We are still far from learning how to use these and other controls so as to get the right amount of goods and services to the right places at the right times."

I. Edwin Goldwasser, vice president of the Commercial Factors corporation of New York, told the meeting earlier that dry goods shortages would make it impossible to accumulate any surplus stocks in 1943.

"On the other hand," he said, "it

FIGHTING BLUE-JACKETS

. . . 40% of them train at "Great Lakes"

"Nor' nor' east . . . two points off the starboard bow, sir . . . speed about ten knots!" Sounds like an old salt, doesn't it? Actually, he may be a lad only a few weeks off a Wisconsin farm, or perhaps from a desk in Chicago's loop. Wherever his home, he's now one of the thousands of "boots" at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station on Chicago's North Shore.

Here, 1,000 miles from the nearest ocean, some 40% of the enlisted personnel of the United States Navy are receiving their basic training. Since Pearl Harbor, "Great Lakes" has grown with miraculous speed. Already 478 new buildings have been erected—a remarkable construction feat in which many Chicagoans have had a hand. By next July, facilities will be adequate to house and train 68,000 naval recruits.

After "boot" training is completed, sailors may be assigned to active duty, or may, if qualified, receive special instruction in such skills as gunner, machinist, radio operator, clerk, or yeoman.

The site for "Great Lakes" was donated by patriotic Chicagoans in 1904. And today Chicago may well take pride in this largest naval training center in the world—and in her men who are now striking terror to the enemy throughout the seven seas.

STOCKS UNEVEN; BUDGET FAILS TO AFFECT MARKET

SteelGroupAided byHeavy Finished Shipments.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Selected stocks enjoyed wide advances in today's market but the move was far from unanimous and many leaders finished slightly lower.

The 100 billion dollar budget, biggest in history, handed to congress by the President, failed to stir trends to any appreciable extent, the total having been discounted. Continued optimism over the war was helpful and further investment demand served as a prop for individual favorites. Profit cashing in the recently buoyant utilities was a handicap as was the problem of taxes in connection with the country's huge 1943 expenditures.

Stock Average Higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .2 of a point at 42, equalling the highest mark since Oct. 8, 1941, recorded Jan. 4. Of 790 issues traded, 355 were up, 224 down, and 211 unchanged. Sizable blocks of low quoted stocks raised volume to 810,960 shares compared with 801,150 last Friday.

Tobaccos came in for a late run as talk was heard of increased sales of the principal concerns in this line more than offsetting mounting costs. Heavy December shipments of finished products by the United States Steel corporation aided the steel group.

CHICAGO STOCKS GAIN.

Prices were higher on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday as 13 stocks reached new peaks for 1942-'43. Of the 101 issues traded, on turnover of 30,000 shares, 56 advanced, 18 declined, and 27 were unchanged. Chicago corporation, the volume leader, was unchanged.

BONDS CONTINUE GAINS.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—The bond market retained a large part of its recent advancing power today despite profit taking in some rails after the wide rise of last week. It was an active session, altho sales of $12,179,300 were slightly under the big Friday turnover of $15,150,400.

CORN PRICES SET FIVE YEAR HIGHS ON LIGHT SUPPLY

Wheat Hits 5 Year Peaks Before Closing Lower.

Corn again led Chicago Board of Trade grain markets yesterday, with all futures and cash corn selling at $1 or over at one time at the highest prices in five years as country marketings remained relatively small despite strong demand. Wheat deliveries also advanced to their top levels since 1937 before closing fractionally lower, and other grains, with the exception of May rye, reached their season's peaks.

At the day's high May corn sold at $1 a bushel. In the cash market, choice quality No. 1 yellow brought $1.02. At the close, the May future was up ⅝ cent, July ⅜ cent and September, unchanged.

Corn Opens Irregularly.

Corn futures opened irregularly. Heavy buying later in the session lifted deliveries to new peaks, but a reaction developed when selling appeared on the advance.

Wheat futures closed ¼ to ⅜ cent lower after the May delivery had reached $1.41⅝ a bushel. Demand was limited altho a large flour manufacturer was reported to have made large purchases, presumably hedging against sales of flour to the government.

Oats Influenced by Corn.

Oats futures closed ⅝ to ¾ cent higher, with May reaching a top of 57⅝ cents, and rye was up ⅝ to ½ cent. Oats were influenced by the strength in corn, and scattered buying was sufficient to offset selling by commission houses and local traders.

PREDICTS MORE FRESH FOODS IN GROCERY STORES

Jewel Tea Co. Officials Discuss Rations.

With the rationing of canned fruits and vegetables to be put into effect shortly, consumers may look to a rapid expansion of fresh fruit and vegetable departments in retail food stores. M. S. Morse, vice president in charge of store operations of the Jewel Tea company, made this prediction yesterday at a meeting called by the Chicago Association of Manufacturers' Representatives in the Hotel Sherman, attended by leaders of the midwest food industry.

"No restrictions are expected for nutritious fruits and vegetables which do not involve excessive farm labor," Morse said. "Unusually large displays of fresh items in season soon will be conspicuous in most stores. These displays will play an important part in encouraging the public to use these products, which are readily available and are important for balanced diets."

Depends on Versatility.

C. A. Larson, Jewel vice president in charge of merchandising, asserted the ability of food retailers to feed the public will depend largely upon the versatility of American food producers. Manufacturers, he said, are replacing many of the items being withdrawn from the market with new products and new substitutes. He said it was surprising how quickly the public not only accepts and uses substitute products, but also the ingenuity shown by consumers in substitutes they themselves develop.

Another Jewel executive, G. L. Clements, executive vice president, said that the food industry would have to coöperate in explaining to the public the many government regulations affecting the industry.

Says Officials Trying.

"My personal experience in working with many representatives of government," he said, "is that as a group there is a desire to do their best possible for the public."

F. J. Lunding, president of the Jewel Tea company, said the food industry was faced with six major problems: civilian supply, man power, price structure, rationing, transportation, and nutrition. "The first responsibility of the food retailer is to give the consumer the best in merchandise, price, service, and information," he asserted.

CROP PROSPECTS REPORTED BRIGHT FOR THIS SEASON

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11 (AP).—In its first crop report of the new year, the department of agriculture today said that prospects for heavy production of farm products had never been brighter at this season.

"Moisture conditions are now favorable in most of the west," the report declared. "Winter grain entered the winter in unusually good condition; supplies of improved seeds, such as hybrid corn, certified potatoes and adapted varieties of soy beans, are the largest on record, and continued heavy use of fertilizers is indicated."

Nash Plant Will Make Airplane Engine Parts

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 11 [Special].—John Weiland, plant manager of the Seeman body division of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation, announced today that the plant will reopen shortly for the manufacture of precision parts for Pratt & Whitney aircraft engines. The plant, which made automobile bodies, has been closed since Jan. 30, 1942.

COURT REFUSES TO HALT NLRB'S KAISER HEARING

Examiner One of 4 Charged with Prejudice.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 11 (AP).—Federal Judge James A. Fee today denied a Henry J. Kaiser Shipbuilding company request for a 10 day restraining order against a national labor relations board hearing on unfair labor practice charges.

Judge Fee said he had no jurisdiction over the hearing, because congress had taken labor disputes out of the hands of district courts, but said he would conduct a show cause hearing on an interlocutory injunction and would set the time for the hearing tomorrow.

[A restraining order would be effective at once. An interlocutory injunction is intermediate, not final, and is taken during the progress of an action.]

The injunction was asked after an NLRB hearing opened before Robert N. Denham, Washington, D. C., trial examiner.

Four Accused of Prejudice.

The Kaiser complaint charged Harry A. Millis, chairman, Gerald D. Reilly, and William M. Leiserson, NLRB members, and Denham with prejudice.

NLRB is hearing charges of unfair labor practices against three Kaiser shipyards here and in Vancouver, Wash. The CIO claims the companies entered on AFL closed shop agreement before representative crews were hired at the yards and without certification elections.

The injunction plea was based on complaints of Edgar F. Kaiser, resident manager of the Portland yards, and Harry F. Morton, Oakland, Cal., vice president and head of the Kaiser company legal department. NLRB on Jan. 5 refused a Kaiser plea to have Millis and Reilly disqualified on grounds of bias and prejudice.

Morton today asked that the two board members and the examiner be disqualified. Denham ruled he has no jurisdiction to disqualify them but offered to hear evidence against himself.

Expected to Set Precedent.

The Kaiser attorneys did not press the effort against the examiner but persisted in demands that some method be allowed them to continue the fight against Millis and Reilly.

The hearing is expected to set a precedent for war plants, particularly on jurisdictional disputes between unions. Some 60,000 workers are involved.

The Kaiser yards, which set national ship production records last year, launched two more Liberty freighters as the NLRB session opened. Denham warned attorneys nothing would be permitted during the hearing to interfere with production or result in loss of a single man hour.

AFL leaders repeatedly have protested the NLRB action would revive interunion warfare and result in raids among rival unions in west coast shipyards.

Standard Gas Given Until Aug. 8 to Sell Subsidiaries

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission today extended until next Aug. 8 the period during which Standard Gas and Electric company must dispose of its interest in 15 subsidiaries, as directed by the commission Aug. 8, 1941.

Murray Says Government Must Trust People.

may be said with some authority that the government, up to the present, has not given any serious consideration to the rationing of wearing apparel."

Edward T. Dickinson Jr., executive director of the planning committee of the war production board, said 1943 would prove to be a year of "challenge to the ingenuity" of retail merchants, as well as a challenge to their patience. He said the most difficult problem facing all businesses would be the shortage of man power.

Dr. Lewis H. Haney, professor of economics at New York university, told buyers that "the virtual dismissal of Leon Henderson as head of OPA marks the practical abandonment of the attempt to fight inflation by sitting on the safety valve."

Campaigns Called Problem.

"With the departure of Henderson," predicted Haney, "the policy of fixing the prices of thousands of finished goods will pass, and with it will go the policy of spending our money to subsidize producers who are squeezed between price ceilings and the rising costs of production."

Dr. David R. Craig, president of the American Retail association, said the 1,770,000 retail stores of the country are faced with a major problem in coöperating with the government's many war time drives.

He said that no method had yet been devised to transport, mount and display the millions of poster advertising campaigns which pour from the office of war information each day.

NONRESIDENT TAXES.

I was out of the United States for more than six months during 1942, but was employed by an American firm and received my salary from home. Is that income taxable?—A. W.

Answer: When a citizen of the United States is out of the country for more than six months during the year, income earned while outside is not taxable by the United States government, if the individual is employed by an American company. Salaries of government employés are taxable, regardless of residence.

The six months nonresidency need not be consecutive, but only full calendar months of absence will be recognized for computing taxes. The rule does not apply to a citizen who comes back to the United States after having been a resident of a foreign country for at least two years. After payment of 1942 taxes a full year of foreign residence will be necessary for exemption.

If a citizen conducts a business abroad the income is taxable on the same basis as businesses operated within the United States, and is subject to taxes of the foreign country.

A citizen engaged in business in a possession of the United States is taxed on income derived from sources within the United States or from the government. Other income is exempt if 80 per cent of gross income for the last three years was derived from sources in the possession and if 50 per cent of gross income came from conduct of business in the possession.

ARREARS.

What are the accumulations on the 6 per cent series A preferred stock of the Atlantic company?—T. P.

Answer: After payment Jan. 2, 1943, of $1 a share, dividend arrears on the 6 per cent series A preferred stock of the Atlantic company totaled $15.50 a share. The company operates a brewery, an ice manufacturing plant and cold storage facilities, and sells refrigerators and coal in southeastern cities.

OPERATIONS.

What are the present operations of the American Bantam Car company?—A. T.

Answer: Normally, the company manufactures small, low priced passenger automobiles and trucks. Since early 1942 the company has been devoting its entire facilities to war production.

GENERAL MOTORS GATHERS BILLION POUNDS OF SCRAP

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11 (AP).—General Motors corporation announced today that in the 11 months ended Nov. 30 its scrap salvage campaign had netted more than a billion pounds of metal.

B. D. Konkle, vice president in charge of manufacturing, said this sent back to mills and smelters enough scrap to put 33,000 tanks in the field or make 28 million .50 calibre machine guns.

November collections netted 98,583,479 pounds, an increase of 4 million pounds over October, and included 92,358,206 pounds of iron and steel. Scrap created in making arms material accounted for 89,663,117 pounds in November.

UTILITIES FIND METAL.

Scrap drives and continuous salvage programs of the electric utility companies in 1942 netted 24 million pounds of copper and large quantities of aluminum, brass, iron, steel, lead, zinc, rubber and other scarce and urgently needed materials, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. The copper turned over represented approximately 16 per cent of normal annual requirements of the industry.

PRIVATE HOUSING REVIVAL AFTER WAR PREDICTED

Herbert Emmerich, commissioner of the federal public housing authority, said yesterday there is need for much more housing, despite large occupancy of public housing projects, and predicted that after the war there will be a widespread revival of private housing.

Emmerich asserted at a conference of the National Association of Housing Officials that the question of who did the needed job—public housers or private interests—was irrelevant. He said that the administrator of the national housing agency and the FPHA, however, both will lay plans based on the expectation of a heavy privately financed home building program.

Hearst Attorneys Request Ouster of Voting Trustee

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 11 (AP).—Attorneys for William Randolph Hearst asked the Delaware Chancery court today to remove Clarence J. Shearn of New York as voting trustee of American Newspapers, Inc., Hearst holding company, and recognize five others as voting trustees. The bill of complaint said Shearn, made trustee in 1937 as holder of Hearst's 10,000 shares of capital stock and 85,000 shares of first preferred, refused to recognize a reëxecution of the trust with Edward H. Clark, John W. Hanes, Martin Huberth, Richard E. Berlin, and Henry Mackay Jr. as trustees.

HOUSEHOLD FINANCE

Men! Women!
$25 for 30 Days Costs Only 75c
Now women as well as men may borrow from $10 to $300 on the strength of their jobs. Both office and factory workers are entitled to "while you wait" service if they phone ahead or come in with proper identification and evidence of employment. Even war workers on new jobs are eligible. Based on our monthly rate of 3% on balances of $150 or less and 2½% on that part of the unpaid balance above $150, the cost on short term loans, as illustrated above, is quite reasonable.
